

Union Announces Exam All-Nighters

EXAM TENSION

Examination—a word derived from French and Latin—has as one of its earliest forms "equilibrium," according to Webster. (It seems almost ironical since exams tend to destroy "equilibrium.")

It would be asinine to say don't get psyched up about that mental ordeal coming up in less than two weeks. Everyone does. Cramming, lack of sleep and seemingly unbearable tension plague everyone.

If you need some place to go (after the last bar closes?), Carolina Union will be open 24 hours each day of the exam period (except for Saturday night, Jan. 24) to give students a place to unwind.

The music room on the second floor will be transformed into an exam retreat, providing free coffee and hot chocolate, music, magazines and people to talk to. (Fat city.)

The exam retreat room will be simply a place to relax away from the library or residence hall or wherever else you hide—not an all night study hall.

"Exam periods are really funny," one student said. "I think students take almost a sadistic pleasure in finding someone worse off than they are."

"I'm not even sure I'm going to pass my pass-fail course. I've let it slide all semester and now..."

"Yeah, I've got five exams in the first three days. I guess I'll just have to get some dex and stay up straight through."

"This is my fifth year and I should graduate, but I need a 3.0 to bring up my QP. I don't see any way..."

Etc., etc., etc.

Students and counselors will be on hand "to cheer up the depressed" or just to listen. You may even be able to find a late bride game.

This is the first semester the Union has tried this type of experiment. The initial idea was received with immediate enthusiasm by students.

"I think it's a great way to relieve tensions that build up during exams," one coed said. "If you get too uptight, there's someplace to go and someone to talk to."

So, if your "equilibria" get to you go by.

Campus Calendar

INTERVIEWS for positions on the Orientation Commission will be held today, Friday, Monday and Tuesday afternoons in the Orientation Office, Suite D of the Union. Applications and appointment sheet are available at the Union information desk. For further information call 933-2165 or 933-4948.

FUNDS and Sponsor Cards for the Walk Against Hunger and due immediately in 102 Y Building.

DR. JOHN LAMBE will speak on "Charge Quantization Studies Using Electron Tunneling" today at 4 p.m. in room 215 Phillips Hall as part of the Duke-UNC Physics Colloquium. Tea and coffee will be served in the lounge at 3:30 p.m.

WALK COMMITTEE will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Wesley Foundation to plan follow up action to the Hunger Walk. All walkers, sponsors, etc. are urged to attend.

U.N.-NEW YORK Seminar (semester break) applications are still available in 102 Y Building.

TALKING POINT, a program which lets students with problems talk openly with professionally counselors, is held each Monday through Thursday at 7-11 p.m. in room 105 of the YMCA.

BABYSITTING LISTS, compiled by CWC, are available at the desk of Carolina Union at the Dean of Women's office.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

SMEAR KNIFE
PLUNGE RESENT
OE DEAL MUSE
IER SLATS DUN
SPAR WIRED ET
ESTER DEPRESS
ENID SAIL
PASTORS LEASE
AN STUNS STEW
RID SMALL ETE
EMIL GERTR
SAMUEL DAISES
ULERS SPATE

ACROSS
1. Moccasin
4. Mountains of Europe
8. Ballet
12. Anglo-Saxon money
13. Swing
14. Ox of Celebes
15. Hole
16. Suite of rooms
18. Satiates
20. Enclosure for chickens
21. Note of scale
22. Corded cloth
23. Country of Asia
27. Cravat
28. Genus of cattle
30. Talk idly
31. Hypothetical force
32. Israeli
33. Petal digit
34. Prefix: formerly
35. Sat for portrait
37. Occupied a chair
38. Superlative ending
39. Narrow, flat board
40. Old timer (colloq.)
41. Part of "to be"
42. Decorate
44. Article of furniture
47. Silvers
51. Goddess of healing
52. Great Lake
53. Appellation of Athens
54. Unit of Portuguese currency
55. Golf mounds
56. Condensing look
57. Naïve sheep DOWN
1. Explosive noises
2. Solo

3. Bovine animals, collectively
4. Word of sorrow
5. Brim
6. Sets
7. Sharpen
8. Kind of bat
9. Unit
10. Measure of weight
11. Dine
17. Preposition
19. Babylonian deity
22. Tier
24. Sun god
25. The sweetsop
26. One following
27. Covers
28. Sacred image
29. Article of furniture
30. Vessel
32. Wharves
33. Make lace

