Russia Denounces Peace Proposals

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union denounced yesterday the latest U. S. peace proposals on Viet Nam as a sham, and demanded anew a U. S. military withdrawal as the price for peace in Southeast Asia.

But the United States refused to accept a hard-hitting hour-long speech by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko in the U. N. General Assembly as the final word, and said it still awaited a considered reply to its Viet Nam proposals.

The United States offered yesterday to halt the bombing of North Viet Nam if it got assurances from Hanoi that it would take corresponding measures to defuse the war. It proposed also that both sides agree to a timetable for a supervised military withdrawal.

The proposals drew this comment from Gromyko:

"What does the statement made here in the General Assembly yesterday on behalf of the United States government mean?"

"It means that the United States government defends its aggressive course in the Viet Nam question, and that there are still no signs testifying to the seriousness of the intention of Washington to seek a settlement of this problem, and to stop the aggression against the Vietnamese people."

He said the United States had made "serious and genuine offers to break out of the tragic impasse in Viet Nam. We have offered to take the intensity and extent of the military conflict."

"If the sincerity of these offers is to be tested or questioned, it should be tested not by verbal attacks nor by veiled warnings, but by exploring our willingness to take action — deeds — to match our words."

He asserted that the greater a nation's power the greater is its responsibility for peace, and added:

"We of the United States will persevere in our efforts for peace in Viet Nam. We still await a considered reply to our affirmative proposals, and we continue in the hope that all members of this organization will join in this great endeavor."

HYPOCRITICAL, HANOI SAYS

Hanoi assailed the U. S. proposals as hypocritical. A broadcast dispatch from the official North Viet Nam news agency said Goldberg advanced the proposals in an attempt "to get the United Nations to interfere in the Viet Nam issue so that the United States will be able to continue its aggression."

Gromyko said that the Viet Nam problem should be solved along the lines put forth by Hanoi: unconditional cessation of bombing of the North, withdrawal of all armed forces of the United States and its allies from South Viet Nam, removal of U. S. military bases and granting the Vietnamese people a chance to settle their own affairs.

WILD NIGHT—And, brother, it was enthusiastic and full of spirit as the first big pep rally engulfed Franklin Street and kept students yelling and chanting for some 20 minutes last night for the football team to come out of the theatre. "This is unbelievable!" screamed Head Cheerleader "Beagle" Starnes as he viewed the magnitude from the roof of the Carolina theatre. That's what it was—unbelievable and unforgettable. (DTH Photo by Lanterer)

Some Football Thoughts

Carolina Or State? There's No Telling

By SANDY TREADWELL
DTH Sports Editor

There's a woman who lives in Chapel Hill who's convinced that her Tar Heels will defeat North Carolina State this afternoon.

She had a dream, and in the dream the Tar Heels were soundly thrashed by the Wolfpack. Everyone knows that whenever you dream something the opposite comes to pass. So the woman isn't joining 44,000 others at Kenan Stadium today at 1:30. She doesn't have to. She knows her team will win.

Then there's a lot of history majors in Raleigh who are equally confident of the outcome of today's battle. They know their team will win. Why? Well this is an even numbered year, and on even numbered years State beats Carolina. At least that's the way it's worked for the past decade. History repeats itself.

If you happen to be a sports writer you're not quite so confident that you know which team will win. You can't rely on such things as dreams and the numbers of years. You'd like to, but you can't.

If you happen to be a sports writer and you have to write about the Carolina-State game you have to rely on the facts.

So you begin by saying that North Carolina State wasn't disgraced by their opening game 28-10 loss at the hands of Michigan State, the nation's number one football team. At intermission they were down by a 7-3 score. But if quarterback Charlie Noggle hadn't overthrown a wide open receiver they would have marched into the locker room leading 10-7.

And then you say that North Carolina was perhaps not disgraced but at the very least embarrassed by their 10-0 loss to Kentucky.

You know that the Wolfpack is comprised of seniors and juniors at virtually every position both offensively and defensively. And you know that the Tar Heels combine experienced veterans with several talented sophomores like Mazza, Bomar, and Wesolowski. So you weigh all this and just when you're about to place the odds on the Wolfpack you're confidence is shattered. Someone tells you that despite the records, the facts, and the rosters when the two rivals meet on a football field the result is one hell of a football game.

Only once in the last nine meetings have the teams been separated by more than one touchdown at the finish. See FOOTBALL On Page 6

Draft Test Scores Run Very High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eighty-one per cent of the 767,935 young men who took the Selective Service College Qualification Tests in May and June scored 70 or better, the Selective Service System reported today.

The test results are intended as guides for local draft boards in determining whether to grant student deferments.

The total taking the four tests exceeded by nearly 150,000 the 617,188 youths that took the 28 previous college qualification tests given from 1951 through 1963.

The first four tests in 1951 were taken by 339,039 registrants and between 60 and 65 per cent received grades of 70 or higher.

The percentage making the passing grade of 70 or better this year thus was far higher than that of 1951.

The test pre-supposes that the youths taking it have had only the equivalent of a general high-school education.

About 22 per cent who took the tests this year received a grade of 80 or higher, nearly 34 per cent received scores of 75 to 79, and about 25 per cent scored from 70 to 74.

The analysis supplied by Science Research Associates, which conducted the test under contract, showed that students in the humanities scored much the same as students in the physical sciences and mathematics. The median scorers are those majoring in the social sciences and history, engineering, and biological sciences and medicine were within two points.

Only among registrants studying agriculture, education, and other majors were there fewer than 75 per cent attaining scores of 70 or higher, and even in these groups the average score was 72 or higher.

Powell Asks High Spirit For Game

Student Body President Bob Powell issued a statement yesterday concerning "conduct" at today's game.

