

Band Back 140 Strong

Back again in spanking brand-new uniforms for the football season is the 140-member Tar Heel Band under the direction of Major John F. Yesulaitis.

The quick-stepping marching group, which performs for pep rallies and halftime shows, has more than doubled in size since Yesulaitis became director in 1964 and this year sports a new set of Carolina Blue rags.

The band features a modified precision drill on the gridiron. It is chiefly noted for its excellent sound, which ranges from classical to jazz.

An adjunct to the regular group is the Pep Band, which mainly performs during basketball season. It plays at all home basketball games and represents Carolina at on-the-road football games when the whole band cannot go.

The Pep Band is recognizable for its county fair attire of striped blazers and straw hats.

The Tar Heel Band prides itself in being more than a mere musical organization on campus.

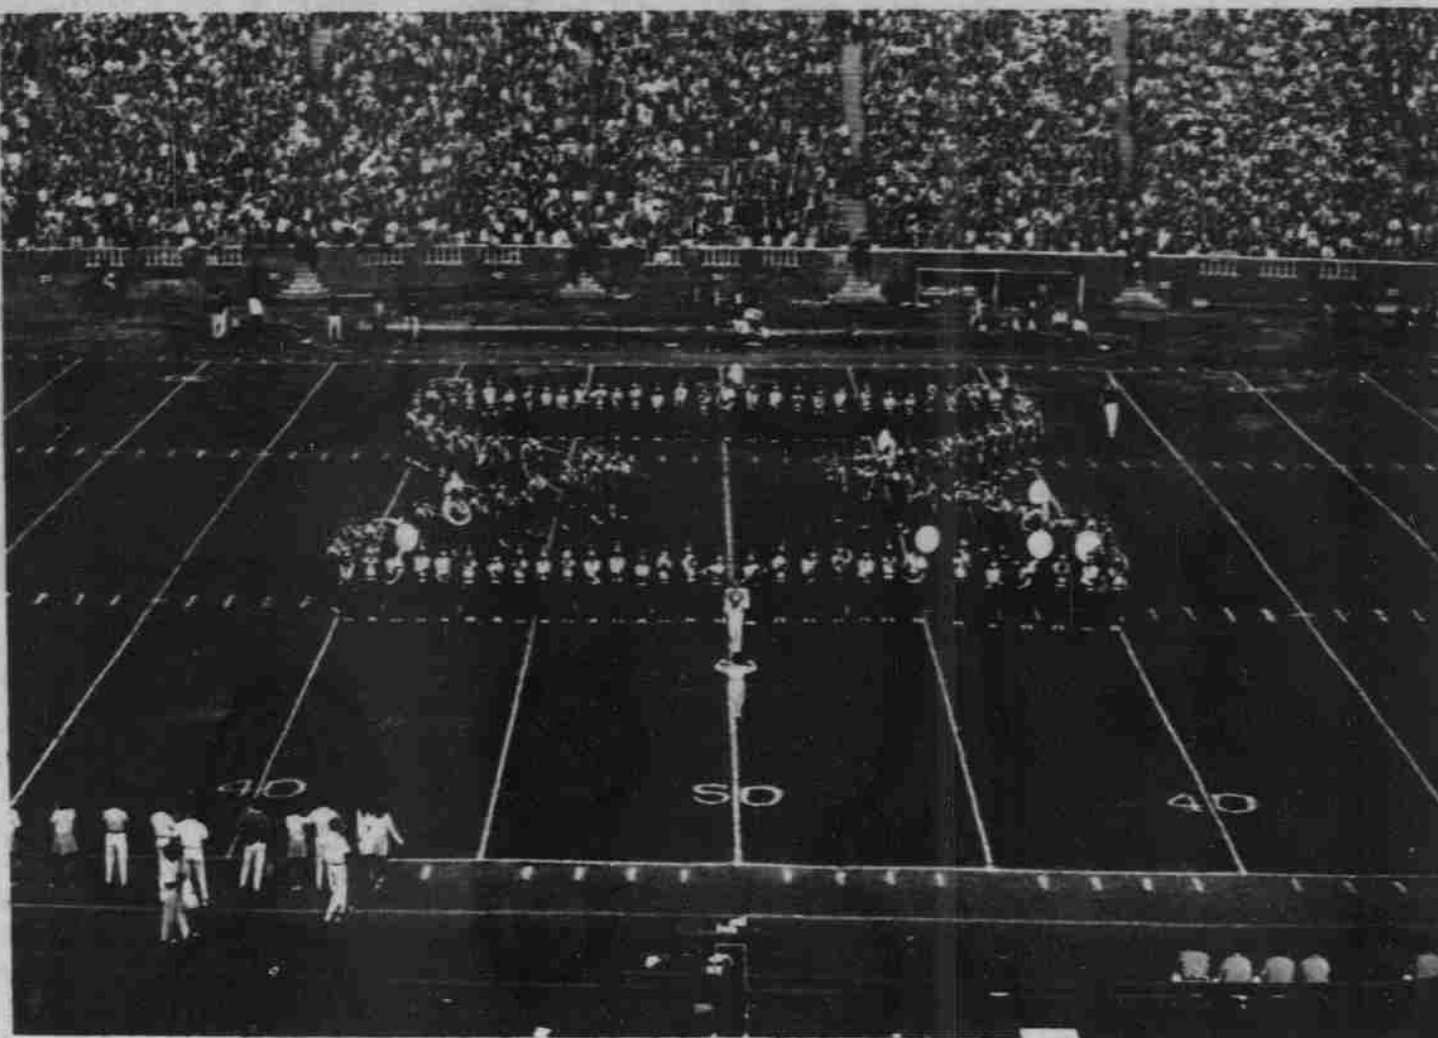

Yesulaitis has increased the band membership from 65 its present 140 in five years. A former Air Force major, he has served as associate director of the Air Force Band and director of the Air Force Orchestra.

He has appeared in concerts throughout the world and his Serenade in Blue is still carried by more than 2500 radio stations in the United States and abroad.

Carolina's drum major team this year is headed by J. Frazier Glenn of Dalton, Ga., and sophomore Phillip Dutt of Lexington, Ky. Both have wide experience with high school and college bands.

The majorette squad is composed of three twirlers, Jo Ellen Tunstall of Burlington will serve as head majorette and will be accompanied by Allene Fuller of Leonia, N.J., and Cindy Simpkins of Wrightsville Beach.

Persons interested in participating in the band should go by 110 Hill Hall or call 933-1080.

