Nixon To Meet With LBJ

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (UPI) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon said Saturday he would discuss with President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk Monday the role he might play in Vietnam peace negotiations between now and his inauguration.

Nixon told newsmen that it was "possible" that an observer representing him would attend the peace talks now underway in Paris.

But he said any decisions or announcement would have to wait until he conferred with Johnson and Rusk.

The President-elect chatted briefly with reporters on the back lawn of the home owned by his longtime friend C.G. Bebe Reboze following a meeting with Henry Cabot Lodge, Nixon's vice presidential running mate in 1960 and now U.S. Ambassador to West Germany.

President Johnson and Rusk was announced about an hour after Nixon had disclosed that he and his wife, Pat, had been invited by the Johnsons to have lunch at the White House at 1:30 p.m. EST Monday.

Still earlier Nixon had disclosed that he would give his vice president, Spiro T. Agnew, an expanded role in the administration—so thoroughly integrating the two top offices that they will share a common staff.

Agnew will have an office in the White House, work through the White House staff and speak through the same White House spokesman, Nixon said.

While leaving up in the air the question of whether he would fly to Paris or Saigon—as he has offered to do—Nixon categorically ruled out the possibility that he might travel to Europe on any trip not related to Vietnam.

"I would definitely not make any European trip between now and the Jan. 20th inauguration," he said.

In answer to a question Nixon also said he had "responded by diplomatic communication" to President Thieu's invitation to visit South Vietnam. Nixon said the substance of the reply was the same as the public statement he made after the invitation was extended—that he would not undertake such a mission unless President Johnson thought it would be in the interest of the negotiations.

"I'll have no further announcements until I have had a discussion with President Johnson on Monday and also the secretary of state," he said.

Quake Rocks Chicago; No Damage Reported

CHICAGO (UPI)—An earthquake rocked the nation's midsection today, shaking metropolitan skyscrapers in Chicago as well as thousands of smaller buildings throughout a 14 state area.

Reports of the quake, a natural rarity in the Midwest, came from Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Tennessee, Kansas, Kentucky, Ohio, Wisconsin, West Virginia and Nebraska.

Early reports indicated no major property damage or injuries, although the U.S. Weather Bureau in southern Illinois said there "was a possibility of some injuries" in that region.

The Rev. Donald Roll, head of the seismograph department at Loyola University in Chicago, said a "rather large earthquake" was reported on his machine at 11:05 a.m. CST. He said the quake's origin was not known.

The Cairo Weather Bureau said the post office building "shook like a leaf."

The tremor stopped a Western Union clock at radio station WGAR in Cleveland, Ohio, at 12:05 a.m. EST. It was so strong that it jammed the seismographic recorder at St. Louis University.

It was the strongest quake recorded at St. Louis since 1963 and the strongest in Chicago since 1948.

At Charleston, Ill., the tremor snapped a 12-inch water main. Police advised the city's 14,000 residents and 87,000 Eastern Illinois University students to boil their drinking water.

Classware was shattered in a Jefferson City, Mo., gift shop. Chimneys toppled at St. Louis, Mo., and New Harmony, Ind. Part of the roof of a day room caved in at the Anna, Ill., State Hospital.

Bricks were loosened in buildings on Courthouse Square at Marion, Ill. The quake triggered a fire alarm system in a Southern Illinois University dormitory at Carbondale, Ill.

Bunker, Thieu Hold Conference

South's Proposal Of Two-Sided Peace Talks Considered

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker conferred with President Nguyen Van Thieu Saturday on the South Vietnamese chief's proposal for peace talks with the Communists. There was speculation abroad that Thieu was softening his position.

The Bunker-Thieu meeting at the presidential palace, which lasted an hour, was the first announced conference between the two men since the bombing halt over North Vietnam began Nov. 1.

"Of course, they discussed President Thieu's proposal," a Saigon government source said Saturday in referring to the plan put forth Friday for a two-sided conference at Paris involving South Vietnam on one side and North Vietnam on the other.

Thieu's proposal said the United States would be subordinate to the South Vietnamese delegation on one side of the conference table and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front secondary to the North Vietnamese on the other side.

In announcing the bombing halt, President Johnson said a four-way conference was envisaged involving the South Vietnamese, the Americans, the North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong. This led Thieu to the belief that the Viet Cong would have equal representation and prompted his refusal to send a team to Paris for the expanded talks which were to have started last Wednesday.

Paris dispatches said South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dan Lam was returning to the French capital Sunday from urgent Saigon consultations, and diplomats speculated he might be carrying word of some softening of Thieu's hard-line stance.

Lam is Saigon's chief observer at the Paris talks and potential delegation leader should South Vietnam decide to participate in the expanded conference.

A U.S. spokesman announced the Thieu-Bunker meeting in Saigon Saturday, but declined to give details. He said Bunker went to the meeting alone. On previous occasions, he has been accompanied by Deputy Ambassador Samuel Berger.

The last previous announced meeting between Thieu and Bunker occurred Oct. 31 and lasted into the early morning hours of Nov. 1. That session, described by a Vietnamese source as "stormy," ended a few hours before Johnson announced the bombing halt.

Thieu said at one point the bombing halt was a "unilateral" decision by the United States Johnson's decision to call the bombing halt and enter full-scale peace talks with the Communists was seen by the Saigon government as motivated at least partially by domestic U.S. political considerations, and created a deepened sense of mistrust of the United States in the Thieu regime.
