

Carolina College Hosts Laboratory Assistant Director Of FBI To Speak

The third N.C. Laboratory in Community Leadership Development will be held for selected professional volunteer community leaders Aug. 10-17 at Lees-McRae College in Banner Elk.

Focus of the sessions will be on human relations in community development and organizational efforts.

This specially-designed laboratory will be attended by 36 North Carolinians who are currently involved in or should be involved in the leadership of community and state-wide projects, according to Dr. E.R. Watson, associate professor of education at the University of North Carolina here.

The UNC School of Education, Extension Division and the Charlotte Area Fund are joint sponsors of the Laboratory.

John Zuidema, director of the Charlotte Area Fund, is serving with Dr. Watson as co-chairman of the Laboratory. Zuidema has announced that the Laboratory again will be under the direction of Dr. Arthur M. Cohen, member of the Board of National Training Laboratories, and professor of psychology, Georgia State College, Atlanta.

While the Laboratory will use some of the methods pioneered by the National Training Laboratories, the problem sessions will have a unique focus upon on-going community programs in North Carolina.

Substantial support for the program will be provided by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation.

$50,000

Grad Student Grant Given

UNC has received from the U.S. Office of Education a grant of $49,920 to support eight master's fellowships in library science and to assist in defraying the institutional costs entailed in administering the grant.

Authorized under the Higher Education Act of 1965, Title II-B, these fellowships carry a stipend of $2,650 for one year of study in the University's School of Library Science and may be awarded only to residents of the United States who are registered as full-time students in the Master of Science in Library Science degree program.

In addition to providing the basic stipend, the grant will exempt fellowship holders from tuition charges.

William C. Sullivan, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, will speak on campus at 1 p.m. Friday, April 26, in the Law School Courtroom, Manning Hall.

His address, sponsored by the Freshman Law School Class, will focus on "The Negro and Communism."

Sullivan will arrive at Raleigh-Durham Airport Thursday night from Washington and will address a law class in criminal procedure 10 a.m. Friday.

Sullivan will be available for press interviews at 12 noon Friday in the Law School. Since his particular FBI area is domestic intelligence, he is expected to entertain questions regarding the Martin Luther King assassination.

An FBI member since 1941, Sullivan has served in all sections of the United States as well as outside the country during World War II on confidential assignment. He has held his current position since 1961.

Order Of The Grail Selects Seventeen

The Order of the Grail tapped 17 new members in secret pre-dawn ceremonies this morning.

The 17 were chosen "in recognition of leadership, service and outstanding character." They are:

John Graling Callan of Manhasset, N.Y., Franklin St. Clair "Rusty" Clark of Fayetteville, William Charles Darrah of Mattapoisett, Mass., Noel Dunivant, Jr. of Whiteville, John Lawrence Haber of Asheville, William Benjamin Hawfield of Charlotte, Thomas Baisden Heys, Jr. of Chattanooga, Tenn., Charles Neville Jeffress of Richmond, Va., George West Krichbaum, Jr. of Asheville, Michael Albert Menius of China Grove, Howard Glenn Miller of Mountain Brook, Ala., Douglas Williams Morgan of Canton, Ohio, William Edward Riggan of Raleigh, John Lester Sarratt of Atlanta, Ga., Charles Thomas "Charlie" Scott of New York, N.Y., Joseph Blake Shedd of Leonia, N.J., and Roger Kent Thompson of Albemarle.

The Order of the Grail is an undergraduate honorary for sophomores and juniors. It was founded in 1920 and it draws its members equally from dormitories and fraternities.

This year, eight of the inductees are from dormitories and nine from fraternities. Nine of the new members are out-of-state students.

The Grail is a service organization that organizes the sale of class rings and graduation invitations.

Frat Pledges Attack Litter

By FRANK BALLARD of The Daily Tar Heel Staff

Fraternity pledge clean-up crews attacked littered areas throughout Chapel Hill Tuesday to aid the town's "Rid Litter" campaign and earn points in Interfraternity Council pledge class competition.

The clean-up is the IFC's annual Greek Week service project and will be completed Wednesday.

The number of pledges participating has not been tabulated but an estimated 50 per cent of the 466 IFC houses' pledges worked Tuesday.

The IFC points are being awarded on the basis of the percentage of each fraternity's pledge class which participates in the clean-up.

Jody Moore, Greek Week co-chairman, reported that all IFC member houses are working in the project and that each fraternity will also paint trash barrels provided by the town for Jubilee.

Miss Caroline Feiss a graduate assistant working for the Chapel Hill Appearance Commission said the pledges are concentrating on vacant lots and yards of elderly citizens who cannot do the work.

"Mainly they are picking up trash and heavy items such as discarded refrigerators" she explained.

Pledges are also helping carry away the collected trash on trucks furnished by the town of Chapel Hill.

Included in the clean-up areas are Northside School and the federal housing project in the Craige Street neighborhood.
