

Hickey Views The Season

By OWEN DAVIS
DTH Sports Writer

Beginning his 21st year of coaching, football mentor Jim Hickey looks to this season as possibly one of his best ever.

"This year's squad could be just as good as the 1963 team," commented Hickey. He emphasized, however, that the comparison to the 1963 eleven was in potential only, and that he was not predicting another Gator Bowl invitation.

Hickey, who hails from Sprindale, Pa., has had wide experience in the athletic field. In high school, he starred on the football, basketball, and baseball squads before entering college at William and Mary. He was a three-sport standout in college also, participating on the football, basketball, and track teams.

After graduation from William and Mary in 1942, Hickey served a four-year stint in the Navy during World War II. He went to John Marshall High School in Richmond, Va., to coach after his Naval discharge and was there five years.

Hickey graduated to the college coaching ranks in 1951 and went to Hampden-Sydney College. He was at Hampden-Sydney for five seasons before accepting an assistantship on the late Jim Tatum's staff here in 1956.

He was an assistant under Tatum for three years before taking over the reins in 1959.

This is Hickey's eighth season as Carolina's head coach. "Depth could become a problem with our tough schedule," said Hickey. "We have good depth at quarterback with Danny Talbott, Jeff Beaver and Tim Karrs and also at wide end where we have Charlie Carr, George Zadjeka and Peter Davis.

"Some offensive line positions are not real deep and there are some defensive line spots in which we could be better off. Overall, though, I would say we could be stronger on offense."

With teams such as Notre Dame, Michigan, Georgia and Clemson to face on the road, Carolina obviously will be under a great deal of pressure this season. Coach Hickey thinks that playing in an opponent's backyard makes a definite difference against teams such as Michigan, Notre Dame and Georgia.

But, he says, "When the four major football schools in North Carolina play each other the short distances between them just about discount any home advantage."

Viewing his non-conference opponents, Hickey is well aware that he faces a great challenge.

Fauntleroy

Down... set... get one... get two... get all you can handle!

Fauntleroy has scored again. Hello, sports fans. Here I am, ready to let you know what to expect in the world of sports. Today's a big day. It's the first big weekend of college football. After careful consideration and thought, I've come up with the results of some of today's big games.

First of all Dook will start their season off successfully with a big victory over W. Virginia and the poverty program.

LSU will roll over Paul Dietzel and his South Carolina Gamecocks — those Louisiana swamp rabbits are just a little bit better than the boys from the land of the red clay.

Mighty Michigan State will crush our country cousins, N. C. State, proving that the Big 10 is plenty big.

Bob Davis and the Virginia Cavaliers will out play, out score, and out drink their more temperate Wake Forest Deacon opponents.

Dr. Leo Jenkins and his Pirates from East Carolina College will try to prove that they can play university football by beating notorious football power William and Mary.

And in the big game of the far West... Fresno St. led by fullback Freddie Figueroa will defeat a hard nose team from the University of Hawaii for a berth in the Punch Bowl.

All-American of the Week: George Hamilton who will score on some long passes to wingback Lindie "the Bird" Johnson in an all-out effort not to make the Army team.

Cross Country Boys See Promising Season Ahead

By DRUMMOND BELL
DTH Sports Writer

Last year Carolina's cross country team won six out of seven dual meets and placed third behind Maryland and Duke in the ACC Championships. This year Coach Hilton's squad hopes to improve its record, and the outlook is bright.

Lead by co-captains Trip MacPherson and Charlie Worley, the thinclads have returning lettermen Bill Bassett, Mike Williams and Russell Putnam along with five outstanding sophomores from last fall's undefeated freshmen team.

MacPherson, a product of Wilmington, Del., has run varsity cross country and track for three years and has the ability and determination to make this one his best.

During the outdoor track season he consistently ran under ten minutes in the two mile where he was the team's number two man behind Jim Meade, last year's track captain.

Charlie Worley is another two-year letterman from Asheville. For the past two years Charlie has devoted himself to cross country and track. His desire to improve has been his driving force and, as a captain, he should be an inspiration to the younger group of distance runners.

Senior Russell Putnam has lettered for two years, and, at present, is in excellent condition as a result of daily workouts during the summer.

Juniors Bill Bassett and Mike Williams are two outstanding prospects for this fall. Bassett has run close to 9:30 in the two mile and Williams is the ACC Indoor and Outdoor mile champion.

The major success of the team will depend most likely on the sophomores. Coach Hilton has one of the finest groups of young distance runners in the Conference.

At present, Joe Lasich seems to be the best of the group due to his amazing 9:17 two mile this past summer. However, Truett Goodwin, who holds the freshman two-mile record, and Jim Hoteling, who ran a fine 9:30 two mile indoors last winter, are eager to make the top seven.

