The Carolina track team hosts powerhouse Maryland at 2 p.m. today at Fetzer Field. Details on page 3.

Volume 78, Number 21

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, SATURDAY, APRIL 11, 1970

78 Years Of Editorial Freedom

Founded February 23, 1893

Project Uplift Gets Aid

A $1,000 developmental grant has been extended to the Association for Minority and Disadvantaged Students (AMDS) to aid their efforts in high school student enrollment in college.

Maurice Falk Medical Fund in Pittsburgh, Pa., extended the grant to AMDS for specific use in Project Uplift, according to AMDS spokesman Jim Hornstein.

Project Uplift is currently sponsoring a campus tour for high school juniors with black, Indian or underprivileged white backgrounds.

Hornstein said the grant came as a result of efforts on the part of Dr. Cecil Sheps, fund member here at UNC.

by United States philanthropic suitable to a nice spring day-and these Carolina (Staff Photo by Cliff Kolovson) commented.

He added that two national magazines nave shown an interest in the work done by the student-organized association.

According to Hornstein, the money will be used to build upon the work already accomplished by AMDS.

"There will be a concerted effort to follow up programs such as campus tours along with additional mailings to further interest in the association.

will be carried out," he said.

AMDS is operated solely on a voluntary membership basis by University students.

"This is only one indication DRINKING BEER, lounging in the sunshine, Maybe the weatherman will see fit to order of the interest shown in AMDS talking a blue streak. Those are activities some more of this kind of spring madness.

later hearing.

cts Without Courts By Gerry Cohen The Legislature passed parts Staff Writer of the budget and will resume lasted over four and a half "concerned."

A bill which will cut off funds to several student organizations if the administration tries students without their consent was approved in Student Legislature Thursday evening.

Two hours of debate brought only one minor change, eliminating the bus system from those agencies which may be affected.

The bill passed by a 17 to 12 margin. Student Body President Tommy Bello said he would either sign or veto the bill within a few days.

The measure also requests student courts to shut down if the administration conducts controversial sections remain fighting. to be considered.

Funds Cut If University

The body cut $1,200 from executive salaries and voted to restore the president's $500 discretionary fund. It also cut $200 from the attorney general's request.

Four hundred dollars was added to the orientation budget, and the requested sum of $3,929 was approved for next year's Project Uplift.

By an 11 to eight vote. funding for the National Merit Committee was eliminated. Several legislators said the administration should fund the program.

Willingham," Bello said.

in issuing the charges.

except Wheeler are black.

Movement here issued a policy

statement Thursday night,

saying it also was "skeptical"

All of the students charged

Thursday night's meeting on the board would be debate on the money bill at 2 hours and was marked by p.m. Sunday. Most of the sometimes bitter parliamentary of electing Legislature's > court funding bill to continue short debate. supporting orientation (if the debated for 15 minutes Committee $200. The should be allowed to break the tie and voted 17-13 he could

Speaking in favor of the courts bill, Legislator Alan Hirsch said, "Students should be able to control their own lives. This bill is strong enough so the administration may back down. What purpose are students courts if they have no power?"

Legislator Johnny Williford said the Legislature was attacking the wrong people. "The trustees wrote the disruption policy, not South Building," he said. Williford said the administration will try cases if student courts shut down. A bill which would request the Chancellor to allow the Therefore, Wheeler would Willingham in his skepticism student body president to appoint members to the disruption Hearings Committee was killed by tabling after the > courts bill passed. "I feel that the University Legislator Mark Evens, in never had sufficient evidence favor of tabling, said the bill to make a case against just passed directs the

The Black Student administration not to try cases. this bill we are recognizing the legitimacy of the disruption policy.

of the University's intentions "Putting a few students on the disruption board will not guarantee a fair trial," Evens College Federation. All other

The BSM has threatened to Legislator Bill Russo said attempt to persuade black adoption of the bill would not students not to enroll at UNC mean recognition of the policy

A bill to change the method committee members was After an amendment to the defeated by one vote after a

The body unanimously administration tries students) voted to give the was defeated in a tie-vote, the Environmental Teach-in whether the vice president committee is coordinating efforts for the April 22 Earth

> During budget debate salaries for the vice-president and secretary of the student body were eliminated after several members said they should work without pay.

