

Tar Heels Ease Davidson, 70-66

—DTH Staff Photo by GENE WANG

Clark scores over two Davidson defenders

By LARRY KEITH
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
RALEIGH — North Carolina won a glimpse of California sunshine and a breath of California smog by coming back to defeat Davidson 70-66 in the championship game of the Eastern Regionals here Saturday night.

After a sluggish first half put them down by six, 34-28, the Tar Heels improved every part of their game to win a trip to the national finals in Los Angeles.

North Carolina will play Ohio State, 81-80 upset winner over Kentucky, next Friday night.

Rusty Clark, who played so well the night before against

North C.	FG	FT	RB	TP
Grubar	3-8	5-6	1	11
Bunting	1-4	0-0	4	2
Scott	8-15	2-2	6	18
Clark	8-17	6-7	17	22
Miller	7-14	2-5	6	16
Fogler	0-3	1-2	0	1
Brown	0-1	0-0	1	0
Tuttle	0-0	0-1	2	0
TOTALS	27-62	16-23	38	70

Davidson	FG	FT	RB	TP
Moser	0-7	2-2	7	2
Huckel	4-8	4-5	5	12
Maloy	6-13	6-6	13	18
Kroll	5-13	6-6	5	16
Knowles	5-17	1-2	12	11
O'Neill	3-7	1-1	5	7
TOTALS	23-65	20-22	47	66

St. Bonaventure, won the hero's mantle for the Tar Heels.

He scored 22 points and retrieved 17 stray shots, both game highs, and exhibited usual fine defensive form.

It was Larry Miller, however, who put North Carolina ahead to stay against the Southern Conference champions.

He scored all but one of the points in a 7-0 surge midway through the second period that brought UNC from three behind, 46-43, to four up, 50-46.

The go-ahead bucket was a picture perfect and uncontested one-hander from the corner with 10:56 to play.

North Carolina led one other time earlier in the half, 43-42 at 13:36 on a dippy-do shot by Charlie Scott. The All-Atlantic Coast Conference sophomore trailed Clark in scoring with 18 points.

After the Tar Heels' second Eastern Regionals victory in as many years, Coach Dean Smith admitted that prior to the contest he had "been concerned" about this one.

"We had played four good games in a row," he said, "and it's hard to keep going at that pace."

"The whole team was fabulous, though, in the second half, especially defensively, when we were able to come back."

Smith said he didn't know what to blame the poor first half on.

"I don't know whether we were that bad or Davidson made us look bad," he said.

The Tar Heels' superior shooting in the second half may have been the best statistical reference for their twenty-sixth victory in 29 games. They hit 14 of 29 compared to 10 of 34 for the Wildcats and finished at 43 per cent.

Davidson, like North Carolina, put four men in double figures. Mike Maloy led with 18, Gerry Kroll, who fouled out with 2:24 remaining, had 16, Wayne Huckel scored 12 and Rodney Knowles had 11.

Maloy and Knowles, with 13 and 12 recoveries, respectively, paced the Wildcats surprising 47-37 rebound advantage.

The Tar Heels' fourth man in double figures was Dick Grubar, who scored 11 before fouling out with 38 seconds to go.

That fifth personal let Davidson playmaker Dave Moser get his only two points of the night on free throws that brought the Wildcats to within three, 67-64.

They had been down by nine, North Carolina's biggest advantage of the night, at 2:03 to play.

Davidson outscored the Tar Heels 10 to 5 from there until the end of the game. The closest they came was two, 68-66, before Scott concluded the scoring in the final ten seconds.

Except for one spurt very early in the first half, the opening period was controlled almost exclusively by Davidson.

Neither team scored through the first two minutes. When Clark hooked over Knowles for two points at 17:58, though, it started the Tar Heels on their way to an 8-0 lead.

This is where the momentum turned completely around. The Wildcats, although making only 42 per cent of their shots over-all, outscored North Carolina 9-0 to take a one point lead.

Clark, who finished with ten points, gave the Tar Heels a one point lead, 14-13 with 9:23 to go. That was the last of the half, however, as Davidson set out on another 9-0 surge which ran its lead to eight, 22-14.

The Wildcats' biggest lead of the first half was nine points. It occurred three times, at 28-19, 30-21 and 32-23.

