House Approves Abortion Legislation

RALEIGH — The House Friday gave final approval to legislation which will liberalize North Carolina's 86-year-old abortion law, and the measure now returns to the Senate for concurrence in seven amendments.

Rep. Arthur H. Jones, D-Mecklenburg, House floor manager of the Senate-passed proposal, called it "one of the best pieces of social legislation of our time" and predicted quick Senate approval of the amendments.

The measure appeared to run into trouble Friday when House members introduced amendment after amendment which Jones said would "gut the bill," but each of the proposed changes and an attempt to send the bill to a judiciary committee were defeated.

Marines Win Last Of Three Hills

SAIGON — U. S. Marines won their final objective Friday in the Battle of the Hilltops, a bloody, 12-day campaign that officers said foiled a Communist plan to wipe out the forward American command post at Khe Sanh.

Leathernecks secured the last of three key peaks — Hill 881 North — where North Vietnamese regulars had massed menacingly above Khe Sanh, seven miles from the Laotian border and 12 miles South of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam. Resistance by battered regiments of North Vietnam's 325th Division ebbed to a flurry of shots which wounded seven Marines.

The Marines killed seven of the enemy in this final firefight. The occupation was completed at 2:35 p.m.

Oswald Claimed To Be CIA-Linked

NEW ORLEANS — The New Orleans States - Item said in a copyrighted story Friday that Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison will seek to show that Lee Harvey Oswald was an undercover agent who aided the cause of anti - Castro Cubans here.

"Garrison's investigation is said to have taken a definite trend toward what are believed to be indications that persons employed by the CIA were responsible for Kennedy's death," the newspaper said.

Garrison's Kennedy assassination investigation, the States - Item said, "will show that . . . Oswald was not a Communist." The Warren Commission decided that Oswald was a confused, Communist - oriented young man who was driven to kill Kennedy by a deep need for public recognition.

Romney Says LBJ Distorting War Reports

WASHINGTON — Michigan Gov. George Romney accused the Johnson Administration Friday of misleading Americans with manipulated, inflated and distorted reports on the Vietnam war.

Romney, a prospective candidate for the 1968 GOP Presidential nomination, predicted his party will win the Presidency and control of the House next year.

Then, he said, the country will get "a government that forth-rightly tells us what's really going on."

Romney made his remarks in a speech prepared for the convention of the National Federation of Republican Women.

"The people don't want a government that stumbles into international commitments that grow like Topsy," he said.

"There's a better way — a foreign policy based on a consistent realistic long range concept of America's world role.

World Journal Tribune: R. I. P.

NEW YORK — The fledgling World Journal Tribune ceased publication Friday after only eight months of existence, attributing its death to union harassment and a new and higher wage pattern in the industry.

"The thing that has brought us to this day is the intransigence of the unions," declared the afternoon and Sunday newspaper's president, Matt Meyer. The World Journal Tribune was losing money at the rate of $8.4 million a year, he said, and no one had shown any interest in buying it.

First published after a 140-day strike last year, the World Journal Tribune closed in the midst of a new round of New York newspaper wage negotiations in which a pattern of a 21 per cent wage increase over three years already has been set.

Former UNC Chancellor Wins Jefferson Award

William B. Aycock, law professor and former Chancellor of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill, Friday won the Thomas Jefferson Award given to that "member of the academic community" whose life and achievements most typified the works of Jefferson.

Aycock, a Kenan Professor of Law, received the award at a meeting of the faculty of the University.

Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson presented the cash award to Prof. Aycock.

The award is made annually at Chapel Hill and at a selected number of other universities.

Earl McConnell of Hobe Sound, Fla., gave the University $10,000 in 1962, the income from which goes for the annual Jefferson Award.

Previous Jefferson Award winners in Chapel Hill have been:

Kenan Professor M. T. Van Hecke, Law, 1962; Kenan Professor Rupert Vance, Sociology, 1963; Kenan Professor Henry P. Brandis, Law, 1964; Kenan Professor Fletcher M. Green, History, 1965; Kenan Professor W. L. Wiley, French, 1966.

Prof. Tycock served as Chancellor of the University from 1957 to 1964. Prior to that he had been a member of the law faculty since his graduation with the J. D. degree in 1948.

In World War II he was a combat colonel, and won the Silver Star Medal for bravery in action in Germany.

