Carolina Falls 36-11 To Tulane

By LARRY KEITH
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

North Carolina did not wait until the second half to lose its tenth straight game and third of the year Saturday in Kenan Stadium.

Falling behind 15-3 after two quarters the Tar Heels, playing at home for the first time this year, were drubbed 36-11 by Tulane.

A pitifully small crowd of 32,000 watched Green Wave quarterback Bobby Duhon direct the winners to their biggest victory margin in seven years.

Their record is now 1-1. Duhon, a senior southpaw with All-American aspirations accounted for 95 yards total offense and passed for two touchdowns in an attack that netted 336 yards overall. That's just how weak the Tar Heels were defensively.

"Bobby did a fine job directing our attack," said Coach Jim Pittman, afterwards. "The thing he did best was to move the football down the field and across the goal line."

North Carolina led briefly in the first quarter on a 32 yard field goal by Don Hartig, his second of the year.

If the Tar Heels ever had a chance, however, a third straight listless second half proved otherwise.

They took the second half kickoff inside Tulane territory only to be stymied into a punting situation at the 46. Jeff Beaver, who averaged only 31.5 yards on seven kicks, had an attempt blocked by end Scott Haber, a terror all afternoon.

Bruce Guidry, the other end, picked the ball up and sauntered down the right sideline 37 yards for a touchdown that put the game on ice.

The Tar Heels weren't really ready to die though. Again they moved well after the kickoff, going from their 16 to the 34 in only four plays. A Gayle Bomar pass was intercepted by safetymen Jim Jancik, however, and Tulane was in business at Carolina's 36.

A 20-yard aerial from Duhon to tailback Chuck Loftin upped the lead to 30-3 and there were still eight minutes and 43 seconds left in the third quarter.

Carolina immediately found its way onto the scoreboard, driving 66 yards from its 34. Bomar gained 21 of those yards in the march and passes from Beaver to Peter Davis and Charlie Carr accounted for 26 more.

Sophomore Saulis Zemaitis carried the ball in from the one for the score. Bomar, after fumbling the snap on the extra point attempt, added two points when he scrambled into the endzone.

Tulane had one more touchdown in its repertoire and this one belonged to the sec-

Travis To Request Drug Case Changes

By KAREN FREEMAN
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Anticipating a marked increase in the number of drug cases to come up on campus this year, Student Body President Bob Travis said he intends to make certain that offenses this year will be tried in student courts.

"We will have a problem with drugs at UNC this year, and a compromise should be reached with the Chancellor and Dean of Men before the cases come up."

Travis has tried to contact the administration to schedule a meeting to decide upon the guidelines that will be followed in drug cases.

His main objective is to prevent the University from bypassing the student court system and suspending anyone for drug offenses, as was done in the 1966 summer.

The system Travis would like to see effected would call for the honor courts to try drug offenses with the aid of competent medical advice, such as the presence of an infirmity doctor at each trial.

Travis bases his prediction of an increase of such cases on reports he has heard of marijuana becoming increasingly available on campus.

His interest in the problem is shared by a group of UNC students who have banded together into a discussion group to consider the medical, legal, psychological, and sociological aspects of the problem.

Many of the group were among those delegates to the National Student Association Congress this summer who supported NSA's "Drugs On Campus" resolution.

Part of the NSA resolution suggested that "colleges and universities encourage open and honest dialogue on the facts, implications, possible dangers and possible benefits of drug use."

One of the NSA delegates who helped draft this resolution, Marie Harriss, will also be a member of the campus discussion group to be formed.

The group will be organizing at 5 p.m. Monday in 111 Beard Hall.

While the group is not a direct outgrowth of the NSA Congress, one of its functions will be to determine the extent of drug abuse on campus, which was also called for the "Drugs on Campus" resolution.

The group will discuss potential problems arising from drug abuse. In its program are discussions by experts on various aspects of the drug problem, discussions in residence colleges and debates and panels.

VP To Breakfast With Legislators

By WAYNE HURDER
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Student Body Vice President Jed Dietz will start holding legislative breakfasts Monday in order to stay attuned to legislators' opinions and to make the legislature more efficient.

In addition, he will hold weekly meetings with committee chairmen and the floor leaders. Student Body president Bob Travis also will start meeting with the legislators sometime after this week.

Dietz explained that this year he will be "instituting fairly extensive reforms in the legislature" and wants to be able to get together with the legislators to tell them about his programs and find out their opinions, and contributions they have to make.

