

Carolina Opens Regionals Bid Against St. Bonaventure

By LARRY KEITH
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

RALEIGH—Favored North Carolina meets unbeaten and nationally third ranked St. Bonaventure in what could well be the championship game of this weekend's Eastern Regionals basketball tournament here tonight at 9 o'clock.

North Carolina's opponent, which is unbeaten in 23 games, presents a challenge unlike any the Tar Heels have faced through their own 25-3 campaign.

St. Bonaventure was 13-9 last year and wasn't expected to come even close to an Eastern Regionals berth before the start of this season.

The reason the Bonnies are here is a talented front line which gets 26 points and 16 rebounds per game from 6-11, 265-pound sophomore Bob Lanier.

He is paired with 6-3 Bill Butler, a 20 ppg scorer, and 6-5 John Hayes, a fine offensive rebounder.

"I think the outcome could depend on how well we rebound with Lanier, Hayes and Butler," said Smith.

The Tar Heels will likely play the Bonnies man-to-man and a good guess would see 6-11 Rusty Clark on Lanier, 6-4 Larry Miller on Hayes and 6-9 Bill Bunting on Butler.

St. Bonaventure's back court features 6-2 Jim Satalin and 5-11 playmaker Bill Kalbaugh.

"Yeah, I played against him," Grubar, an All Atlantic Coast Conference tournament player, said earlier this week. "It will be good to see him again."

Grubar, fellow juniors Clark and Bunting, and senior All American Miller, will all be in their second Eastern Regionals.

Miller, the team captain who is averaging 22.9 points per game, says the Tar Heels' attitude is "real good."

"Everyone is real loose," he said at a press luncheon Wednesday, "and we should do all right. I think the fact that we are defending champions and the tournament is being played in Raleigh might make us play better."

Smith, whose fourth-ranked team showed well in winning the ACC tournament last weekend, is counting on another outstanding defensive performance.

"This is the best defensive team I've ever had," he said. "They played 120 minutes of great defensive ball at the tournament in Charlotte."

St. Bonaventure Coach Larry Weise, who says his team feels no pressure from its 23 game winning streak, calls the North Carolina club which is favored to sever the skein, "strong, tall and great."

I saw them play at the nationals last year and I was very impressed," he said earlier this week. "Clark and Bunting could be a problem with their size and Miller is just phenomenal."

The Bonnies will substitute very little, while North Carolina can be expected to go to its bench often in order to wear St. Bonaventure down.

6-4 junior Joe Brown, 6-0 junior Gerald Tuttle and 5-11 sophomore Eddie Fogler are the top Tar Heel reserves.

Sororities To Rush Differently In Fall

By RICK GRAY
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Next fall's sorority rush will be held before orientation.

The change, announced Thursday by Mrs. Dershie McDevitt of the Office of the Dean of Women, is designed to make the rush period easier for both the rushers and the girls in the sorority.

In addition to the change in the time of rush, the rules will be changed, and rush counselors will be used to answer all questions any of the rushers have concerning sororities.

All girls who are interested in sorority rush must sign up in the Dean of Women's office before August 25. Those who sign up will report to Chapel Hill for rush on September 7. Rush will begin on the eighth and continue through the 14th. All of the rushers will stay in Cobb Dormitory during the one week period.

Twenty-four sorority girls will be appointed rush counselors. Three girls will be elected from each of Carolina's eight sorority houses.

The girls will be completely removed from their houses during rush and will not participate in rush activities. They will live in Cobb with the rushers and be on hand to answer any questions that they may have on rush procedures.

One of the reasons for changing the rush method is to relieve some of the social pressure on the coeds who are going through rush, according to Mrs. McDevitt.

She said that many girls come to UNC with their minds set on joining a sorority, and therefore they do not pay attention to other activities explained to them during orientation.

Mrs. McDevitt feels that having rush prior to orientation will allow the girls who are not asked to join a sorority and who are new to Carolina to find an interesting activity.

Another reason for the change is to allow the sorority girls and the rushers to devote a whole semester to academic responsibilities. As the system is now, Mr. McDevitt continued, girls lose a week of study during the rush period.

She also feels that the rules governing rush will be simplified. Sororities will have a more varied choice of entertainment and procedure for each night of rush and will not be restricted to doing the same thing that the other houses are doing.

The training and selection of rush counselors will begin immediately. It will be coordinated by Barbara Barretti of Chi Omega and Judy Boone of Phi Mu, chairman and assistant chairman of sorority rush, respectively.

Girls who want to sign up for next fall's rush may do so beginning today in the Dean of Women's office.

"There are many matters that this petition covers," West said, "so I think it would be appropriate to send copies to the chairmen of all committees."

About a dozen Negroes sat quietly in the Senate gallery as a clerk read their demands for an open hearing to investigate the Feb. 8 slaying of three students in a clash with police at Orangeburg, S.C., and nine other requests stemming from the incident.