Kroll tied Clark for halftime scoring honors. He got ample assistance from his two other front line partners, Maloy and Knowles, who tallied 9 and 8 respectively.

Maloy with 9 and Knowles with 8 led Davidson to a decisive 24-16 rebounding advantage.

Clark led UNC with six.

Davidson's fine pressing defense caused the Tar Heels to hit only 39 per cent of their shots.

O'Neil did an outstanding job on Miller, who made three field goals for six points, the first not coming until 5:58 to go.

Davidson's first half margin actually came at the free-throw line where it made 8 of 10 compared to two of four for the Tar Heels.

Joyner, James Join To Form James RC

By LOUISE JENNINGS
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Joyner residents accepted by acclamation last week a proposal by James dorm to join them in forming a new James Residence College.

"A girl's dorm can't exist alone any more on this campus," according to Barbara Brownridge, President of Joyner. "There is a need to belong to a residence college. Residence Colleges not dorms are supporting projects," she continues.

She indicated that the Granville Blood Drive, for example could not have been successful if it had been conducted by a sma dorm.

Joyner residents will participate in James activities including bridge tournaments, parties for underprivileged children, and working with the James radio station.

They will also work with James in helping individuals to form their own interest groups.

Joyner will send representatives to the James Senate, and will contribute as much per girl to the James treasury as James residents.

Separate funds for operating each dorm will be retained. Joyner residents will continue to elect their own officers, and each floor of James will continue to support its own treasury.

James and Joyner as a girls' dorm are both new this year. They have had mixers and worked together on several projects.

According to Miss Brownridge they have seen the advantages of a residence college and have been "feeling out whether the distance between the two dorms would be a disadvantage."

She said that at first several Joyner residents had been concerned with the large number of freshmen in James and the relatively small number in Joyner.

James is predominately freshmen only because it is a new dorm, Miss Brownridge said. She said that approximately 40 freshmen would be in Joyner next fall, and a more equal distribution of classes is expected in James.

Policy Toughened On Fixing Checks

By WAYNE HURDER
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Students who pass bad checks will have only five days to clear-up the bad check from now on.

Student legislature Thursday night approved a new policy for the Student Credit Commission which allows them to give students only five days to clear up the checks before they can be turned over to the Student Attorney General for prosecution.

Formerly students were allowed 30 days to make amends.

The number of days was changed, according to Commission chairman Glenn Datnoff, because "30 days is entirely too long."

Students usually just wait until the last minute to clear up their bad checks, he explained, and five days is enough for this, he said.

The bill which passed legislature also provided for the establishment of a review board to consider cases where a person hasn't cleared up their checks.

The review board would consider whether to turn the case over to the Attorney General. The board would act as "mediator between students and merchants," according to Datnoff.

Actually, Datnoff said, "so far we haven't had a need for the board. We hope we won't have to turn anyone over to the Attorney General."

In the eight years the Credit Commission has been operating no cases have had to be turned over to the Attorney General.

The board will be composed of three persons, the board chairman, the committee member who handled the case, and another person.

The Credit Commission allows students two bad checks a semester before the student's name is put on a list which is circulated among merchants who have consented to work with the commission.

Not all Chapel Hill merchants work with the commission because the commission is short-staffed, Datnoff said, and in need of more members to be able to handle all cases.

Merchants who worked with the commission agree to turn bad checks over to the commission rather than to the justice of the peace for collection.

TV Mixers Held With Cobb Girls

By WAYNE HURDER
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Two "watch the game" mixers have been held in East Cobb Friday and Saturday night in an effort to break "the inherent bias in the dating-type function."

"The inherent bias," according to Morehead Residence College governor Rick Page, is the tendency for boys to get more use out of the residence college system than the coeds because the boys always do the asking and decide where to go leaving many girls unable to attend college functions.

To make an adjustment to this bias, Page explained, Morehead Residence College decided to have two easily accessible mixers in East Cobb.

Most mixers in residence colleges are held in social rooms which are usually in the men's hall.

Girls are much more shy about going to the men's hall than the men to the women's hall, East Cobb President Sally Spurlock explained, so the college officers decided to hold a mixer in Cobb for a change.

The result was pleasing, according to Page. Several hundred people showed up to watch the game on TV and dance afterwards.

Morehead Residence College plans to have more informal activities in the future, according to Page, such as movies in the Forest Theatre, coed softball games, etc.

