

The Tar Heel

BEACH WEATHER

Warm and humid with a chance of thunder showers. Highs 80-87, lows 70-76. Winds 10-20 mph from south to southwest.

Volume 76

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. — THURSDAY, JUNE 19, 1969

Number 2

George Vlasits Surrenders

George Vlasits turned himself in to U. S. Marshals at New Bern, N. C. last Wednesday afternoon, June 11. He had been sought for two weeks following the denial, in the Fourth Circuit Court, of his appeal of a draft conviction.

A former SSOC organizer in Chapel Hill, Vlasits, 26, was sentenced last fall to five years in a federal prison by the U. S. District Court in Raleigh for refusing induction into the armed forces.

Vlasits' appeal was turned down because he failed to file his legal briefs within the maximum time limit set by the court. He apparently had a financial misunderstanding with his attorney, Wren Drum of Winston-Salem.

Four UNC professors and another Chapel Hill resident had posted the $5000 bond for Vlasits. He reportedly turned himself in only 15 minutes before the bond would have been forfeited.

GEORGE VLASITS

KIPPLE: It's all over the place. It's an institution. To find out exactly what it is, see Tom Schnabel's picture page on page eight. He knows. You will, too.

Assembly Votes To Raise Tuition

By LAURA WHITE
NEWS EDITOR

A $150 increase in tuition for out-of-state undergraduates at UNC will become effective July 1, 1969, pending approval by the Board of Trustees at each branch, according to the State Budget Division of the Department of Administration.

In addition, in-state tuition will be raised $50 and out-of-state tuition will be raised an additional $100 per student, becoming effective July 1, 1970, according to Bruce Harrington, Budget analyst for the Budget Division.

The increases in tuition will be effective for the regular sessions of the University but not for summer session, Harrington explained.

Tuition for the Asheville-Biltmore or the Wilmington branches of the University will not be increased, Harrington said, because these two branches are new and have not yet adjusted their tuition fees to the consolidated university level.

In-state tuition for undergraduate students in the Consolidated University had been $175 for the 1968-1969 regular session. Out-of-state tuition for the same period had been $700, a differential of $525 over in-state tuition.

As of July 1, 1970, in-state
(Continued on page 3)

Intelligence Questions 'Red' Student

By MARY BURCH
Managing Editor

"I only want to be left alone to study and lead a normal life, not become a soldier or be forced to give out information about the Soviet Union."

Cvetan Todorov, a political refugee from the Soviet Union who is studying at UNC this summer, has been subjected to intense questioning by U. S. Army Intelligence and the C. I. A. because of his refusal to serve in the U. S. Army or supply information about his duties in the Russian Army.

"I am a pacifist," Todorov said. "I am against violence and against war. I was drafted into the Bulgarian and Russian armies in 1959 in the intelligence division. When I refused to kill, I was sent to political prisons and concentration camps."

"After 20 months I escaped into Italy and then arranged to come to the United States, believing I had come to a free country. I was not informed that I was subject to serve in the American Army."

(Under the draft law, immigrants are subject to the draft after they have resided here for six months.)

"I am a victim of Communism myself, but I feel that the U. S. has no political or moral right to intervene in the civil war among the Vietnamese people," the 27-year old student added. "This is the most inhuman war in the history of our civilization."

Todorov stated that he has been under "extreme pressure" during his two weeks in summer school. "They (Army Intelligence) have questioned me four times in the last week," he said. "In addition to this persistent interrogation, they question my employer, friends, and people in the community. I am unable to study."

Todorov's roommate and suitemates said they too have
(Continued on page 3)

CVETAN TODOROV

Try Summer-Date

Wanna meet a date? Try Summer-Date.

With a great number of new faces on campus this summer, it is a little more difficult for people to get together. Summer-Date is designed to get people out of their rooms and into the atmosphere for which Chapel Hill and UNC are famous.

Summer-Date will solve the problems of introducing you to those attractive members of the opposite sex and end sitting in front of the tube because you don't have a date for those weekday parties.

Summer-Date works along the same line as those services which are offered by computer companies, but there are no computers! It is our belief that computers make mistakes which we hope to eliminate by visual contact.

For only a dollar ($1) you are guaranteed five names which most match your ideal date from those who enroll in Summer-Date. The names will be mailed to you personally within a week after you fill out an application.

We can't guarantee a perfect date every time, but remember—computers make mistakes too.

All you have to do is come by room 134 or 135 of the Tar Heel on the first floor of Carolina Union and fill out an application or call "Bucky" at 968-9114 after 6 p.m. All information filled in on the questionnaire will be kept strictly confidential and locked in the Tar Heel office.

Summer-Date will be in operation from 1-4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

All computers do is match answers, but the Summer-Date staff will seek to match people whom we feel will be attracted to each other.

Summer-Date begins operation tomorrow, so sign up now and start having some fun around UNC!

Food Workers, Saga Clear Up 'Problems'

Cafeteria workers have cleared up "many misunderstandings" with the Saga Food Service as a result of a Monday night meeting with Saga Manager Troy O'Brien, Mrs. Mary Smith, food worker spokesman, said Tuesday.

The workers had met with O'Brien to discuss dissatisfactions with their schedules, the laying-off of some workers, and the hiring of student help instead of non-academic workers.

In a press conference Tuesday Mrs. Smith reported that O'Brien has promised the workers a new work schedule to add more hours of work. Mrs. Smith said Mr. O'Brien admitted the hiring of students "was a mistake, and he promised to limit students to work only at peak hours and only 3½ hours daily."

Because some workers are not needed for the summer and because of the Saga changes, efforts are being made to relocate these workers through the University Personnel Office. "All full-time workers who had been doing satisfactory work at the time they were laid off will have jobs available in the fall if they want them," O'Brien told the workers. Saga and the workers gained a good understanding from the meeting, according to Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. Smith praised the quality of food used by the Saga Service and the improvements made on the cleanliness of the cafeterias.

The Summer Tar Heel will be distributed each Thursday afternoon between 3 and 5 p.m. at all men's and women's residence halls, all fraternities and sororities open, Lenoir Hall, the Student Union, Pine Room, Undergraduate Library (at the front door), the Circus Room and the YMCA.

HEW Grants $125,000 To UNC

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has awarded this week grants totaling nearly $125,000 to the University of North Carolina.

Dr. George Johnson, Jr. of the UNC Department of Surgery will use a three-year grant of $100,000 for the study of the effects of shock at the cellular level. UNC School of Nursing dealing with "Public Health Nursing Concepts" will be expanded with $24,600 in federal money.

As principal investigator, Dr. Johnson will study water and mineral changes in cells and body spaces, to determine the effects of shock on the functions of cell membranes.

(Continued on page 3)