36. A continent (abbr.)
37. Mother of Dionysus
38. Burning coals
40. Essential
41. Cooled lava
43. Registered nurse (abbr.)
44. Former Russian ruler
45. Hold on property
46. Silkworm
47. Place
48. Prefix: before
49. Falsehood
50. Female ruff

ITH Staff Photo by Cliff Koleson

It Can't Even Snow In Chapel Hill. Incident Amuses Couple During Summer Travel

By JOHN DAVIDSON

Ewing Philben was last seen headed in the direction of Crete, and Skip has never heard from him again.

Skip Lance, a senior zoology student from Spruce Pine, and Suzy Ruppalt, a chemistry major from Charlotte, were hitch-hiking across Europe. The couple's ultimate goal was to reach the Matala Caves in Crete, where there is a colony of expatriate Americans.

While in Brindisi, Italy, Skip spotted another American in a bar. After spilling the stranger's beer while reaching over to shake hands, the affable Carolinian quickly befriended him and got a ride to Athens, Greece. The other American was named Mike Judge, and he was driving a Renault Dauphine that belonged to a friend who had flown to Istanbul, and who was to pick up his car in Athens. The friend's name was Ewing Philben.

Skip and Suzy left Mike in Athens and took a ferry to Crete where, after several days of hitch hiking, they were able to reach their destination, the Matala Caves.

"The Caves were cleaner than any hotel in the area," explains Skip, "and they were free." Skip and Suzy stayed a couple of days with some American friends sunning on the beach and eating potato omelettes, the only food that was served in the local restaurant.

After having returned from Crete to Athens, the couple found themselves on the road again as their money was running low. After standing a very short while by the side of the road, an awfully familiar Renault Dauphine pulled up to the curb to give them a lift. It was not Mike Judge who was driving this time, but Skip was fairly sure that it was Mike's much-talked-about friend. Skip got in the car and very casually asked, "Hello, Ewing. How was Istanbul?" The befuddled Ewing almost collapsed from shock. "I could have kept him going for hours," Skip says, "but Suzy blew it when she started laughing."

After explaining the whole story to Ewing, Skip and Suzy once again found themselves safe, warm, and heading back to Brindisi in the same car that

'Preservation Hall' Brings Jazz Here

The Preservation Hall Jazz Band will be appearing at Memorial Hall Saturday, Jan. 17. The 10 p.m. show features the last original jazz band playing the music that gave birth to Dixieland and all later jazz forms.

Preservation Hall is located on St. Peter Street in the heart of New Orleans' French Quarter. Preservation Hall was probably built during the Spanish Regime since it served as a tavern and inn during the American occupation in 1803. The Hall now rings to nightly sessions featuring original jazz musicians playing early New Orleans style jazz.

These are not the candy-striped types in straw hats or beards who play a spirited, imitative music called Dixieland. These are the originals, men whose instruments have long been gathering dust while they struggled for a living at whatever they could. The music they play is scarcely changed from the turn of the century.

The band includes a company of five. Featured are DeDe Pierce, blind trumpeter, and his wife, Billie, pianist and blues singer, who have been playing together 30 years in New Orleans with tours of campuses and concerts across the country.

When Louis Armstrong was King of the Zulus in Mardi Gras in 1948, DeDe was chosen as New Orleans' finest trumpet, to lead the band in front of the float. Billie Pierce was accompanist in the 20's with the great Bessie Smith of Clarksdale and Memphis.

Members of the Band, all of whom are over 60, have been playing in New Orleans and the surrounding parishes for over 40 years and are among the few living talented jazzmen who originated the New Orleans style.

Tickets for the performance are now on sale at the Carolina Union Information Desk. Tickets for the main floor and lower balcony are $2 for students, $3 for the general public. For the upper balcony, student tickets are $1

Union To Show 'Klan', 'Hunger'

Thursday, Jan. 8, the Current Affairs Committee of the Carolina Union will host the showing of two films, KULLUX KLAN: THE INVISIBLE EMPIRE and HUNGER IN AMERICA, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the Great Hall of the Union.

