

Barnes' Matmen Hit Floor Again

By RUSTY CARTER

The annual Old Wrestlers Day is slated today with teams from Guilford and Wilmington

Hall, Rinka Fight For Scoring Lead

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ken Hall of Westminster (Utah) and John Rinka of Kenyon continue to battle for the national small college scoring crown. Only now they're getting company.

Hall, the 6-foot-2 senior from Brooklyn, N.Y., scored 41 points in his only game last week to vault past Rinka into the scoring lead. Hall is now averaging 35.2 points per game as compared to 34.9 for the 5-10 scoring ace from Kenyon.

Pressing the pair is Willie Scott, the two-time runnerup in scoring from Alabama State. Scott tossed in 54 points in one game to jump from eighth to fifth with a 32.0 average. He trails Marvin Schmitt of Western New Mexico (33.9) and Johnnie Allen of Bethune-Cookman (32.5).

Action will begin at 2:00 with Carolina opening with the club from Wilmington and meeting Guilford immediately afterwards.

Coach Sam Barnes matmen are now 2-8 and met the powerhouse team from Maryland last night.

Wilmington and Guilford have balanced teams but the Tar Heels should be slight favorites to win the event.

"Our boys have done a lot of growing up lately after wrestling two gradangle meets," Barnes said. "Last week at Virginia Tech most of them had a wrestle three times in a single-day."

Still plagued with injuries, the UNC team will have several grapplers going twice. Barnes plans to use thirteen boys with Bob Crane, at 123, Tom Guthrie at 130, and Dick Kelly at 177 wrestling both matches.

UNC will still be missing their heavyweight, Knox Tate, but Barnes plans to enter "someone" in the competition. The lineup for today's bouts will be:

Bob Crane 123, Tom Guthrie 130, Jim Reighart 137, Keith Lyons, 145, Curtis Weaver 152, Carver Rudolph 160, Fred Ball 167, Dick Kelly 177.

Fencing Meet Will Be Today

Coach Ron Miller's Carolina fencers host a five-team Central Complex Meet today in Woollen Gym.

Entered are Clemson, Virginia, The Citadel, V.M.I. and the Tar Heels.

The scheduled meet competition is the first for Miller's team in the Southeastern Division of the Intercollegiate Fencing League.

Miller expects all his starting men to do well. "Our top nine should place high," he said. "Dick Betts in sabre, Tom Ruff in Foil, and Jeff McKay in epee should win."

Clemson will bring a women's team, which Carolina will now be able to oppose. Miller has enough girls trained to enter feminine contestants for the first time this year.

Members of the S.D.I.F.L. are Carolina, Duke, N.C. State, Virginia, V.M.I., Clemson, Citadel and St. Augustines.

Times for the meet:
10:30 Virginia-Clemson
Citadel-V.M.I.
12:30 Carolina-Clemson
Virginia-Citadel
1:45 Carolina-Citadel

V.M.I.-Clemson

The swordsmen are pointing toward dual matches with conference rivals N.C. State, Duke and St. Augustine. The State meet will be next Friday while Duke and St. Augustine will be held simultaneously Saturday.

The NCAA championships, in which Miller thinks UNC can place well, are the last week in March.

Thinclads Host 2 Teams In Tin Can Meet Today

By DENNIS BENFIELD
DTH Sports Writer

Carolina track coach Joe Hilton says everything is coming along just fine down at the Tin Can. And after last Saturday's results, who is to argue with him?

Hilton's squad ran away from the pack in its first taste of Atlantic Coast Conference competition, beating second-place South Carolina by 20 points.

The UNC thinclads get another shot at the Gamecock tracksters this afternoon at 3:00 when UNC hosts a triangular meet with two of the ACC's southern neighbors, Clemson and USC.

However, Hilton will be the first to say that Saturday's victory is not really that indicative of his team's strength. Prior to that, though, the only action was in the VMI Relays and the Jaycee meet at Richmond—and these were not team meets.

Both North Carolina and South Carolina had boys out of action last Saturday due to illness or injury, and others did not perform well in their first outing. Hilton has not seen Clemson this year, but he says they have several veterans returning.

Hilton says boys to look out for Saturday for the Gamecocks are shot putters Gary Zemel and Jim Poston, high jump and hurdles man Dave Smith, Bobby Howe in the 440-yard run, and half-miler Bob Kaczky.

They all showed up well in the quadrangular meet, but Hilton says there are others who didn't make an especially strong showing then.

One of the Gamecocks' best sprinters, Jim Hines, and their top pole vault man, Jim Scott, both missed that meet. Broad jumper Tyler Hellams, whose punt return against Clemson handed State the ACC football title, is also expected to boost the USC ranks.

For the Tar Heel tracksters, the most pleasant development so far this season has been shot putter John Jessup. Jessup flipped the 16-pound ball farther than any other Tar Heel ever for two straight weeks.

Jessup's current school record, established Saturday, stands at 53' 11 3/4".

"I don't think there was any doubt in my mind, or his either, that he could do it," said Hilton of sophomore Jessup's consecutive, record-breaking tosses. Jessup, however, is the only UNC shot putter at this time.

Another strong event for Carolina is the pole vault, where the Tar Heels swept all four places and racked up 11 points in the last meet.

Rick Wilson, Archie Hicks, Don Russ, and Jeff Hillicker are the top UNC vaulters. The vaulting event starts at 12:30 this afternoon.

Terry Sellers, who won the 440 last Saturday, and Ken Helm, who grabbed first place in the mile, are also expected to come through with some points, as is Tom Wolfe, winner of the broad jump last Saturday.

In addition, Hilton has an array of talented sprinters in all events below the quarter-mile distance. Depth in the sprints also boosts the relay events.

Asked about his team's chances for winning the conference title, Hilton said: "Maryland is still probably the outstanding team in the conference, but we hope we're at least as strong as any of the other teams."

Maryland has easily beaten the class of ACC track for the past several seasons.

"We're making progress in all of the events," Hilton continued, "and I hope we can continue to do so. Everything's been coming along satisfactorily, and I hope we'll be at our peak for the conference meet."

The ACC meet, held in the latter part of the spring, determines the conference champion. All other meets, both indoors and outdoors, are merely preludes to this event.
