Tickets To Game Are All Sold Out

By RICK GRAY
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
If you want a way to the NCAA finals in Los Angeles this week but don't already have tickets, forget it. Two charter flights are scheduled to carry students to the finals, and both are filled almost completely. Of the 968 tickets that Carolina got for the NCAA's final round this weekend, 300 were allocated for student use, and all of them went to the students who were booked on charter flights. The remaining tickets went to the Rams Club, team members' parents, University President William C. Friday and Governor Dan K. Moore.

Officials in the ticket office said that the students would not sign up for the charter flights unless they were guaranteed tickets. The charter flights include the price of round trip transportation and admission to the games.

Joey Aiken and Dusty Rhodes organized the first flight. Aiken said that they began organizing the trip after the ACC tourney, and that when the Heels defeated Davidson, "We knew we were going."

Their flight is for 96 people, and they have a waiting list of 20 people. The group will fly from Raleigh Durham airport Friday and will go straight to L.A. on a Boeing 727 Whisper jet with a stop in Denver to refuel.

The organizers are making no profit on the deal, according to Aiken. They do, however, get free plane tickets.

Eddie Bagwell started organizing his charter flight Monday morning and by late afternoon Tuesday he had sold all 200 places that included tickets. Some 23 additional people paid money to fly out on one of the two planes chartered, but without tickets, taking the chance of picking up tickets in Los Angeles.

The two planes, one a jet and the other a prop jet will be leaving Raleigh Durham airport Friday.

'Ugliest Man' Contest To Aid Campus Chest

By TOM HILDEBRANDT
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
Campus Chest solicitations will be done on campus this April 1-10 through Alpha Phi Omega's Ugliest Man on Campus contest, APO Chairman Vincent Townsend announced today.

Townsend said that formerly the drives were done separately but will be united this year to facilitate operations. The Campus chest is the university's answer to the United Fund drive in larger communities.

The money collected by the contest to select the worst-looking male on campus will be distributed among six organizations: the O'Berry Center in Goldsboro, the NC Heart Association, the Murdoch School in Butner, the UNC-YMCA, Project Hope and the UNC Foreign Students' Emergency Fund.

Townsend said that since UMOG would be the only solicitation made on campus the participation from the men's living units should be close to 100 per-cent. The goal is to be a contribution of $50 for each University student.

The two divisions for this year's contest are the fraternities, to be judged on total contributions, and the Residence colleges to be judged per capita basis.

The winning "ugly men" in each division will receive an all-expense-paid date in addition to trophies for their residence's trophy rooms.

Townsend said the fraternities drive would be the responsibility of the pledge classes in connection with Greek Week. Hopefully, the "ugly man" would get the support of the women's residence by campaigning in the lobby of the dorms.

Letters outlining organization are being mailed to all house presidents this week so inter-dorm competition can start next Tuesday.

Moynihan To Speak On Urban Problems

John F. Kennedy's Assistant Secretary of Labor for Policy Planning and Research will be the speaker at the YM-YWCA Poverty and Affluence Symposium to be held this Friday evening on the University of North Carolina campus.

No Pep Rally Scheduled For Finals

3 Seniors Cited By Frat Council

Reed Cunningham, Randy Worth, and Sterling Phillips received the Outstanding Fraternity Senior Awards at the IFC meeting Monday night.

The award is new this year and is given to a senior to recognize contribution to the fraternity system.

It was established to "give an incentive to work harder in IFC," according to Randy Meyer, former IFC Chairman.

"There are many fraternity people who have contributed in areas other than just fraternities, but the IFC wanted to recognize those who made the contribution strictly in the area of fraternities," he said.

Cunningham is from Spartanburg, S. C. and is a past president of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity and Chairman of the IFC Rush Commission.

Worth is from Raleigh and is a past president of Phi Delta Theta and Chairman of the IFC Judicial Reform Committee.

Phillips is from Greensboro and is a past Rush Chairman of IFC. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Nominations for the award were made by IFC, and the final choice was made by the Executive Committee. Plaques were awarded the three members chosen.

'68 Symposium Focuses On Red China

By MARY BURCH
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
"Red China and the West" is the theme of the 1968 Carolina Symposium to be held March 31-April 3.

Edgar Snow, Han Suyin and Alexander Eckstein will be among the speakers at the Symposium.

Snow, an author and journalist, was a foreign correspondent in China, Burma and Indochina for the Chicago Tribune, New York Herald Tribune and London Daily Herald. Through his association with Mme. Sun Yat-Sen he was the first news correspondent to enter Red China.

Han Suyin, a pseudonym used by Dr. Elizabeth Comber, is a writer and speaker. Her many books and articles have made her one of Asia's most eloquent spokesmen.

Alexander Eckstein is a member of the National Committee on U.S.-China Relations and presently working on a study of economic retardation in China. Other speakers include Robert Barnett, Mirko Bruner, Kenneth Michael Wilford, P.K. Banerjee, A. Doak Barnett, Donald S. Zagoria, and Roger Hilsman.

The traditional Carolina Symposium, a biennial forum on a topic of serious interest to the University community, had its origins in the Human Relations Institute which held its first seminar March 20-25, 1927.

The purpose of the Symposium is to present speeches and activities which sharpen the intellectual inquisitiveness of the University community and the entire state of North Carolina.

The Symposium has traditionally been on a public affairs issue according to Taylor Branch, Chairman of the 1968 Symposium.

