

U.N.C. Library
U.N.C. Library
Serials Dept.
Box 870
Chapel Hill, N.C.

27514

The Daily Tar Heel

The South's Largest College Newspaper

Volume 74, Number 155

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA. SUNDAY, APRIL 30, 1967

Founded February 23, 1893

The view from 500 feet up over a patchwork quilt Jubilee crowd.—DTH Photo by Jock Lauterer, Flight courtesy of Tar Heel Flying Club.

The Daily Tar Heel
World News
BRIEFS
By The Associated Press

Johnson Approves Supersonic Jetliners

WASHINGTON—President Johnson approved Saturday the next giant step toward a supersonic jet airliner—the building of two prototypes of the SST designed to carry 300 passengers at 1,800 miles an hour.

The announcement at the White House put the United States squarely back in the competition for air superiority against the British-French and Russian transport planes now under construction.

Case Declines To Back Romney

WASHINGTON—Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., declined Saturday to join New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller in backing the candidacy of Michigan Gov. George Romney for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

Case's statement that he wants to "keep the book open just a little bit longer" seems to emphasize the reluctance of moderate Republicans to get behind a single candidate at this point. The Vietnam war appears as a factor in this irresolution among the intra-party foes of Republican conservatives.

Clay's Lawyer Files New Suit

HOUSTON, Tex.—Cassius Clay's lawyers filed a new suit in U.S. District Court here shortly before noon Saturday challenging the government's right to punish the former heavyweight boxing champion for failure to enter the armed services.

The suit, similar to one which was turned down last week by Judge Allen B. Hannay, contends that Clay, or Muhammed Ali, should be exempt from the draft because of his vocation as a Black Muslim minister.

Participation Key To Special Mass

By DONNA REIFSNIDER
DTH Staff Writer

Sunday evening at 6:30 the Presbyterian and Episcopal Churches will present an unusual celebration of the Holy Eucharist in the form of a folk mass called "Rejoice."

"Rejoice" is a melodic and lyrical version of the traditional liturgical chants of the Christian Church.

Seeking to give zest and vigor to ancient chants such as the Kyrie, the Sanctus, the Gloria and the Nicene Creed, students of the Episcopal General Theological Seminary in New York livened the tempo and gave them melody. They added banjo and guitar accompaniment to produce a service that is stimulating and refreshingly different. It defies passiveness.

The seminarians wrote the music for the congregation, not for choir. It is their attempt to involve the congregation in the service, to make it more meaningful for each person by making him an active participant.

And despite the catchiness of the folk style rhythm and melodies, the words of the chants lose none of their original meaning. In fact, the addition of greater tempo and melody seems to stimulate individual awareness and involvement not usually evoked by the slow, one-note traditional chants.

Sunday evening, the service will follow the usual Episcopal form for the celebration of Holy Communion. However, instead of singing the usual chants, the congregation will sing the new chants from "Rejoice."

India Bazaar

Set This Week

One visit to Chapel Hill's India Bazaar this week solve all your gift needs - and may be even satisfy for the time being your yen for the beauty and mystery of those far-away places you've always wanted to visit.

Sponsored by the India Association, the three-day event will feature the sale of hundreds of handmade items from India.

The bazaar will be held Friday and Saturday from 4-9 p.m. and Sunday from 1-9 p.m. at the Wesley Foundation.

All proceeds from the May bazaar will be sent directly to benefit the famine relief fund in Bihar State, India. Bihar, located in central India, is facing its third straight year of devastating drought and crop failure. Funds from the bazaar will help to supply needy families with food.

SEN. SAM J. ERVIN JR.
... To Speak Monday

Sen. Ervin Speaks Here

U. S. Senator Sam Ervin Jr. of North Carolina will be the principle speaker at the Law Day-USA ceremonies to be held at the UNC Law School Monday.

He will speak in 210 Manning Hall at 2 p.m.

He will dedicate a North Carolina and an American flag for the new law school under construction.

The North Carolina flag comes from the Capitol in Raleigh and the American flag comes from the Capitol building in Washington.

Jubilee Today

The Association—1:00 p.m., Polk Place

"Jules And Jim"—7:00 and 9:30 p.m.

Carroll Hall

UP Plans Changes In 'Centralized' SG

By DEBBIE LAZARUS
DTH Staff Writer

"Our student government is nothing but a bureaucracy filled with high-sounding phrases and very little action," Dick Levy, newly elected vice-chairman of the University Party charged Saturday.

"Neither party has done anything for the campus—we are going to try to change that," Levy said.

Levy has recently switched allegiance from the Student Party to UP and is "enthusiastic to become part of developing an entirely new plan for student government," he said.

"SP is not going to mend its ways," he continued, "and the UP plans to offer a radical departure from the current ways."

The new approach of the UP for student government includes:

—DECENTRALIZING student government by setting up committees with the foundation over people working on projects

—SPONSORING Experimental College courses dealing with problems of the University

—PROVIDING financial and legislative assistance to worthwhile programs

—FORMING committees on an assignment basis regardless of party affiliation

—SPONSORING surveys among students and faculty on increasing reading days from 1 to 3

—NEGOTIATING with the Playmakers to buy blocks of seats to offer the Chapel Hill school system.

The "new UP" doesn't plan to compete with SP. It is to be entirely different. Specific projects of the UP are to be announced next week, Levy said.

—DTH Staff Photo by STEVE ADAMS
Petula Clark highlighted Jubilee entertainment last night. The Association will appear this afternoon at 1:00.