

Heart Transplant Patients Improve And 'Hang On'

By United Press International
A French Roman Catholic priest, the world's newest heart transplant patient, ate light food Tuesday and was strong enough to acknowledge some of the get well messages he has received. In Houston, however, doctors reported that city's third transplant patient was "just hanging on."

The other two recovering heart transplant recipients—one in Houston and one in London—continued their recovery process with no complications.

The Rev. Jean-Marie Boulogne, a priest from the southern region of Marseilles who received a new heart three days ago in Paris, was reported making "very satisfying" progress. He is the world's 14th such patient, and France's third.

"He has eaten lightly today and acknowledged some messages of sympathy addressed to him," said the official bulletin from Broussais Hospital. "The condition of the patient continues to evolve in a very satisfying manner. By his dynamism he has given us significant help in the various medical care we are offering him."

In Houston's St. Luke's Hospital, John M. Stuckwisch, 62 the world's oldest surviving heart transplant patient, was "just hanging on," a spokesman said.

"One member of the transplant team, two resident doctors and two nurses are in constant attendance," a hospital statement said.

Everett C. Thomas, the first of Dr. Denton Cooley's three Houston patients, and Frederick West, London's transplant recipient, were both in good condition.

Thomas, 47, of Phoenix Ariz., was reported "real fine, with a good appetite, brave attitude and cheerful disposition." Doctors said he spent most of his time sitting up reading in bed.

West, 45, spent much of Tuesday out of bed, 11 days after he received the heart of an Irish carpenter killed in a fall.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard, who performed the world's first heart transplant, said Tuesday in Rome people must have patience with the technique for the time being even though there are currently more failures than successes.

Viet Cong Deny Killing Newsmen

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Viet Cong Tuesday denied it had anything to do with the killing of four unarmed Western newsmen during the new Communist offensive in Saigon. It American and South Vietnamese soldiers.

"It is a full and big lie that the Viet Cong took any part in killing these four journalists," a representative for the National Liberation Front said in a rare news conference.

The representative, Khuong Quan Thanh, presented no evidence to support his claim that the newsmen were killed by allied soldiers.

The four men, killed in an ambush May 5 in a Saigon street, were Bruce Pigott of Reuters news agency, Michael Birch of the Australian Associated Press, John Cantwell of Time-Life, all Australians, and Ronald Laramy of Reuters, from England.

A fifth correspondent with the group, Frank Palmos from Central America, Scandinavia, Thailand, and France. These are the first countries that have been contacted by co-chairmen Susan Dixon and Dennis Falck.

Plans for next year's Bazaar center around expanding the physical set-up for the sale and increasing the size and variety of the inventory.

rowing story of how Viet Cong troops mocked the men as they pleaded for their lives, then shot them deliberately. Palmos said two of the men were only wounded by the first shots and that Communist troops kept firing bullets into them until certain they were dead.

Asked about Palmos' statement, Thanh said, "That is a lie."

"As you know there are a number of arguments against this," he said, but mentioned none of them.

Y Sponsors Bazaar

Organizational plans are being made for next November's YM-YWCA Bazaar.

Negotiations have been started for importing hand-drafted items from South and Central America, Scandinavia, Thailand, and France. These are the first countries that have been contacted by co-chairmen Susan Dixon and Dennis Falck.

Plans for next year's Bazaar center around expanding the physical set-up for the sale and increasing the size and variety of the inventory.

The Bazaar will need a full staff of active personnel for work on publicity, sales, decorations, and separate inventories for Central and South America, Africa, Europe, Asia, and North Carolina.

Housing Bill Passes

covered in the local ordinance, he said, if they advertise.

In addition the request for a watershed district, the Aldermen asked that the county zoning authority be extended to that portion of Bingham Township in the watershed.

Presently, county zoning exists only in Chapel Hill.

The request for the watershed district followed a week of dispute over the expansion of a Chapel Hill trailer park approved by the Orange County Board of Commissioners last Monday which culminated in the withdrawal of a building permit for the park by the Chairman of the Board, Harvey Bennett.

The permit was withdrawn consequent to a charge of improper rezoning action by the County Commissioners leveled by County Attorney Lucius Cheshire.

In a letter to the Commissioners, Cheshire stated that a different set of standards had been applied to the Ridgewood Mobil Home Park in the approval of its expansion for mobile home use.

The Chapel Hill zoning ordinance defines the density requirements for mobile home parks as eight units per acre.

The Board approved a measure permitting three units per acre. Forrest Heath, proprietor of the park, was allowed to expand his five-acre, 18 unit camp to 20 acres and 60 units.

Since the Chapel Hill zoning ordinance defines the density requirements, Cheshire said, any action imposing special restrictions on a particular park "is effectual" and "can not be legally done."

According to Cheshire, the rezoning would have to allow the maximum density under the ordinance.

Argument last week over approval of the expansion was raised on two counts.

Peace Talks Slow

between North and South Vietnam as a first step toward cutting down the scale of the war.

The North Vietnamese delegation chief, Thuy, said he would reply to his and other parts of Harriman's speech when the talks resume in their second full day Wednesday morning at 10:30 5:30 a.m.(EDT).

The U.S. envoy, on his side, was expected to reply in detail to Thuy's opening statement, which U.S. officials felt showed little prospect of an early breakthrough.

There was no indication of North Vietnamese willingness to back down on its flat demand that Washington should halt all bombing of the North unconditionally before broader peace talks begin. North Vietnamese sources said Hanoi will continue to press this demand vigorously.

The sources said Hanoi also is unlikely to accept the U.S. proposal for a joint pullback from the Demilitarized Zone, since this would be tantamount to admitting there are North Vietnamese troops in the South.

One reason for our reputation for integrity has been an emphasis on professionalism. Consequently, we have always attracted men of quality... men who understand that there are times when no is the only valid answer.

And men whose business it is to have your interests at heart. Does that sound like just another advertising phrase? Well, look at it this way. Ask any top professional if there's a healthier way to build a following.

So call him. You'll be impressed by the number—and the kind—of goals he can help you accomplish with life insurance. And remember... you can always say no to him.