Scott Faces Knicks and Royals In Preparation For Olympics

Carolina's Charlie Scott is currently practicing with the United States Olympic Basketball Team in Alamosa, Colo., in preparation for the October Olympic Games in Mexico City.

Scott will travel with the team to New York City Sept. 28 to meet the New York Knickerbockers in an exhibition game and then will go to Cincinnati the next night to face the Cincinnati Royals. The basketball team leaves for Mexico City Oct. 4 and plays its first game in Olympic competition Oct. 12.

Scott, who will be a junior this year at UNC, was married in June to the former Margaret Holmes of New York City.

Say ACC Sports Writers

Clemson Again

Clemson will trot away with the Atlantic Coast Conference championship for the fourth straight year if conference sportswriters' predictions are correct.

Coach Frank Howard's Tigers, who were undefeated in six ACC games last season, return 38 lettermen. That should ensure continued Clemson success in conference play although the Tigers may again lose four outside contests as they did last year.

Defensive end Ron Ducworth and ACC Player of the Year Buddy Gore will lead the defense and offense.

The surprise pick was Virginia's second place rating by newsmen. The Cavaliers have the best backfield in the conference, but their defense is questionable.

Liberty Bowl champ North Carolina State failed to get a vote of confidence and was placed third in the writers' forecast.

The Wolfpack lost most of their defensive wall to graduation.

Wake Forest got the fourth

place choice because of quarterback Freddie Summers.

Fifth spot went to South Carolina. The Gamecocks think they deserve better, because fullback Warren Muir is the ACC's best at his position.

The bottom three teams selected were Maryland, Carolina and Duke.