For the first time, cameras and microphones have gone inside the Klan to study the band of men that has caused so much havoc in the southern United States. The history and the outlook of the Klan, whose followers are increasing in the wake of growing civil rights activity, are examined in this chilling yet superb documentary.

The second film, HUNGER IN AMERICA, is given credit for being the documentary which brought the problem of hunger to national attention. It sparked both the Congressional hunger tours and the Congressional investigations of the last few years.

The KLAN will be shown at 7, followed by a discussion of the film led by Professor Robert Miller of the History Department.

Professor Joel Schwartz of the Political Science Department will also lead a discussion following the 9 p.m. showing of HUNGER IN AMERICA. Free coffee will be provided.

Reader's Theatre

UNC Reader's Theatre will present a program on children's literature entitled, "Do Children Notice?" tonight at 7 o'clock on the third floor of the Student Union.

Readers will be James Dudley, Welda Hoerz, Kandy Perrin and Clinton Parker. The program is directed by Sarah Brenner and Stephen Whitfield. Mrs. Martha Nell Hardy is the faculty advisor.

Ask the man who makes fireproof toys —about Aetna.

Play 'Water' Held Over In Raleigh

"You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running," the third show in the Raleigh Little Theatre's current season, completed its announced run with sold-out houses. The comedy will hold over this week only, today through Saturday.

"... Water's Running" is a quartet of plays, all by Robert Anderson, and all concerned in one way or another with the ridiculous marital hang-ups of modern society.

Curtain time is at 8 P.M. at the playhouse on Pogue Street.

A birthday toy. A burst of flame. At Aetna our engineering people help prevent a tragedy like this from happening. They point out tens of thousands of potential hazards each year.

Everything from wax used on supermarket floors to faulty wiring in a factory.

Helping people is something we do every day. That's what made us one of the leading companies in the world handling all kinds of insurance.

It's the kind of place where you can do good and make good, too.

Learn about Aetna. Ask for "Your Own Thing" at your Placement Office. An Equal Opportunity Employer and a JOBS-participating company.

Aetna OUR CONCERN IS PEOPLE
LIFE & CASUALTY
#SCY-01

Planetarium Plans 'Stonehenge'

The Morehead Planetarium announces the closing of its traditional Christmas program "Star of Bethlehem" and the opening of its new Public Program "Stonehenge."

"Star of Bethlehem," the scientific and spiritual account of the Christmas star will run through Jan 12th. The program offers scientific explanations for the Christmas star which include the possibilities of comets, novae and super novae, and the conjunction of the planets Jupiter and Saturn in the years 7 and 6 B.C.

The scientific explanations which are offered for the Christmas star do not exclude the possible spiritual origins and implications of the star. The program is moving both in the credibility of the scientific explanations proffered and in its spiritual tone.

At 8:30 p.m. on Jan. 13th, the Morehead Planetarium will open the new Public Program "Stonehenge" in which time is turned back 3500 years and England's lonely ruin is visited. Public Programs may be seen Mondays through Fridays at 8:30 p.m.; Saturdays at 11:00 a.m., 1, 3, 4 and 8:30 p.m.; and Sundays at 2, 3, 4 and 8:30 p.m. Reservations are not necessary.

PEANUTS

"GREETINGS... YOU HAVE BEEN SELECTED BY THE HEAD BEAGLE FOR A SPECIAL ASSIGNMENT."

WHEN YOU ARE SELECTED BY THE HEAD BEAGLE FOR A SPECIAL ASSIGNMENT, YOU SAY A FEW QUICK GOODBYES, AND RUSH OFF!

I'VE NEVER KNOWN ANYONE BEFORE WHO WAS SELECTED BY THE HEAD BEAGLE FOR A SPECIAL ASSIGNMENT.

BINGO

THE TIME!

EEK!

WIVES WHO SAY THEIR MEN DON'T LISTEN TO 'EM SHOULD JUST TRY USIN' THE SAME EXCUSE TWICE IN ONE WEEK!

FOREIGN CAR CENTER

SPECIALIZING IN REGULAR MAINTENANCE SERVICE

REPAIRS ON ALL FOREIGN MAKES

VOLKSWAGEN SPECIALISTS

929-1462
311 E. MAIN ST. CARRBORO