

Chansky's Choices...

By ART CHANSKY
Asst. DTH Sports Editor

Notre Dame and Purdue will collide this weekend in a game that could eventually decide the national championship.

Both the Fighting Irish and the Boilermakers were picked in pre-season predictions as co-favorites for the coveted national crown. In fact, it was said that the Irish are so deep in personnel that their intra-squad game could very well involve the number one and two teams in the country.

Jack Mollenkopf's Boilermakers will try to disprove that theory this Saturday when they leave Lafayette and head for Notre Dame Country, which is anywhere in Indiana outside of Lafayette (note: Notre Dame Country may be anywhere in the nation outside of Lafayette).

Purdue certainly got off on the right foot last week by walloping weaker Virginia, 44-7. But then again, Virginia is hardly in Purdue's class. The game did prove a couple of things, however. One was that Mike Phipps and Leroy Keyes are back again this year and could be the best one-two punch since Terry Hanratty and Jim Seymour (familiar?).

Second, the Boilermakers let it be known that they are ready for Notre Dame. Not often in a season does the "big one" come up in only the second game, and Purdue obviously has worked hard in preparation for the openers.

If Purdue is ready for Notre Dame, and it's doubtful they will, they should go all the way.

If Purdue is ready for Notre Dame, the feeling is very mutual on the part of the Irish. In their season's opener, Ara Parseghian's boys met and crushed the nationally ranked Oklahoma Sooners, 45-21, a fact that, in itself, says the Irish are gunning to retain the national title.

But this week is the big one, and no one knows it better than the 91 Notre Dame football players and the 60,000 fans that will jam Notre Dame Stadium on Saturday.

If for nothing else, and there's a lot more at stake, Notre Dame will try to avenge the 28-21 loss they suffered to Purdue last year; the loss that sent the Irish to a slightly disappointing (8-2) season in which they were expected to challenge for the national championship.

But Seymour is back and healthy, and so is Hanratty. This alone may be enough to harass the Boilermakers into defeat, and Mollenkopf knows it. Purdue will counter with Phipps and Keyes, and anything else that happens will be secondary.

Purdue may be a slight favorite this Saturday, but when the sun sets in Notre Dame Country the Irish will be number one again.

Dietzel: Sadder And Some Wiser

Columbia, S.C. (UPI)—South Carolina Coach Paul Dietzel, his team "a lot sadder and a little wiser," said Tuesday he was looking for no letup in a tough schedule in a Saturday game with North Carolina.

"This is a strange situation," Dietzel told a weekly news conference. "North Carolina and South Carolina are kind of in the same boat. You'd have to call our game a tossup if it were played on a neutral field."

"We play, though, at Chapel Hill, and the Tar Heels won't want to lose twice in a row on their home field."

Coach Bill Dooley's team lost 38-6 last Saturday to N.C. State, while the Gamecocks dropped a shocker to Duke 14-7.

North Carolina wasn't supposed to lose that badly, and South Carolina wasn't supposed to lose at all.

"North Carolina says they're going to bounce back this week," Dietzel said. "We hope we can bounce back too."

Dietzel and his staff, after reviewing game films, figured the Gamecocks "didn't really play that bad a ball game. We just never were really any better than Duke."

"If I had to blame the loss on anyone, I'd blame it on Dietzel," he said. "After that first quarter, we stopped their passing pretty good. After the house burned down, we did a good job of fireproofing the area."

Dietzel said he's decided on several changes before his squad takes the field at Chapel Hill, a stadium where South Carolina hasn't won since 1944. Rudy Holloman will replace limping Benny Galloway at offensive halfback, while Tyler Hellams will go from linebacker to safety on defense. Wally Orrel moves from safety to roverbac.

Johnny Gregory will go back to his split end position, with Gene Schwarting taking over his familiar tight end spot. Other than that, it's up to the coaches, Dietzel said.

Edwards Commends Players

RALEIGH, N.C.—North Carolina State Coach Earle Edwards passed out the individual grades to Wolfpack players Tuesday for the game with North Carolina, then got down to the serious business of preparing for the Oklahoma Sooners.

Several players made the Honor Roll, including halfback Bobby Hall who Edwards said ran hard and threw a touchdown pass to Jim Hardin in their 38-6 victory over the Tar Heels.

Edwards said his grading system, based on films of the game, rated offensive guards Robby Evans and Don Jordan high. "They have done a fine job for us," he said. Edwards also had high praise for tackle Dick Chapman who is getting a chance to play regularly for the first time as a senior.

