

Student Legislature

Students interested in taking English 46, "English Drama On Location", should see professor Richmond Crinkley, 201 Bingham, during the next ten days.

Volume 76, Number 86

CLOSED—Not much in the way of construction work to do on the Student Union snack bar. All it would take is someone to take down the sign that reads "closed" from the door. If these men are waiting for a snack, however, they'll have a long wait while the Food Service studies and studies and...

Student Stores Requests Grievances

Book Reductions Stalled

By TOM GOODING
DTH Staff Writer

The controversy involving the price discrepancy between the UNC Book-Ex and the Book Exchange in Durham has stalled. There has been no current reduction in textbook prices at the Book-Ex.

The issue resulted from an advertisement appearing in the Daily Tar Heel on Friday, Jan. 17, which is reprinted at right.

Robert Lock, a SSOC leader, went to the Book Exchange in Durham and compiled a list of books priced lower than those in the UNC Book-Ex.

Lock then requested the Book-Ex lower their prices to meet those in the Durham book store. Shetley said he would check the prices in Durham and would lower his prices to match the competition as soon as he could verify the prices. "Shetley gave me the impression the assistant manager would accompany me to Durham to verify the prices in question. The assistant manager said today that I should submit a written list of my grievances to them and then they would be willing to talk to me about them," Lock said.

"He said that his prices were on a national par with other campus bookstores across the nation and that I had picked an isolated example." When contacted on the issue today, Lloyd D. Meyers, Assistant Manager of the Student Stores, said, "There is a possibility that Shetley will make a statement about the ad tomorrow. The ad is ambiguous as to the interpretation given by Mr. Lock."

"I have agreed to speak to Mr. Lock and his associates as requested by him. Mr. Lock has said he would supply to us his specific request. If it necessitates going to Durham to check prices I will be glad to go," he added.

"However, I would like to go to more than one bookstore in an effort to explain to the students the Student Store reasoning behind that they are giving the students the best possible student store. Unfortunately, the present issue of lower prices on the basis of the ad and the list that was submitted has been delayed," he said.

In reference to their upcoming meeting Lock said, "He was very willing to have this meeting and seemed open to necessary change if and when we could prove that it was both necessary and in the better interest of the students.

"I feel that the management is entirely sincere in thinking that they are giving the students the best possible student store. Unfortunately, the present issue of lower prices on the basis of the ad and the list that was submitted has been delayed," he said.

"Willingness to discuss the problem is not necessarily a valid substitute for following the ad. Since our problem has become one of interpretation, I am glad that the management is willing to further discuss the issue," Lock said.

Student government legislators and leaders of SSOC discussed the issue this afternoon. The issue will be brought to the floor of the legislature during its meetings tonight.

DO YOU KNOW THAT . . .

if you find a book dealer selling any book for less than we sell that title, we will meet his price?

Deacons Next Heels' Prey

Carolina Risks Conference Lead Tonight

By OWEN DAVIS
DTH Sports Editor

better players.

The Deacons, better than their 10-6, 4-4 ACC record, have lost their last three games but all to highly-rated teams.

Davidson and Carolina, both in the top 10 nationally, and South Carolina, 13-3, dealt the Deacs their most recent defeats.

Wake is led by two sophomores, guard Charlie Davis and center Gil McGregor. Davis, 6-0 from Brooklyn, N.Y., tops the conference in free throw shooting and is fourth in scoring. He has a 21.6 scoring average and hits 86 per cent of his foul shots.

McGregor, a husky 6-7, 240-pounder, is second in ACC rebounding with a 13.2 average. He is also second among Wake scorers, averaging 13.8 points a game.

After McGregor, however, the Deacs are hurting on the boards. They gave the Tar Heels a battle underneath in the two teams' previous encounter, which UNC won 94-89, but Carolina's 6-10 center Rusty Clark was injured.

With McGregor in the front court are 6-3 Norwood Todmann and 6-8 Dan Ackley. Todmann, who played with Lew Alcindor in high school, had one of the best games in his career against Carolina before the exam break, scoring 20 points.

Ackley is a fair rebounder but not a particularly good shooter. He will play to make up for UNC's height advantage.

Captain Jerry Montgomery, the only senior among the starting five, joins Davis in the back court.

The Baptists have the strongest bench in the ACC outside Chapel Hill, and it includes Neil Pastushok, Dickie Walker, Bob Rhoads and Larry Habegger.

Pastushok, who missed a couple of games with an injury, is a very good shooter. At 6-4 he is small for a forward, however. He scores 8.8 points a contest.

Walker, who was the leading scorer for Wake last season but has since been bumped from the starting lineup, is still the fourth top Deac scorer even though a sub.

With an 11.7 scoring mark, he has developed into a passer as well as shooter, which he was strictly last year.

The betting will be on Carolina, 15-1, 7-0 in the ACC. But the Baptists wouldn't consider anything so immoral.