A Sex Day, "very successful" last year, Page said, has been scheduled for April 9. On the agenda for it are coed softball and football games and a cook out.

Morehead decided to have the "watch the game" mixer after Cobb officers complained that too many girls were being left out of the residence college activities because of the "inherent bias" of the dating system.

The mixers were organized by Page, Spurlock, East Cobb vice-president Dabby Bishop, and Morehead college secretary Jan Hudson.

Morehead decided to have the "watch the game" mixer after Cobb officers complained that too many girls were being left out of the residence college activities because of the "inherent bias" of the dating system.

The mixers were organized by Page, Spurlock, East Cobb vice-president Dabby Bishop, and Morehead college secretary Jan Hudson.

Morehead decided to have the "watch the game" mixer after Cobb officers complained that too many girls were being left out of the residence college activities because of the "inherent bias" of the dating system.

The mixers were organized by Page, Spurlock, East Cobb vice-president Dabby Bishop, and Morehead college secretary Jan Hudson.

Morehead decided to have the "watch the game" mixer after Cobb officers complained that too many girls were being left out of the residence college activities because of the "inherent bias" of the dating system.

The mixers were organized by Page, Spurlock, East Cobb vice-president Dabby Bishop, and Morehead college secretary Jan Hudson.

RFK Enters Race On Peace Platform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy threw the Democratic party into turmoil Saturday by announcing his candidacy to wrest the presidency from Lyndon B. Johnson and change his "disastrous, divisive policies" — hopefully with Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy's help.

"The fight is just beginning, and I believe that I can win," said Kennedy. He announced he would run in the Nebraska, Oregon and California primaries alongside McCarthy, and would campaign for the Minnesota peace candidate in other states.

Standing in almost the exact spot in the Senate caucus room where his late brother embarked on his successful quest for the presidency in 1960, Kennedy proposed to work "in harmony" with McCarthy in hopes of presenting the Democratic National Convention in August with the "strongest possible standard bearer."

It was obvious that Kennedy regarded himself as that man. But McCarthy, after viewing the announcement on television at Green Bay, Wis., rejected any sort of campaign "deal" with Kennedy.

"I think I am still the best potential candidate in the field," McCarthy said. "I can win."

He welcomed Kennedy's offer of active support in the Wisconsin primary but said he thought he could win without it.

"I'm not prepared to deal with anybody," McCarthy said coolly. If his cause became hopeless at the convention, he said, he would release his delegates and "they would be free to make their own decisions."

Noting his single-handed win of 42 per cent of the Democratic vote in New Hampshire, McCarthy added pointedly:

"It got a little lonely in New Hampshire. I could have used a little help... I walked alone."

Kennedy said he informed President Johnson of his decision in advance, through an unnamed intermediary. Johnson, he said, "did not indicate pleasure or displeasure." He sent his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to Wisconsin Friday night to tell the news to McCarthy.

Although Kennedy stressed his decision reflected no "personal animosity or disrespect" toward Johnson, the constant break between the two was perhaps made clear by Kennedy's refusal to accept Johnson's offer of a "deal" with McCarthy.

McCarthy said he would run in the Nebraska, Oregon and California primaries alongside McCarthy, and would campaign for the Minnesota peace candidate in other states.

Standing in almost the exact spot in the Senate caucus room where his late brother em-

2nd Baseman Hurt Friday, Now Critical

Mike Vannoy, junior second baseman for the Carolina baseball team was listed in "critical" condition at Memorial Hospital with a head injury sustained in a practice game yesterday.

The Winston-Salem native underwent emergency surgery Friday night and is progressing satisfactorily, according to hospital spokesmen.

Vannoy was struck above the left ear by a pitched ball during a practice session between Carolina and Duke Friday. UNC Coach Walter Rabb said the utility infielder was wearing a protective helmet at the time.

Despite the helmet, the pitch was so hard he received the serious condition and was in semi-conscious condition late Saturday.

Rabb used Vannoy mostly in reserve but added that he expected to use him quite a bit this season.

The Tar Heels will open their season Monday against Adelphi College.

—DTH Staff Photo by Sam Williams

The warm weather the campus has been experiencing on an again, off again basis really causes trouble for the tots running around McCorkle Place. It's so nice one day and then so terrible the next that they never quite know when it's okay for them to play in the grass or not.