The Wolfpack coach said his secondary played "very well containing passes and coming up well on running plays." Safetyman Gary Yount and cornerback Jack Whitley got good marks as did linebacker Steve Diacont and tackle Art Hudson.

State stressed defense during their workout Tuesday, trying to determine ways to stop the Sooners between the 10-yard lines. Edwards said his main fear is Sooner quarterback Bobby Warmack, one of the nation's leading passers.

The South Carolina Gamecocks reviewed mistakes Monday made in their 14-7 opening game loss to Duke and then began preparations for Saturday's contest at Chapel Hill, N.C.

Gamecocks Run, Throw Well

Dooley Cites USC Balance

By OWEN DAVIS
DTH Sports Editor

Coach Bill Dooley told a weekly news conference Tuesday that his Tar Heels will be up against a "balanced football team" in South Carolina Saturday.

"South Carolina had 201 yards rushing and 209 passing last week against Duke," he said, "and that's a balanced attack. That's what you're looking for offensively."

Dooley singled out Gamecock backs Warren Muir, Benny Galloway and Rudy Holloman as "all tough runners."

"Muir runs low," said Dooley. "He runs below his shoulders. Galloway and Holloman both have real good speed."

USC also has a sharp passing attack Dooley noted.

"Fred Ziegler, their flanker, led the conference last year in receiving," he said. "He's got a good pair of hands. Johnny Gregory, their other end is also a good pass catcher, and Randy Yoakum can throw the ball."

"South Carolina proved against Duke that it has a good offensive team. They present a real problem with their balance."

Carolina's coach was just as respectful of the Gamecock defense as he was of the offensive team.

"Defensively they have about the whole line back from last season, and their secondary is experienced," said Dooley. "They held Duke well after the opening minutes."

The Gamecock that impresses Dooley most is all-Atlantic Coast Conference linebacker Tim Bice.

"Bice is an amazing individual," he said. "After watching their films, I'd say that it's remarkable how many times he's around the football and in on a tackle."

"He's one of the best pursuing linebackers I've ever seen."

Looking back at Saturday's 38-6 loss to State, Dooley said it was "not the way to open your season."

"The bottom almost fell out," he said. "You try to forget about it in one respect, but in another way you want to remember it.

"You don't want to dwell on the big loss, but it could be the best thing that could happen since we now know what to work on."

Dooley said that one loss can be instructive to a team as long as it corrects its mistakes.

"If you lose one time, you can profit from what you learned in defeat," he said. "But it only takes one loss. You don't want to lose twice, because when you have to prove that you can win it's tougher to get up than when you've already won once."

Dooley also noted that split end Peter Davis will be back in action Saturday after missing the State game with an injury.

Notre Dame Number One

Traditional power Notre Dame jumped into the nation's top position in the United Press International's Top Ten collegiate football poll this week.

The Irish, 45-21 victors over Orange Bowl champion Oklahoma, assumed a comfortable 28 point lead over Purdue, which crushed Virginia, 44-6.

Purdue and Notre Dame meet this Saturday in South Bend, Ind., in what may be the decisive game in the final selection of the nation's number one team.

Defending national champ

Southern California ran a close third to Purdue, trailing only three points. The Trojans, led by O.J. Simpson's 236 rushing yards, edged Minnesota last Saturday, 29-20.

Penn State, which downed Navy 31-6, grabbed a firm hold of the fourth position while UCLA, 63-7 winner over Pittsburgh, was fifth.

Sixth-ranked Kansas made a major plunge into the rankings. The Jayhawks overwhelmed Illinois 47-7 to take a one point lead over Alabama in seventh place.

Bama narrowly defeated Virginia Tech 14-7 Saturday night.

Nebraska, the only team with two victories, was eighth while Louisiana State, 13-12 winner over Texas A&M, was ninth.

Miami in tenth finished out UPI's ten best. The Hurricanes defeated Northwestern Friday.

North Carolina State was among the second 10 named by the poll. The Wolfpack placed sixteenth behind Ohio State, which has yet to play a game.

Biddle Named Top Lineman

Greensboro, N.C. (UPI)—Duke University junior Dick Biddle was named the Atlantic Coast Conference's Defensive Lineman of the Week Tuesday.

Biddle was credited with making 22 solo tackles in Duke's 14-7 win over South Carolina, participated in nine more and caused Gamecock losses on four plays.

His counterpart on the secondary is Jack Whitley of North Carolina State, a sophomore safety who picked a fumble out of the air and ran 42 yards for a Wolfpack touchdown after only 84 seconds of play in the Wolfpack's 38-6 victory over North Carolina.
