Vacation's Just Around the Corner—Need Some Books?

The rest of the world may have all kinds of delightful things to fill your vacation days, but one thing you'll miss (and we blush as we admit it) is the big friendly old Intimate.

Time's running out, and now is the time to stock up on emergency rations of brain fodder.

Might start among our used paperbacks. They're easy to pack, light to carry, and cheap enough that you can be big-hearted and trade 'em off to the natives, after you've read the juice out of them. Prices start at two for a quarter, but chum, they're real lifesavers when you get out where the corn grows tall.

There's plenty of nice light-reading in our 29c shelf. It's mostly book club selections, contributed by members who forgot to send in their "don't-want-it notice, but it's mighty pretty and goes down easy—and we heard one chap last summer who traded his copy off to a buddy in Tanganyika for something out-of-this-world nice. A mango, perhaps?

If you'd like pleasure-reading in your special field, you're likely to find it anywhere from the 68c shelf on up to the ceiling. One thing you can be sure of is that it will be off the beaten track, fun to read, and it'll be priced fairly.

Chum, we know that biddies and bears, Alps and alligators, romance and adventure, and visions of sugar-plums are dancing through your head.

Let 'em dance, but remember, bookshops are scarce out in the wild blue yonder, and now's the time to stock up that intellectual larder!

Duke Wins ACC Golf Title

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (AP) — Wake Forest sophomore Johnny Harris struggled to an 84 yesterday after an opening round 70 but still managed to tie Duke's Fred Ewald at 154 for the individual title in the Atlantic Coast Conference Golf Tournament.

Duke won the team title with four players in the top seven, totaling 787 strokes to runner-up Wake Forest's 795. Defending champion North Carolina was third at 800.

Ewald finished with 78 after an opening 76.

The 154 for Harris and Ewald, who played together, was the highest winning score since the tourney began in 1954. The previous high was 145 by Wake's Jay Sigel in 1963.

This was the seventh time a Wake Forest golfer has won or shared the individual crown since Arnold Palmer won it for the Deacons in 1954. Tourney officials toughened pin placements and pushed tees back on several holes Tuesday to make the County Club of North Carolina course play harder and longer than its 6,750 yards of Monday.

Duke's Tom Daluck and Dave Robinson of North Carolina followed Harris and Ewald at 156, and Danny Herring of Wake Forest and Duke's Tom Hackett came next at 157.

North Carolina's John Baldwin, the defending individual champ, shot 82-78 to tie four other players at 160.

Harris started with a birdie on the first hole but double-bogeyed two, had bogeys on three, four and five, and another double bogey on six to turn seven over par.

Ewald, meanwhile, birdied five and seven to turn one under. He then three-putted 10, 11, and 13 for bogeys and bogeyed 14 and 15 to slip even with Harris.

Harris double-bogeyed 16 where Ewald got a bogey, then parred 17 while Ewald had a bogey.

On 18, Harris's third shot went over the green and he bogeyed by missing a short putt.

Ewald trapped his second, failed to get out on his first blast, but one-putted for a par and the tie.

Leading Scores:
Johnny Harris, WF 70-84-154
Fred Ewald, Duke 76-78-154
Tom Daluck, Duke 73-83-156
Dave Robinson, UNC 80-76-156