Prof. Tycock served as Chancellor of the University from 1957 to 1964. Prior to that he had been a member of the

Dr. Taylor Wins Teaching Award

A cash award of $1,500 was made Friday for "excellence in teaching" to Prof. George V. Taylor of the History Department.

Prof. Taylor won the annual Salgo Award for distinguished instruction of undergraduate students, especially students in the junior and senior classes.

Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson presented the prize to Dr. Taylor as a feature of the May meeting of the University faculty.

Nicolas Salgo, a New York businessman, gives the award each year at six institutions of higher learning in the United States.

Mr. Salgo is a native of Hungary who came to the United States in 1948, and has become a naturalized citizen. He is an officer in several industrial firms and also holds directorships in various corporations.

He also heads the Salgo-Noren Foundation for the benefit of good teaching.

Prof. Taylor has been a member of the History faculty since 1952. He is a former Fulbright Scholar, studying in France, and he is a winner of the annual Tanner Award, also for good teaching of undergraduates, primarily for freshmen and sophomores.

Taylor is a native of Trenton, N. J., was graduated from Rutgers in 1941 and taught at the University of Wisconsin and Michigan State before he came to Chapel Hill. He received the M. A. and Ph.D. at Wisconsin.

The winner of the Salgo Award in 1966 was Prof. Osborne B. Hardison of the English Department.

Cosmopolitan Club Has Annual Revue

Dinner with an international flair will be followed by a Merry - Go - Round of entertainment at the annual Cosmopolitan Club Revue tonight at the Presbyterian Student Center at 5:30.

Members of the club have planned a more professional show this year, building on last year's successful program. Adding to the professional atmosphere will be the UNC Madrigal Singers, the International Folk Dance Club of Chapel Hill, the Mingulay Singers, and the dancers of the Ukraine.

"Humorous items with a British twist" will form the rest of the Merry-Go-Round. Included in the take-offs are satires on the Beatles, current television shows, and a British music - hall routine.

The cast is made up of several UNC faculty members, including a statistics professor, and many exchange students from France, India, Hong Kong, and Germany. They will do several numbers together in the show.

Tickets for the international dinner and revue are available at Danziger's, the Y Court, the library, and Graham Memorial for $1.50 each.

SL Approves Ballot For Viet War Vote

By WAYNE HURDER
DTH Staff Writer

The Student Legislature agreed on the wording of the Vietnam referendum and changed the date of the vote to May 16 in a heated, lengthy debate Thursday night.

The legislature changed only two words in the referendum that had been drawn up by a special committee consulting with political scientists and a psychometrician before passing it 24-1.

The ballot lists four alternative policies, one of which the voter is to check. According to Dave Kiel, member of the committee that composed the alternatives, two of the alternatives are of escalation and the other two of de-escalation.

Much of the debate centered on whether one of the supposedly escalatory alternatives was really escalatory. Critics of the wording said that the alternative in question, Policy B on the ballot, was not gradual escalation, as Kiel said, but maintenance of the status quo.

This the critics argued, left only one escalatory policy for the hawks, thus biasing the referendum in the dove's favor.

The four alternatives are: "Policy A. The United States should defeat the power of North Vietnam by widespread bombing of its industries, ports, and harbors, and by land invasion.

"Policy B. The United States should follow the present policy in Vietnam.

"Policy C. The United States should de-escalate its military activity, stop bombing North Vietnam, and intensify its efforts to begin negotiations.

"Policy D. The United States should withdraw its military forces from Vietnam immediately."

The only amendment to the committee's referendum that passed was offered by George Isherwood.

In policy A he moved that "defeat" replace "crush," and "widespread" replace "wholesale."

George Krichbaum, who argued that the referendum offered only one alternative for those who espoused escalation, proposed an amendment that would add another escalatory policy and make the present policy B, Policy C, to serve as a middle ground.

Kiel, in arguing against the amendment, said that interpretation of policy B "depends on your view on the war." A hawk would see the present policy as one of maintaining the status quo while a dove would see it as one of gradual escalation.

He added that the referendum was set up with only four questions because that way "you have no pre - arranged middle ground," forcing the students to make a choice instead of simply choosing the middle alternative.

It was recommended to the committee by psychometrician James Kahan that a referendum with five questions would be statistically less valid than one with four.