Basketball Pep Rally

Carolina's ACC basketball champions depart for the Eastern Regionals today.

Ray Lyles, head cheerleader, has announced a pep rally for 10:50 a.m. in front of South Building to give the team a rousing send-off.

Coach Smith and the team will be present at the rally.

Yackety-Yack Seeking Late Delivery In '69

Late Delivery In '69

By FRANK BALLARD
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Next year's Yackety-Yack will be delivered in the fall of 1969, pending approval of the Publications Board.

The recently appointed editor of next year's Yack, Gregg Dearth, has asked the Publications Board to make the change.

Tentatively, returning students would get their annuals on Sept. 15 and persons who graduated the previous spring would get theirs by mail.

The increasing size of the Yack and the additional pressure this places on the staff to meet a spring deadline is one reason for the proposed re-scheduling.

"The operation has outgrown the traditional mode—we've gotten too big," Dearth explained.

"We're beginning to put the Yack in line with other major college yearbooks: Under the present system we're one of the few books that publish in the spring and include individual pictures of all students."

Layton agreed, "If we kept on spring delivery there's a good chance the publisher wouldn't have time to print the books unless he left out individual pictures.

The Publications Board recently appointed Dearth to be next year's editor. Buck Layton was named Business Manager.

He pointed out that the discount prices offered by publishers during the summer months could be taken advantage of if a fall delivery is adopted.

Also the possibility of having to mail the annuals to students could be avoided. Last year the Yack was mailed in the summer because the publisher's work schedule was overloaded with spring deliveries.

Fall delivery would give more freedom to the creative aspects of the book," Dearth thinks. "This editor could specify what he wants by having control over the contract for the book, instead of working with his predecessor's contract."

Later deadlines would give the staff more time for proofreading and checking picture quality, added Layton.

"And we could include write-ups on spring sports," he said.

Under the present deadlines, Jan. 7, March 1 and April 1 putting out the yearbook is "a rush operation" according to Dearth, managing editor for the 1968 Yack.

Additional workers are presently needed, he said. Interested persons should see Dearth in the basement of Graham Memorial.

This year's delivery date is May 15 and because exams begin soon after that many students will not pick up their Yacks at GM, Dearth noted.

Fall delivery would also eliminate this problem and allow as many as 2,000 students time to claim their books. This improvement is also important because each student's Yack is paid for largely by his student fees.

Other changes are upcoming for next year's yearbook. The Yack office will be moved to the second floor of the new student union, to a room approximately twice the size of the present office.

Dearth hopes to computerize the filing system for the book, which entails working with about 30,000 pictures and information cards. Writing the Yack's index alone involves matching nearly 50,000 numbers with the related names.

The difficulty in putting out the Yack is complicated by "the high number of books per student," Layton remarked.

GM Directors Select Haber GMAB Head

The Graham Memorial Board of Directors announced Thursday the appointment of John Haber as GM Activities Board President for the 1968-69 academic year.

Room Reservations Close Out Today

Today is the last day for men to reserve their present rooms for next fall. Women wishing to change rooms are also asked to reserve rooms today.

To reserve rooms a deposit of $10 for men and $25 for women must be paid and a room reservation card procured in the Cashier's Office in Bynum Hall.

Reservation cards must be taken to the Housing Office, also in Bynum, to complete the reservation.

The Cashier's Office is open from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m., and the Housing Office is open from 8:30 until 5:00 p.m.

There is a July 1 deadline for applying for any university housing.

Reservations made after today will be placed with the group of reservations for room changes and requests of new students.

Assignments will be made in the order of the dates in which the deposits were paid and there is little chance of keeping a room if deposits are paid after today, according to the Housing Office.

After this year both men and women will be required to pay $25 for room reservation.

Housing Reservations are currently made through separate offices, but in the future they will be combined.

War's Death Toll Hits Record High

SAIGON—Official casualty reports released Thursday said 509 Americans were killed and 2,765 wounded in Vietnam fighting for last week, making it the costliest seven-day period of the war for American forces.

Communist losses dropped to 4,335 killed, the lowest toll in six weeks. A total of 418 South Vietnamese fighting men were killed, and Saigon headquarters said Viet Cong terrorists killed 162 civilians, wounded 378 and kidnapped 157.

Fowler Asks For Tax Increase

WASHINGTON—With the financial world watching, Treasury Secretary Henry N. Fowler pleaded with Congress Thursday to raise taxes within 30 days to preserve "the international monetary system as we know it today."

But Republicans, calling for federal spending cuts, accused Fowler of "scare tactics" and key Democrats indicated they were not impressed by the administration's toughest warning to date that urgent action was needed to check the outflow of U.S. gold and the value of the dollar overseas.

Fowler also hinted that the Federal Reserve Board may further tighten credit to check the international gold rush in London, Paris and Zurich.
