

Low ACC Finish Possible Without Scott, Two Guards

Previs all were on the sick or injured list. "Because of the injuries and illnesses," says Smith, "we never had a set lineup last season. We hope to start the new season with a set lineup with seven men listed as starters as we have done in the past."

The phenomenal Scott did a lion's share of the Tar Heel scoring last season.

He compiled an average of 27.1 and wound up as the school's second leading scorer of all time. With Charlie graduated, the Tar Heels will strive for a more balanced attack.

"We need to make up for our graduation losses with teamwork," Smith says. "It cannot be done by an individual. We will strive for a balanced scoring attack and we hope to get it."

Returning are 6-5 Wuycik of Ambridge, Pa., who averaged 14.0; 6-5

Chamberlain of New York City, who played sparingly and averaged 11.5; and 6-10 Dedmon of Baltimore, Md., who averaged 13.8 and led the team in rebounds with 235.

These three players will be key men in the frontcourt but even they will have to battle to win positions.

Smith has promised that he will take a long look at all the personnel in early work. Others in contention in the front court will be top reserves from last year, 6-7 senior Dave Chadwick of Orlando, Fla.; 6-9 junior Craig Corson from Contoocook, N.H.; 6-9 senior Don Eggleston of Charlotte, N. C.; and a rising sophomore, 6-8 Donn Johnston of Jamestown, N. Y.

Johnston, although bothered by a late season injury, averages 17.7 for the Tar Heel freshman team last season. And he figures large in the Tar Heel plans.

"We don't feel that we will lose much in rebounding with Johnston in the cast," Smith says. "Scott was an outstanding rebounder, but we hope that Johnston can take up the slack."

Four veterans return in the backcourt. The 6-2 Previs of Bethel Park, Pa., started many games as a sophomore and will get a good shot at a starting position. Crafty Dale Gipple, 6-1 of Burlington, N. C.; 6-4 Kim Huband of Wilmington, N. C.; and 6-0 Richard Tuttle of London, Ky.; used sparingly last season, all figure in the battling.

Then there is George Karl, a nifty 6-1 performer from Pittsburgh, Pa., who must be considered a question mark. Karl averaged 22.0 for the freshman team before he was sidelined with an injury. He underwent an operation for a slipped disc. Coaches are optimistic that he will be ready to go at full speed when practice begins in October.

We want your body, not your money.

A lot of banks will give you a present—if you'll open an account. All Central Carolina Bank asks is that you carry your bod to our University Square office September 11th through 16th. We have a machine there that eats punchcards (which is even better than folding, spindling or mutilating). We give you your card at the office. If it's a winner, the machine says so noisily. And you get to take home a Carolina mug (choice of blue or white) or two silver-rimmed Carolina glasses (choice of clear or smoky glass). Why mess with some other bank? All CCB wants is the student body. And we'll return it in the same condition you offered it, provided you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.
