

I Beg Your Pardon

By Art Chansky

(Editor's note: To the non-pseudo, carefree sports-minded students—a category of which I consider myself a member—let me apologize for occupying sports page space with the following. It is, however, quite necessary for clarification.)

Ah, I beg your pardon, Mr. Yates and Mr. Beard. I, personally, resent the implication of statements made in Wednesday's Tar Heel that three editors of the DTH are guilty of "obvious abuses of funds."

In addition, Mr. Yates and Mr. Beard, I further resent your decision that the Sports Editor is being paid for "work he has not done." Regardless of the salaries allotted to the Daily Tar Heel, I am quite sure that Todd Cohen, Bobby Nowell and myself—free from our respective philosophies—work harder and put more dedication into our jobs in one week than you do in a month of pseudopoliticking.

Not for you, Mr. Yates and Mr. Beard—for I could hardly care what you think—but for any persons that might have been taken aback by the false (and may I add, libelous) innuendoes made through your statements, allow me to clarify.

From March 23, 1969, when I took over as Sports Editor of the DTH, until the last issue in the spring of 1969, I received a salary of $3.00 per issue.

In the school year's final meeting of student legislature, a bill was passed to reduce several editors salaries for the following year. The Sports Editor's salary was cut to approximately $2.14 per issue.

Upon returning to school in the fall (for completion of a 38 page orientation edition of the DTH, I might add), I inquired into the possibility of securing part of an unused staff salary to (1) return the Sports Editor's salary to what it was a year ago, and (2) help compensate for the many additional hours spent traveling to places like Columbia, Gainesville, Charlottesville, Charlotte, Clemson, Winston-Salem and College Park.

Whether or not the salary addition could be obtained had no bearing on my job; I would have kept it, anyway.

Business Manager Ron Johnson, Publications Board Chairman Gunnar Fromen and Student Activities Secretary Mrs. Frances Sparrow signed the necessary contracts and checks validating the salary addition.

Now, a full four months later—120 days after all this "deceit" was going on right under your collective nostrils—you choose not only to take away the salary additions, but you also choose to infer, by making such statements and asking for such investigation, that we have been involved in under-the-table operations.

Once again, I resent, Mr. Yates and Mr. Beard, your accusations that I have been a part of anything underhanded; and were you not shielded by the very pseudoness that engulfs you, I would sue for every damn cent you're worth.

Of course, that was totally facetious of me. I could never lower myself to your level, Mr. Yates and Mr. Beard.

Instead, I choose to take out my frustration by going to watch the Tar Heels beat the hell out of State.

Grapplers Host State Tonight

By BILL PITTMAN
DTH Sports Writer

Carolina's wrestling team enters conference competition tonight when the grapplers from N.C. State come to Chapel Hill. The Tar Heel matmen will be trying to bounce back after two pre-Christmas losses to Virginia and Ohio Northern.

As Christmas took its toll on most everyone, so did it have its effect on the Carolina wrestlers. Describing after Christmas as a time when wrestlers "decide they are students," Coach Sam Barnes announced several lineup changes for the Tar Heels. Joe Savage has moved in at the 118 lb. weight class in place of Howard Widis while Carolina will have to forfeit the 126 lb. division due to the loss of Pablo Lancella. Barry Pierce has also moved into a starting berth in the 142 class.

The rest of the lineup will be basically as it was before Christmas: Ricky Dana, 134; Luther Gartell, 150; David Barnes, 158; John Parsons, 167; Carver Rudolph, 177; Craig Shinaman, 190; and Todd Parrish, heavyweight. Referring to the Ohio Northern loss, Barnes pointed out that he was "real pleased" with the team's overall performance. He stated that the team was "in shape" and "aggressive." He added that his major worry at this point in the season was his need to get "greater work and dedication" out of his wrestlers.

Barnes emphasized that there would be two interesting matches tonight, one between Rudolph and Ben Harry (whom Rudolph defeated in the finals of the collegiate tourney hosted by Carolina in December), and another between Shinaman and Conrad Hicks (who defeated Shinaman in the final of the same tourney).

The Carolina freshmen will wrestle the State frosh prior to the varsity contest. The Tar Babes will be paced by Roger Morton, Don Earnhardt and Pete Galanides, who have been winning for the freshmen all year.

After tonight's contest, Carolina travels to Williamsburg, Va. to grapple with William and Mary, who along with State last year handed Carolina its two most embarrassing lickings. About the match Barnes said that he would be "interested to see how much we've improved."

Match time for the Freshman contest tonight will be 6:30 with the varsity bout following at 8:00.