Krichbaum's amendment was defeated 20-18.

Tom Benton said he didn't think "anything could be more frustrating to the students than to look over this thing and try to figure out what it means."

Kiel admitted that the questions might be a bit ambiguous but he said this couldn't be helped if the ballot was to be limited to four alternatives.

And, he added, it was necessary to have only a small number of questions for the referendum to have any significance.

The date for the Vietnam referendum had been scheduled for May 11. However, it and the women's rules referendum had to be moved to May 16 because the ballots couldn't be printed up in time.

Terry Fowler, Larry Richter and David Kiel were the members of the committee that drew up the referendum.

They were advised by William Fleming, Lewis Lipsitz, and Robert Lineberry of the political science department, and by James Kahan, a psychometrics graduate student.

The referendum, which is intended for students and faculty, requests the voter's sex, status at the University, and major, if a student.

This information is for use by the political science department in studying the significance of the referendum.

Women's Voting Results Will Influence, Not Change

BY HUNTER GEORGE
DTH Staff Writer

A massive mandate from women students in the coming referendum will not insure changes in coed rules, but it will go a long way toward having them considered seriously.

That indication was given Friday by Sharon Rose, chairman of the Women's Residence Council.

Miss Rose, commenting on the purpose of the referendum, said that there has never been a serious attempt to determine a consensus among coeds concerning their rules. The referendum, she said, is designed to give the members

Brown Bagging Legal Today

RALEIGH (AP) — "Brown-bagging" will become legal in a number of restaurants and clubs throughout North Carolina starting today.

The State Board of Alcoholic Control reported Friday that bagging permits authorized by a new liquor law will be handed out to various applicants around the state.

Temporary permits, good for 90 days, were mailed out Friday to ABC officers in various communities and will be personally taken to those who have applied for them.

Liquor-drinking was legal only in the home under a State Supreme Court ruling late last year, until the General Assembly enacted the bagging law two weeks ago.

Jail Sentence Proposed For Drunk Drivers

RALEIGH (AP) — Mandatory jail sentences for second and third offenses of drunken driving were proposed in legislation filed Friday in the House.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Thomas Strickland of Wayne, would include a three-day jail sentence for a second offense and a seven-day sentence for third offenses.

Strickland sponsored a similar measure earlier in the session, but no legislative action has been taken on the proposal.

The bill would insert other new features into the law, which now makes drunken driving a general misdemeanor.

Major provisions of the bill are:

—For a first offense, revocation of driver's license for one year and a $100 fine or up to 30 days in prison or both. In the discretion of the court, though, revocation of the license "may be reduced to the extent of allowing limited operation of a motor vehicle if necessary to prevent loss of employment. . . ."

—For a second offense within a 10-year period, three days in jail and a fine of not less than $200 or not less than 90 days in prison.

—Third offense within a 10-year period, seven days in jail and a $500 fine or not less than six months in prison. At the discretion of the court, though, such persons "voluntarily may be committed to any alcoholic Rehabilitation Center," for a period of not less than 38 days nor more than 60 days, in lieu of imprisonment.

of the WRC and the administration a representative view of how the women feel.

But, she emphasized, even a 100 per cent vote for one of the proposed changes would not mean that change will be effected.

"The referendum results will in no way commit the WRC to make any changes, but it will certainly affect its recommendations to the administration," she said.

Referendum questions will concern senior coeds and 21-year-olds living in off-campus housing, extension of late minutes, resident administration approval for overnight leave and extension of closing hours.

Dean of Women Catherine Carmichael, who has been meeting with present and past executives of the WRC, said that the results of the referendum will definitely receive serious consideration by her.

Although the results of the voting will be tabulated next week, Miss Rose said no action can be taken before next fall.

At that time, the 40 WRC will review the ballot results and draw up recommendations on them.

Graham Accepts Chairmanship

Dr. John B. Graham, pathologist and geneticist at the University of North Carolina School of Medicine, has accepted an invitation to serve as chairman of the Genetics Training Committee of the National Institute of General Medicine Sciences, National Institutes of Health.

The appointment is for a four - year term beginning next July 1.

Members of the committee are advisors to NIH and to the U. S. Surgeon General about applications for training grants. Their decisions help determine areas in which research training should be initiated or expanded.