President Tommy Bello spoke in favor of his discretionary fund, saying the failure of the previous administration to properly spend its fund should not be held against him. The fund was

The attorney general's salary was also eliminated.

State Affairs Committee and the Election Board received approval, although votes on Talent Search, Toronto Exchange and the International Student Center scholarships were postponed.

It is expected Sunday's budget meeting will last most of the day. A recess is Evens said "If we approve tentatively planned for dinner,

> To be considered Sunday are the Daily Tar Heel, Yack, bus system, Graduate Student Association and the Residence organizations will also be voted

It is expected the Tar Heel and Talent Search will be if the students were punished. and would insure the students considered last.

foundations," Hornstein gents are making good use of their leisure time. Disruption Cases Bogged Dou police officer, failed to appear

Wheeler's case is scheduled for Wednesday. McLean and Williamson had their cases

Blake explained Friday, experience. While some of the students are not facing criminal charges, any testimony by our

By Al Thomas Staff Writer

The University's efforts to prosecute four students on disruption charges have run into serious problems because members of the Chapel Hill police, prime witnesses in the cases, will not testify.

The University officially dropped charges against Alex "Also a complete study on Willingham Friday, and the attitudinal change in according to a University students visiting the campus official who asked to remain anonymous, the three other cases may suffer the same fate.

Police Chief W.D. Blake said

Friday his men would not Willingham's case was testify because "it could temporarily suspended jeopardize the cases of several Wednesday night when the students facing criminal University's only witness, a charges stemming from incident."

The University has charged At the time, the University was the students with violating the not certain whether the disruption policy when police officers would show up for a and picketers cashed behind Lenoir Ding Hall during the cafeteria workers' strike Dec.

Besides Willingham, John continued because their Wheeler, Jack McLean and lawyers was out of the state. Glen Williamson were scheduled to face the trustees' "We decided not to let the Hearings Committee, which officers testify because of would ascertain guilt or recent court rulings and past > men could jeopardize the cases of those who are." McLean and Wheeler are both appealing court

> > Blake did say his men could testify after the court cases were concluded.

convictions stemming from the Bob Melott, a UNC Law School professor who represents the University in the cases, said Wednesday if the University does not give the students a hearing within 10 days after they receive notice of the charges, under the disruptions policy the cases have to be tried by the end of about the University's next week and McLean and intentions. Williamson as soon as their lawyer returns.

Consolidated University President William Friday issued the official statement on the University's decision to drop Willingham's case.

"This evidence (against Willingham), " Friday's statement read, "which consisted of the testimony of a police officer, supported the conclusion that there was probable cause to believe that Willingham had engaged in conduct violative of University policy ...

"... the witness on whose testimony the finding of probable cause was based refused to appear and testify," the statement continued. "Since no evidence on the merits of the case were presented, the charges against Willingham are withdrawn."

Willingham said he was not surprised by the University's decision and added he was suspect of the University even bringing charges against him. "The University did not have solid evidence and I'm very skeptical whether they ever had anything," he said. Willingham had maintained he was not even in Chapel Hill when the incident occured.

Student Body President Tommy Bello joined

APO Auction Is Success: $2400 To Campus Chest Campus Chest netted almost spectators, the juke box, Other items which brought $2,400 Thursday night in an donated by James Residence in lesser amounts included

Among the unique items

puppy for $125.

the event.