Other sophomores to watch during the season and at the first time trial on Saturday are Tom Greer, Steve Williams and Kent Autry.

On the whole, the season should be a good one if the younger runners are able to perform well at the varsity level. Again, the stiffest competition will come from Maryland and Duke, both of whom have fine teams with experience and talent.

WHO'S AFRAID OF VIRGINIA WOLF STARTS SEPT. 22

Conference Preview

STATE'S WOLFPACK
With 31 returning lettermen, Earl Edwards and his N. C. State Wolfpack are looking forward to a successful season.

State ended the 1965 campaign with five straight victories, but this streak could be ended early. The Wolfpack must face national power Michigan St. in their opening game, an unenviable task.

Offensively the Wolfpack should be tough. Returning quarterback Charlie Noggle is more than adequate, while wingback Gary Rowe showed signs of brilliance last season as a receiver. The offensive line is headed by All-ACC guard John Stec.

The defensive secondary could prove to be State's major weakness with two of last year's veterans gone. With a fairly easy schedule it should be a winning year for the Wolfpack.

DIETZELS GAMECOCKS
New coach Paul Dietzel and his "power I" offense should bring a new look to South Carolina. How effective the new look will be remains to be seen.

The Gamecocks open against LSU in a game that should give a good indication of USC potential. Quarterback Mike Fair should prove to be one of the best in the A.C.C. Benny Galloway at tailback and Ben Garnto at wingback give Dietzel a potentially explosive backfield.

Unfortunately for South Carolina, they must face a more than rugged non-conference schedule including Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee. It could be a long season for Mr. Dietzel and company.

WAKE'S DEACONS
Coach Bill Tate predicts with undoubted enthusiasm that his Wake Forest team will finish high in the 1966 race. A tough away schedule makes it doubtful.

With only 19 lettermen returning, Tate will have to count heavily on sophomores. Quarterback Jon Wilson is relatively inexperienced, but running backs Andy Heck and Jimmy Johnson should provide some fireworks. The end position is one of the strongest for the Deacons. Five lettermen return headed by Butch Henry.

The line is fairly solid with several returning starters, but there's still a lack of depth. The Deacons should show the predicted improvement, but still not enough for a winning season.

VIRGINIA'S CAVALIERS
Coach George Blackburn of Virginia has Bob Davis and John Naponick. Davis was billed last year for All American honors but was shifted to halfback. Now he's back at his natural quarterback position and should be plenty dangerous.

Naponick will have to anchor the Cavalier line. He's 6-10 285 pounds, but most coaches agree that he just isn't mean enough. The tackles look solid as well as the linebacking positions, but a lack of depth should hurt.

Virginia has an easy schedule, but it shouldn't compensate much for the lack of personnel.

Murals Need Managers, Refs

The Intramural season begins in a week and many positions are open to all those interested in a managerial position or as an official.

All those who are interested in officiating this fall should stop by the Intramural Office next week between 1 and 6.

The Famous Double Z-Out Pass Pattern

It used to be that a person could sit down and watch a football game with a minimum of confusion, simply watching the action on the screen and figuring out what was going on.

Alas, with most of the modern football announcers, this is no longer possible. For instance, if the viewer sees that the quarterback completed a pass to his end, then that is enough to satisfy him. But the announcer feels that he has to impress his audience with his knowledge and so describes the play something like this:

"The spread end faked outside, moved inside and took a linebacker with him. The tight end blocked his man, held a count and went into the flat. The flankerback ran a double z-out pattern and was wide open for that pass."

Now really. All that may be exciting for old Joe Sledge who used to coach at Framis Tech, but for the average viewer it is absolutely useless.

By halftime of a normal game, the viewer is giddy with explanations of red-dogging, blitzing, diamond defenses, I formations, pass patterns and all the other ridiculous folderol that sportscasters think is necessary. It is enough to make the viewer turn down the sound and just watch the screen. It's easy enough to see who carried the ball, how many yards were gained and if any scores were made.

An explanation of a play once in a while is good, but it should be done with a minimum of yakking and a maximum of consideration.

100% Guaranteed Used Cars

THE CLEANEST AND BEST USED CARS ARE FOUND AT Triangle Volkswagen

On Chapel Hill Boulevard

Most used car dealers sell their cars with 50-50 guarantees. You know the deal: if anything goes wrong, you pay half the cost of parts and labor. And they do the same.

Well, our guarantee doesn't work that way.

When we guarantee a car, we guarantee the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles. There's no charge for parts. Labor. Anything.

How can we do this? Easy. We fix the things that need fixing before we give them the guarantee. These used cars, for instance. They've all passed a tough, 16-point safety and performance test. They're reconditioned and ready to roll.

A car with a 100% guarantee costs no more in the beginning. And won't drive you to the poor house in the end.