"The topic, 'Red China and the West,' seems especially appropriate for a program concerned with public affairs," said Branch. "It brings eminent expertise to a problem which is both unfamiliar to most Americans and of pressing importance."

Red China was chosen as the focal point according to Branch because "it is the area least understood in our Asian policy."

"Most people who discuss Red China speak in vague terms of the country's background in connection with Viet Nam, according to Branch.

"The Symposium Committee hopes to treat Red China in a broad perspective," Branch emphasized. "We have included the cultural, political, economic, ideological, organizational and historical elements in an overall picture of the Asian nation."

The committee is depending more on the nature of the topic to attract the student's interest than the prestige of the speakers. The speakers are undisputed experts in their field, but many will be unfamiliar to the average student, said Branch.

'Guerrilla Skits' Attack Viet War

By WAYNE HURDER
of The Daily Tar Heel Staff
Five UNC coeds, dressed as Vietnamese peasants, carried cardboard coffins and infant-style dolls Tuesday as they marched through campus in protest of the Vietnam war. The demonstration followed another one Monday during which 15 persons were arrested as they set in to impede Dow Chemical Co. recruiting on campus.

Two of the coeds marching in the "Guerrilla Skit" carried signs, one of them reading "Napalm saved my baby from Communism, a fate worse than death."

The five walked silently through Polk Place and Y-Court, down to Lenoir Hall, through it to the Pine Room, and up to the flag pole in Polk Place. There they knelt for a few minutes and left the three coffins.

The "guerrilla skit," as the actions are termed by anti-war demonstrators, are sponsored by the Students for a Democratic Society and the Southern Student Organizing Committee.

The groups sponsored the picketing of Gardner Hall and South Building Monday, at which time they presented a request to Dean of Student Affairs C.O. Cathey that Dow recruiters be forced to debate the morality of their production of napalm.

They held a meeting Monday night at which they collected $75.44 in contributions for bondsman fees of the 15 persons arrested.

The demonstrators also decided to hold a vigil outside South Building during the trial of the 15 on Tuesday. The trial is scheduled for 9 a.m. in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court.

The 15 persons—nine of them students—were charged with law which prohibits a person or group to enter a public building and disrupt the business conducted in the building.

The 15 sat in the doorway of the room in which the Dow recruiter was interviewing applicants. They were arrested by campus police.

The "guerrilla skits" were started a month ago. About five have been held since then. Roger Wells, one of the organizers of the skit, explained that they are used "as another way of bringing the war to the consciousness of people who might not otherwise think of it."

Judy Weinberg, organizer of Tuesday's skit, said the group laid the coffins before the American flag "because most of us feel America is doing something very immoral."

"The flag pole seems to us as a place of gathering for Americans so we thought we'd leave them there.

Rules Committee Stalls Rights Bill

WASHINGTON—A rebellious rules committee Tuesday struck down the plan of House Democratic leaders to bring the Senate's open housing bill unchanged to a showdown floor vote next week—and perhaps at all.

By an 8-7 vote that shocked the leadership, the committee decided to delay its own action on the civil rights package until April 9, just two days ahead of Congress' scheduled 10-day Easter recess.

Even then, there were signs the panel would refuse to authorize the up or down vote the leadership wanted.

If it did, the House vote would in all likelihood fall past the April 22 start of the Rev. Martin Luther King's "Poor People's Crusade" in the capital.

Gold Price Drops - Dollar Gains

PARIS—The price of gold dropped anew Tuesday on European markets and the American dollar and British pound recovered more strength in the wake of last week's severe monetary crisis.

In London, where the Labor government introduced a severe austerity budget, the pound soared to its best level on the foreign exchange market since Feb. 26, just before the great gold rush began. The closing rate was $2.40 1-2 per pound.

On the Paris market gold was down to $39.04 an ounce amid a war of nerves by speculators still trying to cash in on quick profits. The price was almost a dollar an ounce less than Monday's record high of $44.36 an ounce.

British Tax Raised Ten Per Cent

LONDON—The Labor government Tuesday staggered Britons with a jolting 10 per cent tax hike—highest in the nation's history—and coupled it with an 18-month wage freeze.

It warned the whole grim package will slash living standards by as much as three per cent for the next two years.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins, presenting the government's annual budget to a hushed and gloomy House of Commons, said the moves were necessary if Britain was to climb back up the painful road to recovery after devaluation of the pound, a continuing international payments deficit and the gold crisis.

"These are burdens we cannot shrug off," Jenkins said. "I believe the British people understand and are willing to make the necessary sacrifices."

VC Claim Security Breakthrough

SAIGON—The South Vietnamese command Tuesday displayed two Viet Cong defectors who said North Vietnam's spy network had cracked security on B52 raids giving Communists 24 hours warning on time and target for the giant U.S. bombers.

"That's baloney," U.S. Brig. Gen. Winant Sidle said in a prompt and firm denial. "Many of our strikes are not even planned that far in advance." Sidle is Gen. William C. Westmoreland's information chief.

Even as the Viet Cong defectors were telling of the alleged security leak, the B52 Stratofortresses were dropping tons of bombs on North Vietnamese forces surrounding Khe Sanh.

All of the speeches will be carried on WUNC-TV and WUNC radio. The Symposium is sponsoring an Intercollegiate Seminar composed of students from 34 colleges and universities in U.S. and Canada. The students will discuss their ideas with the speakers after each speech.
