Panel To View Honor System

By SHARI WILLIS
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

A panel discussion presenting different views of the Di-Phi Honor System Referendum will be sponsored by the YM-YWCA Feb. 13 in 104 Howell Hall.

Moderator of the discussion Earl Haddon, past president of Di-Phi, will tell how the referendum started and will also present issues brought up by the Ad Hoc Committee of Student Government concerning the honor system.

Mike Katz, a professor in the Law School, will present legal issues concerning the present honor system. Jed Dietz, student body vice-president will present the student's point of view. Derschie McDevitt, assistant Dean of Women, is scheduled to present the administration's reasons for supporting the honor system.

Bill Miller, chairman of Men's Honor Court, will discuss the practical applications of the honor system, how it works in reality.

Some of the issues which will be presented from the Ad Hoc Committee are:

-The duality clause requiring students to turn in offenders should be deleted. Proponents of the survey feel that it is against human nature for a student to turn in someone he sees violating the honor system.

-The honor code and the campus code should be separated, and violations of each should be tried under separate courts.

-The campus code should have jurisdiction only on University property and within Chapel Hill town limits. Ladylike and gentlemanly conduct should be defined, with examples of violations.

-Students accused of violations should be able to choose anyone they want for their defense. Under the present system, a person can be defended only by someone who is subject to the same court, a woman for defense in the Women's Honor Court, a man for defense in the Men's Honor Court.

-University courts should not have jurisdiction over cases tried in civil courts.

-Trials should be open to the public and press.

-All decisions concerning suspension should be unanimous and require the presence of four-fifths of the court.

-A co-ed court for academic cases should be instituted.

The discussion will attempt to relate directly to the referendum which will be presented to the student body Feb. 15, and present the pros and cons of the present honor system.

Rocky, Reagan On Wis. Ballot

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) -

"Noncandidates" Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois Tuesday were placed on the Republican ballot of the Wisconsin presidential primary together with three announced candidates.

Democrats narrowly missed a popularity showdown between President Johnson and New York Sen. Robert Kennedy when a special committee, picking the roster for the April 2 voting, excluded "noncandidate" Kennedy and former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama from the ballot.

"Noncandidates" who were tapped can get their names off the ballot only by filing an affidavit by Feb. 29 declaring that they are not candidates. Spokesmen for Rockefeller and Percy indicated they would do so.

Announced Republican candidates Richard M. Nixon, who is campaigning in Wisconsin this week, Michigan Gov. George Romney and Harold Stassen were unanimous choices to be on the Republican ballot.

Johnson and Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota will be the only names on the Democratic side, both unanimous picks of the committee.

Rockefeller, who has consistently said he is not running, has thrown his support behind Romney. He reportedly is under heavy pressure to enter the race if Romney doesn't do well against Nixon in the New Hampshire primary.

Rockefeller's press secretary, Leslie Sliote, said "Governor Rockefeller will sign the disclaimer affidavit as soon as he receives it."

A Percy spokesman said he will file the disclaimer, while Reagan—who is running as a favorite son in California—has said he will not remove his name in Wisconsin.

The main reason Wallace was excluded was because of his third party candidacy in California. The Wisconsin law provides places for only Democrats and Republicans in the primary.

Broughton At GM

Mel Broughton, Democratic candidate for governor, will hold an informal discussion with all interested students, faculty, and townspeople at 4 p.m. today in the Graham Memorial lounge.

Broughton, a Raleigh attorney, is in a three-way race with Lt. Governor Bob Scott and dentist Reginald Hawkins of Charlotte for the democratic nomination for Governor. The state primary will be held May 4.

Broughton will be greeted at 1 p.m. in town hall by a group of students, Chapel Hill merchants and all others interested in meeting him. He will then take a tour of Chapel Hill and the UNC campus until 4 p.m.

Broughton is a Wake Forest graduate and earned a law degree from UNC. He was Chairman of the North Carolina Highway Commission from 1957-61, delegate-at-large to the Democratic Convention in 1960, and chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Party from Sept. 1964 to May, 1966.

Broughton's appearance is being sponsored by Joe Yates and Jeff Beaver, co-chairmen of the Students For Broughton group, in an attempt to acquaint the UNC campus with the candidate.

CRC Proposal Opposed

By RICK GRAY
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

The proposed combination of seven existing Student Government councils into a single body, announced Monday, is meeting objections from Student Government officials.

The proposal, which will be submitted late this month to the Student Legislature by the Residence College Commission, calls for the consolidation of the Carolina Women's Council, Women's Residence Council, Men's Residence Council, Residence College Commission, Men's Honor Court, Women's Honor Court and the Board of Governors.

The consolidated council would be called the Carolina Residence Council.

It also calls for a single coed court with "10 peers selected at random by the Attorney General's office" which would have initial jurisdiction over Honor Code and Campus Code offenses.

The proposal also called for the CRC to legislate all men's and women's rules.

Student Body Vice-President Jed Dietz, Men's Honor Court Chairman Bill Miller, UP student Legislature floor leader Larry Richter, Judicial Committee Chairman Tom Benton and Attorney General Randy Meyer felt that the size of the council and legislation of women's rules by the council were the major impracticalities of the bill.

SP floor leader George Krichbaum had no comment.

Large Court 'Impractical, Shouldn't Legislate Rules'

Bill Miller
... 'inconceivable'

Dietz commented, "It seems incredible that any one court could handle the number of cases that would come under this one grouping. This week, for instance, the Men's Honor Court has 11 cases in front of it, which will probably force them into a very long session, and they do not concern themselves with any of the residence college problems which the CRC plan calls for. The thing that comes across to me is its impracticality." Meyer said, "Basically, I disagree with two parts of the proposal. I would not favor having any court appointed by the attorney general's office, and, secondly, I disagree with the idea that CRC would legislate all men's and women's rules." Miller said that the idea of one court was a good one, but "I do not believe that this court would adequately serve the needs of the campus at large. It is inconceivable that one court could responsibly and efficiently handle all these categories (rules and honor code and campus code violations)."

Jed Dietz
... 'impractical'

Miller suggested that separate courts be established for Honor Code and Campus Code offenses.

Benton saw in the bill "two weaknesses at first glance." "It appears to me," he said, "that the CRC court would be a very large body and possibly an unwieldy one. Secondly, the statement in the Tar Heel says that the CRC would legislate all men's and women's rules. I would staunchly oppose that on the grounds that Student Legislature does have, and ought to have, the right to make any changes in campus regulations."

Richter said that he sees "some difficulties in the proposal and I think that in its present form it will have trouble getting through legislature."

He also thought that the main difficulties in the bill were in the proposed court system and the rules proposal.
