What Happened? Amazin'...

By Clint Roswell

With a copy of the "Sporting News" in one hand, with size and speed. and the National League Standings in the other, fearless pre-season prognosticators are still taking a second look. The Braves and the Amazin' Mets?

Let's see. According to this report, Rico Carty will never recover from his bout with tuberculosis, and the in Kenan Stadium. Kickoff is Mets will be lucky to break .500. But, alas, don't throw at 1:30. away that pencil. The year of the impossible, Baseball 1969, is not over.

It is now up to the Braves and the Amazin's to throw another curve at the Baseball World. The surging Braves, behind the slugging Carty and Hank Aaron, and Phil Niekro, that slinky, rubber-armed knuckle-baller, have been installed as favorites to take the best-of-five series to win." that starts Saturday in Atlanta.

-Will Take A Miracle'

The Braves have beaten every contender, winning their last 17 out of 20, and emerged on top in one of the most torrid races in National League history. They have shown such consistency that San Diego Padres Manager Preston Gomez has said "it will take a miracle for the who completed over 50 per Mets to beat them."

He figures the Braves have too much hitting, fielding, speed and power to work with and experience for the Mets, or any team. He forgot to in the backfield. mention that the Amazin's beat Atlanta eight of twelve games during the regular season, and that the Mets are no ordinary team.

The Mets are a metaphysical force that has stolen the constant break away threat. hearts of people all over the country (except in Atlanta). The mets, themselves, regard their sudden rise Spear, moved to fullback and to power as only natural.

Tom Seaver, the 25-game winner and leading pro-type triple option offense, candidate for the Cy Young Award, claims; "The Mets so the fourth backfield are just a group of young men who love to play member is primarily a wide baseball." This somewhat casual approach is typical of the team that has conquered every obstacle, a team that for the Commodores a year did not fold when it was behind 91/2 games in August, a ago. team where every man contributed and never lost the

-- Cleon Is Typical

"This club has a lot of real good talent all the way Weiss, the team's top scorer through, not just one or two guys," adds Cleon Jones, exemplifying Met pride.

Cleon, currently vying for the National League batting title, probably was more responsible for the Mets' success than any other every day Commodores lost a 16-6 performer-except those Amazin' fans.

Never has one team had such support and love as the Jim Papai, Carolina came out Mets this year. The fans have generated so much excitement that visiting ball clubs are visibly shook when playing before a full house at the Big Shea.

"It's been a good effort. The team, the fans, everybody," says a happy Met manager Gil Hodges.

Yes, it has been a happy year except for the forecasters. But who can think about next year?

Colts, Jets Collapse Make Pro Headlines

By PETE CARSON DTH Sports Writer

Last year the Baltimore Colls were acclaimed as "the finest team in the history of football", until they met the New York Jets. Then their bubble burst and the Jets were acclaimed as a strong club with a super quarterback.

In the 1969 preseason, Baltimore invincibly rolled over six AFL foes. The Jets, meanwhile, quietly played exhibition games with little regard for score. Both the Colts and the Jets entered their respective regular season campaigns as predicted champions but then the upsets

Baltimore's defense did give up 27 points more than in any game last year, but if that was a bad game then this past weekend was disasterous. Minnesota's Vikings hung 52 points on the board and gained over 600 yards the 52-14 triumph over the Colts.

The Jets have different problems. They suffer in part because they are champions. They've also have injuries to ! Matt Snell, Al Atkinson and Randy Beverly. But goldened armed Joe Namath has been injured too, and that's there problem.

In three games the Jets have scored only seven touchdowns and eight field goals. The fault is directed toward Namath and Baltimore opened their his receivers. At various times

But the Jets must start to improved. For the Colts, with it may already be too late.

Vanderbilt Packs Size And Speed

UNC's winless Tar Heels will test that very size and speed Saturday when the Commodores, who have also yet to win, invade Chapel Hill for the home football opener

"There's not much difference between this year's Vanderbilt team and the one that went 5-4-1 last season," Dooley said Tuesday. "It feels real good to be back in friendly Chapel Hill, but we still have to be at our very best if we hope

Carolina defeated the Commodores, 8-7, a year ago in Nashville, but the Tar Heels went out of character by taking advantage of their only scoring opportunity to capture a fourth quarter victory.

Several spring changes in the Vanderbilt offense are the primary reasons for Dooley's tag of "explosiveness."
