

The Tar Heel

Vol. 74

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. TUESDAY, JUNE 13, 1967

No. 1

6,250 Enroll For First Session

11,000 Expected Overall

Ah, yes, all this paperwork during registration is enough to make your hair stand on end. Here two coeds tackle a few of the forms that have to be filled out.

—Tar Heel Staff Photo by George DeWolfe.

Cansler To Replace Long As Men's Dean

James O. Cansler, the Baptist chaplain here since 1954, will replace William G. Long as Dean of Men on August 1.

Long will become Dean of Student Affairs at Kalamazoo College in Michigan. He has been associated with student affairs administration in Chapel Hill for the past eight years.

A native of Douglasville, Ga., Cansler is a graduate of the University here, received his B. D. degree at Duke University in 1950, and his S. T. M. degree while on a Danforth Foundation grant at Yale University in 1961. In addition he has done graduate work in sociology at the University here.

Before becoming Baptist chaplain here, he was Duke University's Baptist chaplain one year. During World War II he served his active duty in the U. S. Navy in the V-12 program and as a supply officer at sea. He was also in active duty in the Korean War as a U. S. Navy chaplain. He is currently a commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve and is associated with the Naval ROTC unit on campus.

He is married to the former Dorothy Adelyn Phillips of Chapel Hill and they have three children: Linda, 17; David, 13; and Martha, 13.

William Long is a native of West Virginia, graduated at the University of West Virginia and has the M.A. in political science there, and the Bachelor of Divinity degree from Yale University. He also taught political science at Yale.

He is married to the former Marjorie June Lantz and they have four children.

Prior to coming here he was associate secretary of the YWCA at N. C. State University in Raleigh from 1957 to 1959. He was assistant Dean of Student Affairs from 1959 to 1962, and has been Dean of Men since 1962.

Dean of Student Affairs C. O. Cathey expressed regret at Dean Long's resignation and lauded Long for devotion to duty and effectiveness of administering to the extra-academic life of students at Chapel Hill during the past eight years. Dean Long has been a central influence in the emergence of the residential college system at Chapel Hill.

CANSLER

An estimated 6,250 students are enrolled here for the first summer session. The enrollment for both sessions is expected to reach 11,000 students.

Between 7,500 and 8,000 more will also study in Chapel Hill during the summer for special courses, conferences, workshops and other short term programs, according to Dr. James R. Gaskin, director of the Summer Session.

More than 400 courses are offered in 30 departments and seven professional schools both sessions, utilizing a faculty of nearly 400 people.

International uncertainty and the draft are factors that may cause a drop-off in undergraduate male enrollment.

"Last summer the undergraduate enrollment actually dropped off because of this factor, but the increased number of graduate and professional students here counteracted this decrease," Gaskin said.

The number of decreases in summer school attendance were particularly noticeable in "those curricula which draw the bulk of their enrollment from the male populations," Gaskin indicated. The ones with "mixed clientele" showed no sizeable decrease.

Gaskin indicated that since the second World War the function of summer school has changed. At that time the veterans began taking work for advancement rather than to make up that which was not completed. And the trend continued until just recently.

"However in the last few years," he said, "the prospective Vietnam draftees have begun stretching out their college education whenever possible to the full-term four years. This accounts for the decreased number of those enrolled in predominantly male-oriented curricula for the summer terms."

According to Gaskin, the increased number of educational workshops being federally subsidized in the individual communities is another factor affecting summer school enrollment.

Australian War Critic To Speak

By ABBY KAIGHN

An Australian critic of the Vietnam war, Dr. James Cairns, will visit the UNC campus Wednesday and Thursday to discuss Vietnam.

Cairns is a member of the Australian Parliament and is chairman of the Labour Party executive. His visit is sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA as the first in their summer lecture series.

Norman Gustavson, chairman of the YMCA, noted that the Labour Party is "on record in opposition to the war and has been very critical of Australia's participation in it."

Cairns will lecture at 8 p.m. Thursday in 104 Peabody on "Vietnam: An Australian Viewpoint." "Dr. Cairns does have some serious questions about our whole involvement and Australia's in Vietnam," Gustavson said.

Cairns was born in 1914. His father was killed in World War I. He left school, became a junior clerk then joined the Victorian Police Force at the age of 20. After ten years in the police, he volunteered in the Australian army and served in Southeast Asia during World War II.

During his last four years of service in the police force, Cairns had passed most of the requirements for the University of Melbourne Commerce Degree. After his discharge from the army he became a senior tutor in economic history at the University. He earned his Commerce Degree in 1940, his Master's degree in 1950 and Ph.D. in 1957.

While a senior lecturer in economic history at the University of Melbourne in 1955, he was selected by the Labour Party to stand for election in Yarra and was elected to that seat in December, 1955. In all, Cairns has been elected five times. In 1959 he was elected to the Labour Party's executive, a high position within the party.

Cairns is author of "Living with Asia" and he has written

DR. JAMES CAIRNS

... To Speak Thursday

many articles on international affairs. In 1966 he visited most of the countries of Southeast Asia.

Cairns will arrive at noon Wednesday. Thursday morning there will be a coffee hour for students, faculty and teachers.

Anyone interested in making arrangements to discuss Australian politics with Dr. Cairns should contact Gustavson at the Y building.

Parking Rules Clarified By Beaumont

Regardless of any parking regulations that may have been announced during registration, the following regulations obtain, according to Campus Police Chief Arthur Beaumont:

Students with C stickers may park only in the Bell Tower and Ram's Head Parking Lots.

No students may park in staff or faculty parking lots.

Violations of these regulations will only result in a parking ticket.

DTH Wins Pacemaker

The Daily Tar Heel has been named a Pacemaker for 1966-67, the highest award an American college newspaper can earn for overall excellence.

It is the second consecutive year that the DTH has received the award, which is given annually by the American Newspaper Publishers Association in cooperation with the American Collegiate Press.

This year, six college papers were named — two for papers which publish at least twice each week at four year institutions, two for papers published weekly or less frequently at four year institutions and two for papers published in junior colleges.

The Tar Heel and the State News of Michigan State University are the top papers for newspapers published at least twice each week.

The Auburn Plainsman of Auburn University and The Oracle of the University of South Florida at Tampa won for papers published weekly or less frequently.

The junior college winners were the Valley Star of Los Angeles Valley College at Van Nuys and the Warwhoop of El Camino College, El Camino College, Calif.

The DTH was cited for its "breezy" style, its "good clean make-up," and its "good presentation of world and campus news."

The DTH, which has no faculty control, was lead by three different editors during the year — Fred Thomas, Scott Goodfellow and Bill Amlong.

Business manager, who oversees the $100,000 operation, was Tom Clark.