"Today's game with State is a big one for the team, the Student Body and the whole Consolidated University. If it is true to form — and I expect it to be — spirits will be high and the atmosphere charged with excitement.

"If we are to win, it will take the team's best efforts and the full support of the Student Body for all four quarters.

"I would like to remind the Student Body that possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages at any UNC ball game is a violation of North Carolina law.

"Violation of that law becomes evident when it results in loud or objectionable behavior. This is also a violation of the Campus Code.

"I would urge the Student Body to keep one kind of spirit for the game and the other kind for later, and to join me in giving full support to our team this afternoon.

Greek Grades Just Released

Kappa Kappa Gamma and Zeta Beta Tau ranked first in grades among the social sororities and fraternities on campus last year.

Kappa topped the list of the seven sororities with an overall grade point average of 2.73 for the Spring semester and 2.71 for the entire year.

ZBT's active brothers piled up a total 2.645 grade point average and all their active members made an average of 2.59 which was also the first place total.

The overall average for sororities last year was 2.69 and for the fraternities was 2.37.

The sororities which ran close behind Kappa in the scholarship ranking for the year were Pi Beta Phi with 2.71, Tri Delt with 2.67 and Kappa Delta with 2.63.

The scholarship ranking among fraternities after ZBT is Tau Epsilon Phi with 2.51, Beta Theta Pi with 2.49, Delta Upsilon with 2.42, Kappa Sigma with 2.40 and Chi Psi 2.38.

SDS Will Begin Publishing 'The Left Heel' In October

By DON CAMPBELL
DTH Staff Writer

UNC Students for a Democratic Society will begin publishing a bi-weekly newspaper called The Left Heel, on Monday Oct. 3 the DTH learned Friday.

The paper will be co-edited by Bryden Gordon and Ann Schunior, both former Carolina students whose husbands are graduate students here. Mrs. Gordon graduated with a sociology degree in June. Mrs. Schunior was a graduate student in philosophy here last year.

The first issue will be financed by SDS funds, Mrs. Gordon said.

"We don't know just where we'll get the money after that," she said.

"We've thought about charging a nickel or dime a copy after the first issue, but that's undecided yet. The first issue will be free though."

The news paper will be half the size of legal paper. Plans are for the first issue to contain 16 pages.

It will be printed on the YMCA's multi-lithograph press. The YMCA offers their press facilities to any campus student organizations for an established fee, according to Norman Gustavson, YMCA secretary.

The format for the paper hasn't been completely decided, Mrs. Gordon said, but several regular features are planned.

There will be an editorial by one of the co-editors. A forum for ideas will be provided in which opinions both for and against the paper's views will be aired—intact, she said.

Letters to the editor will also be printed, she said.

"We have no permanent staff, as such," Mrs. Gordon said. "Our writers will be coordinators, who will be responsible for getting stories covering certain fields of interest."

Each article printed will be the idea and responsibility of its writer and will carry his byline, she said.

In addition, official SDS statements will be printed and will be identified as such.

Considerable attention will be given to pertinent articles on the Vietnamese War, Civil Rights and campus activities, Mrs. Gordon said.

"There will be no censoring or cutting of articles for lack of space. If we can't run the whole article, we'll hold it till the next issue."

Book and movie reviews are also planned, she said, with at least one Review being carried in each issue.

The first issue's editorial will give a statement of purpose.

"We hope to be developing ideas," Mrs. Gordon declared, "if the newspaper is an overwhelming success, we might publish every Monday."

Purdy Pledges UP Will Focus On Solving Student Problems

By LYTT STAMPS
DTH Staff Writer

Student Body Vice President Bill Purdy pledged Thursday that the University Party will work this year in "bringing the problems of student life into focus."

Speaking at the first UP meeting of the year, Purdy said "not much has been done in Student Government since Bob Spearman left the presidency more than a year ago."

Spearman also spoke to the party.

Purdy said the party will join with President Bob Powell in his program for the year, and then outlined problems he thinks must be faced:

"Student Government fails to reach out and tap the initiative," Purdy said. "As it is now, you come to us and we then put you to work."

The Campus Code might be amended to include only actions committed while on the vkjvps or at University functions, Purdy suggested.

Reminding the party members that the definition of a "gentleman" changes, Purdy said, "The framers of the Code had faith that those who followed could interpret what is 'gentlemanly conduct.'"

A pilot project suggested by Purdy, where women, with their parents' approval would not have closing hours.

Student involvement on faculty committees. "Students should be included in the planning stages of student policy," Purdy said.

Lack of Student Government involvement in Educational matters:

"This is the most important aspect of our life," Purdy said, "but it is the field of least Student government action. This year that will be different.

Spearman also outlined the "key problems" of student government: the Speaker Ban remnants, the student judiciary and quality of education.

He called for cooperation with the faculty and administration but urged students not to hesitate to work by themselves.

CU Queen To Be Named At Half-Time Today

By STEVE BENNETT
DTH Staff Writer

The highlight of Consolidated University Day today will be the crowning of the CU Queen during half-time ceremonies of the State game.

The two lovely finalists from Carolina, Toni Greenwood and Liza Robb, will compete this morning with the other finalists from all the campuses of the Consolidated University.

Richard Adler, who will crown the Queen, will also be presented a citation during the special half-time show which will feature his songs and the new fight song he has written for UNC.

Toni Greenwood is a senior from Los Angeles, Calif., majoring in studio art. A member of Tri Delt sorority, Toni is being sponsored in the contest by Joyner Hall.

Toni who was Miss Yack last year, expects quite a bit of family rivalry at today's game since her father is a graduate of State and her
