Fire Ravages Building Second Time

Kemp Blaze Adds Heat To Hot July

By BRIAN RAY

The sign in the window said "Fire Sale," and for a while it looked like they were giving Thick, black smoke belched from behind the old, blue-grey, two-story building last Monday afternoon. Within moments students and citizens swarmed onto E. Franklin St. Kemp's was on fire again, and it promise to be exiciting.

A bright red fire truck moved through the scattered people and stopped abruptly in front of the blazing structure. A tall, white-haired old man leaped from the truck and began pointing and shouting. Two hoses snaked from the truck-men tugging at their ends. Another fire engine was right behind.

Like iron filings to a magnet the people walked and ran to the scene. Some of them ran to the aid of the firemen. grasping the hoses, gritting their teeth. and yanking. Others stood back pointing here and there, their eves shining with discovery, talking quickly and brokenly.

"How did it start," one student asked another rapidly?

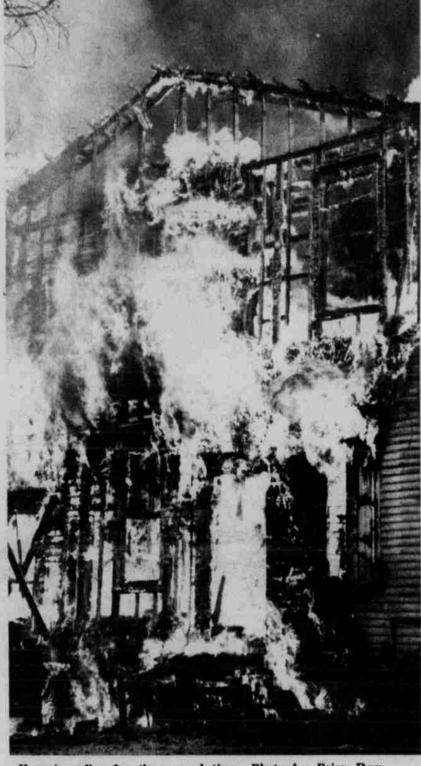

"Spontaneous combustion." the other responded. "That place is a fire trac-already condemned."

"I heard it had just gotten a ten-day extension from being torn down," the first said. It was a 30-day extension.

A few people ran down the side street to the back of the building. A student tried vainly to block the back alley's entrance.

"Stay back! Don't nobody go back there!" he whined.

(Continued or Page 5)

Kemp's, afire for the second time-Photo by Brian Ray

Week's Second Fire Starts In Debris Of Old School

By ED FREAKLEY Tar Heel Co - Editor

Police are looking for two 12 or 13-year-old boys, who were reportedly seen in the back of the building shortly before the fire began at 4:30

The amount of damage is undetermined. The fire blistered the paint on the front of the Presbyterian Church.

cracked the east wall of the Dairy Bar, destroyed an air-conditioning unit on the Dairy

Bar roof, singed power lines and the basement of the Dairy

Bar suffered water damage.

The May 6, fire which caused an estimated damage of several hundred thousand dollars is also still undetermined.

That blaze gutted the rear of

Chez Kemp Ltd. and Courts

Drug Company which were located in the Patterson Building owned by Milton Aberne-thy of New York City.

Chapel Hill Fire Chief G. S.

Baldwin praised University students and townspeople who aided his department in bringing the fire under control. He estimated that 20 to 25 persons took an active part in fighting the blaze for the hour

an half it took to bring it

Monday's fire, which gutted the H. H. Patterson Building for the second time in 10 weeks, brought a promise that the remains of the building would be torn down by this weekend.

Following the first fire the building was condemned and was supposed to have been torn down before Tuesday. But an extension had been granted until Aug. 10.

Another fire started last night about 9:30 in the ruins of the old Chapel Hill Elementary School. The flames were just getting started when fire - fighting equipment arrived.

The building is being torn down and the lot cleared. People gathered quickly.

but the excitment only lasted a few minutes. One fire-man muttered, "This one sure didn't start by itself."

Town Manager Robert Peck said earlier this week that either the building's owner or the town would tear down and remove what is left of this "dangerous hazard."

Investigation into the cause of the fire is continuing. Officials have speculated that the blaze was started by spontaneous combustion or by an ar-

"We want to thank all the people who helped us." Baldwin said. "Many of them stayed the whole time and worked at close range with no protection."

under control.

Police officials also praised students. Patrolman Harold Smith, who spotted the fire and turned in the alarm, said William Deans, a pharamcy student from Wilson, directed traffic on Rosemary Street for more than an hour during the Baldwin said one of his men had his arm blistered from the heat and another hurt his leg. "I've been fighting fires for 28 hears," he said, "and that was one of the hottest."

A ladder truck and three pumpers were at the scene. The tin roof on top of the old building handicapped firemen. Baldwin said the man atop the aerial ladder could not shoot through to the flames until the roof finally fell through.

After the first fire Abernethy was given 60 days, until July 10, to demolish the building. Through his Chapel Hill representative Kemp Nye he was granted a 30 - day extension - until Aug. 10 - to remove the building.

Peck said the extension had been revoked and the building would come down immediate-

Coupon Pian Stuatea

UNC Food Services Director George Prillaman said yesterday that he will "seriously study" a meal coupon

the plan the student would

This book could be used at Chase Hall, Lenoir Hall, the Pine Room or the Monogram Club at any time.

"This plan would give the student a 10 per cent savings," Prillaman said. "The student could use it to purchase the 60-cent-special, bringing its price down to 54 cents.

Summer School Board Representative Don Wilson suggested the coupon plan in a 45 - minute meeting with Prillaman last Friday.

Prillaman and agreed that the possibility of a 50 - cent, limited - selection special would not be "popular with the students.'

"Students Prillaman felt would rather have a selection in the buying of the student special."

Prillaman said that he and Wilson also discussed the installing of non-carbonated cold drink machines in Lenoir

"We hope to have them ready for next fall semster," Prillaman said.

Prillaman showed Don Wilson the results of a poll, taken in the form of a questionnaire, that was taken during spring semester exams.

"It is not a realistic poll since only 200 or 300 students filled out the questionnaires," Prillaman said, "but we will" continue them next year in order to gauge what the students want."

The poll showed, said Wilson, that only 6 per cent of the students thought the quality of the meats as "good." Furthermore, 17 per cent said the selection of meats was "good."

Wilson said, "The most important improvement is the institution of the coupon plan.

"This plan seems entirely possible. We don't intend to let it drop. It means an across the board 10 per cent savings for students."

Wilson added, "I don't see any possibility of returning to the old 50 cent student special. You can't fight rising "And I really don't see the possibility of a 50 cent special with a limited selection. I think most of the students would rather pay 10 cents and have a choice."

The student special price increased from 50 to 60 cents at the opening of summer school. This was the second price hike within one year.

buy a $10 coupon book for $9.

book plan to be used next fall.

Prillaman said that under

On The Inside Pictures Of The Fire Carolina Has Many Two-Sport Athletes Assistant To Chancellor Appointed Part Three Of Vietnam Series Gov. Moore Orders Investigation New Construction At UNC The News Of The Week In Review