Amid cheering by 500

item of the night.

fraternity brother and the final The auction, which started winner. The brother had grown off slowly, became a heated attached to the dog after contest when the juke box keeping it for three weeks. The went on sale midway through winner said he was bidding for a personal friend of the former All-American basketball Star.

auction held to raise funds for College, became the first high autographed basketballs and footballs which sold for an Auctioneer John Allen average $17; Spiro Agnew's auctioned was a boa Brown called the competition inaugural cuff links for $20; constrictor, which sold for "a good, old-fashioned auction dinner for two at Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson's home for High-priced items included a Larry Miller's puppy $10; and a Roaring 20's party sailboat for $250, a juke box received the same attention by Phi Mu for $40. Charlie for $150 and Larry Miller's amid bidding by an APO Scott's autographed and mounted shoes and picture > Phi Mu sorority provided entertainment in their preview for the Roaring 20's party. The coeds sang and danced a routine from the "flapper" era.

The auction was part of the Campus Chest drive for funds, sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity and Girls Service Sorority.

Don Westbrook hosted the auction. Professional auctioneer John Allen Brown Friday's Daily Tar Heel. donated his services, along with assistants Dan Brown, David Hammer and Worth Monroe.

would have to be dropped. Plimpton Will Not Become UNC Writer-In-Residence

The UNC News Bureau be unable to come to the George Plimpton will not serve of prior commitments. April 13-29.

received word Plimpton would month.

annouced Friday that writer University at that time because as writer-in-residence here However, the bureau did say that negotiations are still in The story was printed in progress with Plimpton's secretary schedule a speaking The news bureau said it had engagement here late this Kolovson always thought. When he ran across results. When Kolovson left, the guy was still this fellow jest sittin' and 'a-whittlin', he jest a whittlin', so we don't know the rest.

WHITTLIN' IS A LOST ART-or so Cliff couldn't resist. This picture is one of the

Over 8,000 Students Expected

Anti-War Festival Will Begin Today

By Rick Gray Associate Editor

The anti-war "Festival of Life" will get underway this afternoon on Ehringhaus Field.

Fred Thomas, coordinator of the festival, said Friday he expected "between 8,000 and 10,000" students from UNC and other campuses throughout the state to participate in the activities today and Sunday.

The highlights of today's festivities are concerts by Phil co-director of the Institute for Policy Studies.

members of UNC and Duke will be held this afternoon in Durham to raise funds for the festival.

Guests of honor at the reception will be Duke President Terry Sanford and Vermont Governor Phillip Hoff who recently announced his candidacy for the U.S. Senate.

Sanford, former North chairman of Citizens for Humphrey/Muskie in 1968, The concert will begin at 7 said Friday that while he did not endorse all the aims of the A reception for faculty North Carolina Moratorium Committee, the festival had his

> "Any way students want to the festival. express themselves, as long as it is legitimate, should be supported whether it is the Red Cross Bloodmobile or the rhoratorium," Sanford said. legitimate modes of dissent," ended."

Jim Williams, spokesman for the UNC chapter of Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) said Friday his group has been denied permission to have Williams said the person schedule at that late date.

SDS was requesting that added. Debbie Patterson, national SDS inter-organization secretary, be allowed to speak from the platform.

Fred Thomas, coordinator a speaker on the stage during of the festival, said, "SDS first asked to have a speaker the "SDS asked for a speaker middle of this week after we include workshops on topics three times," Williams said, had been lining up the stage "and we were refused each schedule for 10 days. We told them we could not change the Revolutionary Thought," rock

"We ought to promote who refused permission for an "They volunteered to SDS speaker had told him "we appear in the spotlight after all state.

speech by Arthur Waskow, Carolina governor and national he added. "This war should be would be a disruptive force." the work had been done," he Williams said the Moratorium Committee was misleading the student body in that any funds collected this weekend would be used for other demonstrations.

Activity this afternoon will ranging from ecology to the SDS workshop on "Schools of bands and speakers from anti-war groups throughout the

... of anti-war activities. Ochs and Tom Paxton and a