SSOC To Discuss BSM, Rules, Elections Tonight

The Southern Student Organizing Committee (SSOC) will hold its first meeting of the semester tonight at 7:30 in 111 Murphey to decide what action to take this spring on urgent campus issues.

The main issue will be white support of the Black Student Movement demands, especially in terms of the Chancellor's recent reply to these demands. SSOC organizer George Vlasits wrote in this week's RADISH that the Chancellor's statement "should be interpreted to read—the University cannot (or will not), in policy or in practice, provide for the needs of black people in this state."

Vlasits added, "It cannot be maintained that an academic institution is neutral—if it does not fight for change, then it supports the status quo . . . an abstention is a vote for the continued existence of injustice, inequality and oppression."

Another topic to be discussed tonight will be SSOC participation in the local political campaigns. There is the possibility that SSOC would run an independent slate of candidates for the offices of mayor, aldermen and school board members in Chapel Hill and Carrboro.

According to SSOC organizer Scott Bradley, "We are presently in contact with several prospective candidates that we feel will more adequately meet the needs of the people." SSOC is also working with the New University Conference in this attempt.

Also to be discussed will be the role of SSOC in student elections and internal education, with the possibility of using study groups and the Experimental College for communicating ideas.

The role SSOC should play in campus issues such as student stores, women's rules and visitation will also be discussed. Another SSOC project is the Chapel Hill Rent Union which will combine the efforts of students and townspeople to organize against the exploitation of University and town renters.

A main speaker will be featured at the meeting tonight, representing the Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR). Ron Young, a draft resistor who was one of 40 Western radicals who met with 40 NLF and North Vietnamese students in Bratislava, Yugoslavia last year, will speak briefly on "The Need for a Non-violent Revolution in America."

The FOR is a non-sectarian, world pacifist organization, including most of the religious peace and anti-draft groups.

Army Rejects Draft Resister

By BRYAN CUMMING
DTH Staff Writer

returned. Most probably he will be classified I-Y, which is a physical deferment except in times of national emergency.

Rose arrived at the induction center in Raleigh at around 11:30 Tuesday morning.

Upon his arrival, there were no demonstrators at the induction center, although a demonstration had been planned.

According to Rose, the Raleigh draft board was supposed to provide transportation for him back to Chapel Hill. However, the board failed to give Rose his bus ticket until after the bus left at 5:15. As a result, he didn't get back to Chapel Hill

Continued on page 6

Thurmond Appears Sunday

As Carolina Forum Guest

Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina will speak on an unannounced topic in Memorial Hall at 8 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 9.

The Carolina Forum speaker serves on the powerful Armed Services, Judiciary and Defense Appropriations committees in the U.S. Senate.

Forum Chairman Scott Goodfellow stated that "Senator Thurmond played a significant part in the last election."

In 1954 Thurmond was the first person ever elected to the Senate in a write-in campaign. He was re-elected twice as a Democrat and once as a Republican.

Thurmond's wife, a former South Carolina beauty queen, will accompany him. They will arrive at 5:30 p.m. Sunday at Horace Williams Airport.

Senator Thurmond is a World War II veteran and has been awarded 17 decorations.

His 24 hour, 18 minute speech in defense of jury trials in 1957 is the longest ever made in the Senate.

The Senator, a past Presidential Candidate, has also been a farmer, lawyer, school teacher, athletic coach, school superintendent, state senator, judge and governor.

communication research at Stanford in 1957.

Having taught at Stanford and the University of Wisconsin, Danielson came to UNC as an associate professor in 1959. He became a full professor in 1963 and was named Dean of the School of Journalism in 1964. During a leave of absence last year, he served as a visiting professor at the University of Texas.

Danielson is married to the former Beverly Grace Kinsell and has four children.

For Texas School Of Communications

Journalism Dean To Leave Post

By CHARLA HABER
DTH Staff Writer

the Chancellor to appoint a new dean," explained Danielson. "It's usually done by committee, but I don't know how it will be done in this instance."

According to Danielson, he had given permission to Texas to put his name up for consideration for the position, but "I didn't know they would ask me until about a week before the announcement was made." His appointment was made official Jan. 22.

At Texas, Danielson will head four departments incorporated in the School of Communication: journalism; speech; radio, television and motion pictures; and a research center. The total enrollment in these departments is about 1,000. Enrollment at the UNC School of Journalism is about 150.

"There are many problems associated with a larger university," said Danielson. "I've enjoyed the close contact with students at UNC and I may have a problem getting used to the larger number of students at Texas."

"It is challenging to see what print media, electronic media and speech have in common as professional communicators," continued Danielson. "I believe Marshall McLuhan's world is almost upon us and the professionals in this field will be able to move between media more than in the past."

Daniel was born in Burlington, Iowa, and earned a B.A. in journalism at the State University of Iowa in 1952. He received his M.A. in journalism at Stanford University in 1953 and a Ph.D. in mass

CHIN UPS—One way to make sure you don't trip on construction materials is not to walk anywhere around them. This workman solved the problem by hitching a ride on a passing cable dangling from a crane.