Tar Heels Open N-S Meet Against South Carolina

By DENNIS SANDERS
DTH Sports Writer

CHARLOTTE—A pair of rugged teams from the Palmetto State will be after North Carolina's lofty Atlantic Coast record and national ranking here tonight and Saturday.

La Pizza For Delivery Call 967-1451

Clemson, 6-4 and fourth in the ACC, and South Carolina, 5-2 and third in the league, will play the Tar Heels and N.C. State in the annual North-South doubleheader at the Charlotte Coliseum.

Tonight, the Tar Heels and USC open the weekend at 7:30 with N.C. State and Clemson wading into each other at 9:00.

Saturday, they reverse foes, with State and USC meeting at 7:30 and North Carolina and Clemson tangling at 9:00.

North Carolina remains atop the ACC with an unblemished 9-0 record, but both the Tigers and the Gamecocks have given notice this season that they are tired of holding up the league standings.

The Tigers have won 14 this year, only one less than the most victories they've ever recorded under Coach Bobby Roberts. In addition, they stopped Duke's win skein at eight Tuesday night in Clemson.

South Carolina has won five of its last seven, the two losses being lopsided defeats to Clemson.

But the Gamecocks are 11-5 overall and twice have beaten Wake Forest—whom North Carolina beat twice by a total of four points—handily.

Sixteen and two overall, the Tar Heels have slipped in the national polls lately, but remain in the top five. They are rated fourth and third.

Bob Lewis, playmaker after leading the scoring totals last year, hit a season high of 36 Tuesday in a relatively easy win over State, and will join Larry Miller, the top scorer for Carolina, and a trio of talented soph in the two-game affair here.