In the past, Dietz, whose main function as vice president is as speaker of the legislature, said the vice president, "has been aloof, and tended not to communicate with the legislators."

This has sometimes made the legislators resent the speaker and feel powerless, he added.

By explaining all the technical matters of the bills to them before the meetings the legislators can devote more time to debating the central issues instead of minor points.

Dietz already has about 30 legislators signed up to breakfast with him some day next week. He will hold two a day, Monday through Friday.

If the breakfasts at 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. don't work out, Dietz said, he may switch over to having legislative lunches.

Dooley Made First Mistake, But Tar Heels Made More

By JIM FIELDS
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

The locker room was silent, and coach Bill Dooley strolled slowly into the press room, cigarette in hand.

"It was a long afternoon gentlemen," he began. "Tulane played the type of football we thought they were capable of playing, and they have a real fine team. Like everyone has said all week, Miami of Ohio just slipped up on them last Saturday.

"Let me say that we made a lot of mistakes today, but I made the first one," he continued. "It was my decision to go for the first down on fourth and short yardage in the first quarter, and they rose up and stopped us. They then took the ball and went right in for their first touchdown."

One of the mistakes that Dooley cited was the Tar Heels inconsistent play. "On one series of downs, on offense and defense, we would look like a football team, but we just couldn't remain consistent," said Dooley.

Also, we really fell down on our kicking game after devoting so much time to it after the N. C. State game."

Coach Dooley said that he thought the biggest problem in preparation for the Vanderbilt game next week would be getting the team ready mentally.

"For the first time this season, they're really beginning to realize what it means to lose. The loss hurt them more this time than either of the first two did. When you start realizing what it means to lose, you're more willing to pay the price to win."

"I want to emphasize again that this is a young football team and they're continuing to make mistakes, but they're aggressive mistakes, and it's my job as their coach to correct them."

