

Draft Problems Discussion Today At NCCLU Meet

By NANCY STANCILL
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Resistance to the draft and capital punishment will be discussed by the North Carolina Civil Liberties Union, an affiliate of the National Civil Liberties Union, which is meeting in Chapel Hill today.

All interested students and faculty are invited to attend the annual meeting, which will be held at the Community Church. The conference will begin at 10:30 a.m. with seminars on civil problems.

"We believe that it is unconstitutional to draft students because of their political expression. Each individual has the right to be a conscientious objector," said Daniel Pollitt, stating one of the views of the NCCLU.

Pollitt, a UNC professor of constitutional law, will lead a discussion on the problems of the draft resistance and opposition. Special emphasis will be given to the implications of the Corky Eaton case. Eaton burned his draft card last fall.

As a result, Eaton has been reclassified from 2-S to 1-A. The NCCLU voted two months ago to defend him when his subsequent appeal comes before the State Draft Board.

Other highlights of the meeting will be a discussion of free speech, especially in relation to the recent Speaker Ban decision. The problems of church and state and capital punishment will also be featured in discussions.

Lawyers and law professors from across the state will participate and lead discussions. Special guest speaker will be Henry Schwarzhild, executive director of the Lawyers' Constitutional Defense Committee.

Humanist To Speak Here

Dr. J. Bronowski, one of the world's leading humanists, will deliver the 1968 John Calvin McNair Lectures here April 2-3.

Both lectures will be in Carroll Hall at 8 p.m. The topic will be "The Meaning of Man—Contributions of Biology and Medicine to Man's Appraisal of Himself."

Dr. Bronowski is deputy director of the Salk Institute for Biological Studies in La Jolla, Calif.

Although primarily a mathematician and scientist, he has long had a major interest in the humanities. His primary scientific interests began shifting from mathematics to the life sciences in the late 1950's.

The most widely acclaimed of his books, "Science and Human Values," is based on a series of lectures he delivered at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1953.

English teaching problems. The Conference is an outgrowth of a meeting of the Executive Committee of the N.C. Association of Junior Colleges with President William C. Friday and the Chancellors of the four campuses July, 1967.

It is designed primarily to provide (1) a forum for the exchange of ideas on such matters as the Junior College curriculum, methods of instruction, the transfer of students, and staffing problems and (2) closer identity of community and junior college faculties and the intellectual stimulation that might result from the association.

The Conference will get underway with registration at 11:30 a.m. Friday, March 22, in the Carolina Ballroom.

Land Surveys Made For Botany Program

Land surveys are being made at present as preliminary work for the Research Triangle International Botany Program gets underway, according to botany professor, Dr. Helmut Lieth, coordinator.

"One square mile in the Blackwood Division of the Duke forest has been set aside as an experimental forest site," he said here today.

"We are dividing the area in various plots which will be assigned to different research projects. The first phase of mapping the area will be finalized this summer and then the tedious two-year project of registering all plants and animals in this area will begin. Fencing of the plot will depend on approval of research grants," he said.

"Some 30 scientists are involved in the project which is an enormously large number," he said.

One of the planned research studies involves the cycling of minerals—a process that has only recently been focused upon by scientists.

Victory Village Gets Playground Toys

Four new pieces of outdoor play equipment brighten the Jackson Circle Playground in Victory Village.

The $300 expenditure for equipment was made with funds appropriated by the Student Legislature. Victory Village's Board of Alderman was responsible for choosing the equipment, which consists of a merry-go-round and three "saddle mates."

Mr. John Henson, manager of Married Student Housing, supervised the installation of the new equipment.

The playground was founded in 1962, when the administration financed asphalt paving to serve as basketball, volleyball, and badminton courts. The University Department of Recreation aided the Victory Village residents in planning the area.

Conversion of the old single unit dwelling layout to apartments in the Village necessitated the recreation area. The residents lobbied for two years before the original funds were granted.

In August, 1963 the Dean of Student Affairs contributed an additional $200 from the discretionary fund. Since that time all money for the playground has come from Student Government.

ISC Establishes Speakers' Bureau

By LOUISE JENNINGS
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

A Speakers' Bureau which will provide foreign students who will speak throughout North Carolina has been established by the International Student Center.

The Bureau which was founded March 1 will provide foreign visitors to speak to clubs and organizations.

The bureau has been coordinated with several foreign students from other campuses in North Carolina including State, Duke, UNC-G, Davidson, UNC-C, East Carolina, and N.C. Agriculture and Technical Institute in Greensboro.

Three hundred and fifty letters will be sent to clubs and organizations informing them of the service.

Speakers from the participating schools will be contacted from the program center at Carolina when a request is made for a speaker from an organization in their area.

Even before the letters have been sent, there has been a tremendous response to the program, according to Steve Mueller, Chairman of the ISC.

The bureau, headed by Bill Smith, was established for a number of reasons. According to Mueller "It provides for the state as a whole a direct benefit from the foreign students on campus."

Many North Carolina citizens have objected in the past to the approximately 1,000 foreign students enrolled in state supported schools. Critics have argued that while there is a ruling which prohibits more than 15 percent out of state enrollment at UNC, there is no rule concerning the number of foreign students, according to Mueller.

North Carolina residents have argued that foreign students may be enrolled at the expense of students from North Carolina.

Mueller hopes that the Speakers' Bureau will give a large number of residents outside the Chapel Hill area a chance to benefit from the foreign students so more people will understand the advantages of the International Student Center.

Another advantage of the Speakers' Bureau, according to Mueller is that the foreign students are given the opportunity to see more parts of N.C.

Bobby Kennedy Tosses Hat In

But Sorensen said Kennedy felt very strongly it would be morally wrong not to try for the nomination in hopes of changing the Johnson administration's position on Vietnam, Negro unrest and budget priorities.

Sorensen said Kennedy definitely had decided to oppose Johnson's renomination. But, though others in a position to know said Kennedy would announce as a candidate, Sorensen refused to say which way Kennedy would turn.

Sorensen thus held out the possibility that on Saturday morning, in the Senate caucus room, Kennedy might actually choose another route against Johnson, such as a wholehearted endorsement of McCarthy's candidacy.

But there was no doubt elsewhere that Kennedy had made up his mind. Even Sorensen indicated in his remarks that this was the case.