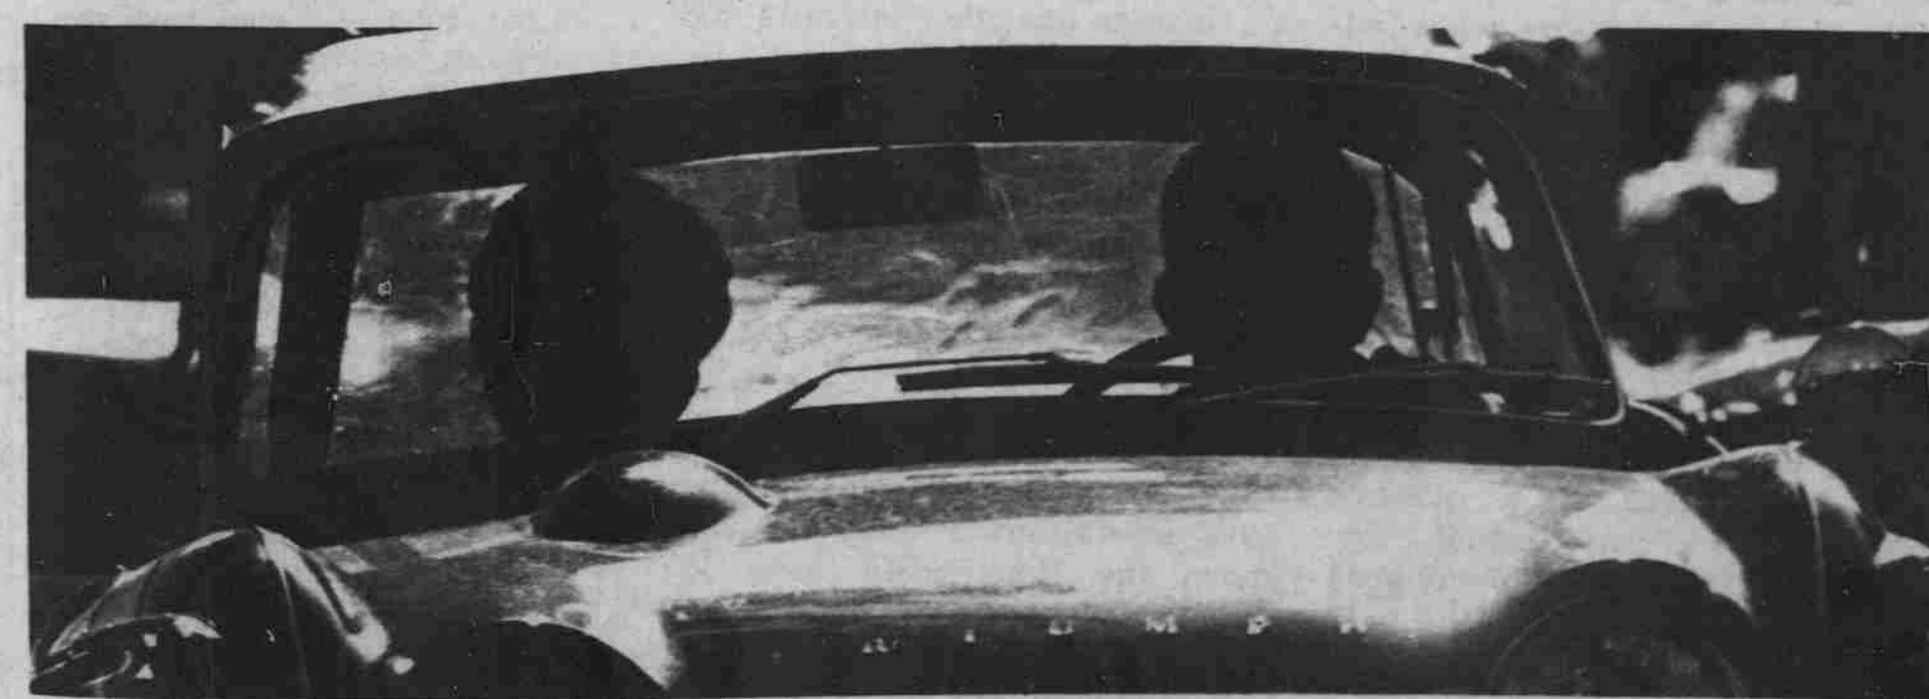

The only Tar Heel player that Dooley cited for playing well was end Charlie Carr. Charlie's personal feeling on the matter was, "You don't play to well when you lose by a score like that. We'll just have to play better next week."

Dooley also said that he thought both of Tulane's quarterbacks, Bobby Duhon and Warren Bankston, played exceptionally well. "I think Duhon is the faster of the two," he said, "but Bankston is certainly much stronger. I thought a couple of times we were never going to get him down."

Jim Trahan, Tulane's fine running back, was also cited by Dooley. "Trahan is a real fine ball player, and he really had a field day out there today."

Dooley said that the team sustained no major injuries although several players were bruised up pretty badly.

No Answer From N. Vietnam

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. — President Johnson told reporters Saturday there had been no reply from North Vietnam to his reiterated peace overtures which he made in a speech Friday night.

Johnson also announced selection of Edward L. Weisel Jr. as the new assistant attorney general in charge of the Civil Division of the Justice Department. Weisel, son of the New York state Democratic committeeman, has been assistant attorney general in charge of the Lands Division.

Johnson, speaking Friday night in San Antonio, Tex., repeated an American offer to stop bombing North Vietnam if Hanoi would enter promptly into productive peace discussions.

The President expressed a willingness to talk with North Vietnam President Ho Chi Minh immediately if it would help the situation.

$70 Billion Defense Bill Signed

JOHNSON CITY, Tex.—President Johnson signed Saturday the $70 billion defense spending bill — largest money bill ever enacted into law — with a warning it may not be enough.

Johnson told Congress restrictions it attached to the spending package may boomerang on the United States.

Johnson outlined three major objections to the bill: —It was $1.6 billion less than he had asked for and may not turn out to be enough.

—It violates "America's word" to Great Britain. —It places a floor under the manpower levels of military reserve forces.

American Jailing Denounced

BERLIN The United States Saturday denounced as a "travesty of justice" the East German sentencing of an American jack of all trades to 15 years as a spy.

An East Berlin court Friday convicted Peter Feinauer, 27-year-old West Berlin resident, formerly of Providence, R.I., of being an agent of the Central Intelligence Agency and helping refugees flee to the West. He was arrested Oct. 7, 1966.

An American spokesman here said the sometime taxi driver, photographer and art student had been held almost a year without learning the charges against himself and had been tried in secret.

In a strong statement the spokesman said the United States took a very serious view of the arrest.

Reds Resume Bombardment

SAIGON — Communist gunners suddenly resumed heavy bombardment of allied positions below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ), firing more than 220 shells and rockets against U.S. Marine bases and South Vietnamese units in the past 24 hours, military spokesmen reported Saturday.

At least one Marine was killed and 33 wounded, 14 of them seriously enough to require helicopter evacuation.
