

Morehead Rec Room Construction Delayed

Students of Morehead Residence College have hit another snag in their attempt to get space for social, recreational and study use.

According to the University, the room in the basement of Cobb dormitory will not be finished until January. Assistant Vice Chancellor for Business John Temple said the contractor's busy schedule caused the delay.

The room originally was scheduled to be finished by the first week of class. Completion was then postponed until October.

Morehead Governor Steve Saunders said, "It is disappointing that space will not be available until January for our activities. This makes it impossible to present as full a social and academic program as we would like to."

Morehead got the right to use the room in Cobb last fall after it tried to get space in the Faculty Club. That request touched off a controversy with Air Force ROTC and Female Liberation also trying to get the room. Female Lib wanted to set up a day-care center in the club.

The Faculty Club was awarded to the Undergraduate Admissions Office by the Space Committee. The admissions office requested the building this summer.

The space committee appropriated money for the room in Cobb after telling Morehead in the spring it could have that space.

The room is to include ping-pong and pool tables, a TV, study space and a combination library-classroom.

Yack Pictures

All students who wish to have their portraits included in the Yackety Yack should sign up for their appointments in Suite D of the Student Union 1-5 p.m.

Pictures will be taken in Lenoir Hall Oct. 19-November 6.

Until the Cobb room is completed, the only space available to the college is a small room in the basement of Graham dorm.

Saunders said, "I am confident that the space in Cobb basement, when completed, will enable Morehead to become much more active than it has ever been."

YSA Plans War Opposition

by Doug Hall
Staff Writer

The recently formed UNC chapter of the Young Socialist Alliance (YSA), a revolutionary socialist group, has made organization of opposition to the war in Vietnam its primary objective for the coming year.

John Hutton, a local YSA leader, said the group's anti-war activities will include educational programs, formation of a local chapter of the Student Mobilization Committee and organization of area demonstrations. The chapter was formed two weeks ago.

"We hope we can get something going comparable to last year," Hutton said. "There has to be something to perk up the interest. The war is still going on in Vietnam."

Hutton said his group plans to organize an Oct. 31 anti-war march to include students from Duke, UNC and State.

Anti-war groups have proclaimed Oct. 31 as a national protest day. A "South-wide March" is planned then in Atlanta, and demonstrations are planned across the country, he said.

A meeting is planned during the next few weeks to organize a local chapter of the Student Mobilization Committee, a national umbrella organization for all groups favoring an immediate U. S. withdrawal from Vietnam, Hutton said.

The mobilization committee will conduct teach-ins and rallies, he said.

Hutton said YSA also will support black liberation and women's liberation movements on campus and work on local issues.

YSA will work with the Radical Coalition, an ad hoc organization of radical groups, in an effort to remove ROTC from the UNC campus, he said.

"At the moment our main objective is the war," Hutton commented. "But long-range plans call for a revolution, resulting in a socialist democracy for the United States."

"This will provide true equality between races, sexes and all groups. There has to be a social revolution in this country. Without that, there can be only a pretense of democracy."

National YSA leaders and speakers are expected to come to the Carolina campus to help organize the local chapter.

Frank Boehm, a member of YSA's National Executive Committee, was in Chapel Hill this week to speak to the local group.

"We are not trying to expand to a membership of 40 or 50, said Hutton. This is not the way to build a revolutionary organization."

He said he expects membership to grow through interest in programs conducted by YSA.

Hutton hopes to have representatives from the local chapter attend the YSA national convention Dec. 28-31 in New York.

"Many people have said the war is a tragic mistake," he said. "The war is not a mistake. It is a logical extension of U. S. intervention to work against national liberation movements around the world."

"U. S. intervention all over the world is caused by this country's inability to cope with national liberation movements. U. S. leaders are paranoid about a red take-over—as if there were evil hordes of little people who were getting ready to invade California."

Libby Futch (left) and Beth Coltrane look over one of the displays which were placed in front of the Student Stores. (Staff photo by Cliff Kolovson)

Chamber Group To Perform Here

The Triangle Chamber Music Players will present a short recital at the Chapel Hill Public Library Sunday at 8 p.m.

Featured will be a brass quartet—the Schubert quartet for guitar, flute, viola and cello—and Three Pieces by Maurice Wright for trumpet, viola and flute.

The primary purpose of the recital is to bring together persons interested in playing chamber music in occasional informal sessions. The group is open to all persons in the area.

The organization plans an annual directory of persons in the Triangle area interested in playing chamber music. The directory will list the names, addresses, telephone numbers, instruments and a self-evaluation of each person's ability.

A separate section will list players of high school age and younger.

Persons unable to attend the recital can receive an application form for the directory by writing to The Triangle Chamber Music Players, 810 West Proctor Street, Durham.

An informal discussion about the organization will follow the recital.

One dollar will be asked of each adult at the recital.

Traveling Evangelists Couple Pushes Religion

by Anne Lafferty
Staff Writer

Remnants of a bygone age when medicine shows travelled back roads, all skirts were mid-calf length and evangelists everywhere preached to capacity crowds, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eckhardt spent Tuesday afternoon handing out religious tracts on Franklin Street.

Trying to "get young people to read their Bibles," the Eckhardts, who are in their thirties, parked their white station wagon along the curb and offered literature to all passers-by.

Eckhardt's hand-lettered signs and a loudspeaker, playing "The Old Rugged Cross" and other hymns, drew attention to their enterprise.

"Encouraging people to believe the whole Bible is our theme if we have any," explained Mrs. Eckhardt.

"We're very impressed with the young people—how they accept the tracts," she added. "You don't see any of the tracts on the ground." The Eckhardts also handed out tracts last Friday and Sunday.

"No church supports us; we do it on our own," Mrs. Eckhardt explained. "We're not rooting for any denomination." However, she added, "Pentacost church is what we lean to."

They buy their tracts from various publishers throughout the country, including the Randleman (N.C.) Tract Society and a Mennonite publishing company in Scottsdale, Pa.

Most of the tracts are testimonials concerning conversion and divine healing and other evangelistic literature, urging repentance and outlining steps for salvation.

"I belonged to a church for 15 years without repenting," explained Mrs. Eckhardt.

The Eckhardts are combatting what they believe to be a trend in American churches not to believe the whole Bible. "I had to leave my family," said Mrs. Eckhardt, "because they don't believe you can know you are saved."

"People don't realize that God can do everything," she added "God does heal; he healed both of us—me of a blood disease and my husband of a stroke."

According to local police, no ordinances prohibit the handing out of literature. And unless they get "run out of town," as Mrs. Eckhardt joked, the Eckhardts will continue to visit Chapel Hill regularly, trying to persuade University students that, as their hand-painted signs declare, "It is time to seek the Lord."

FALL BOOKSALE!

Come for a fall Bargain Browse. Displays are supplemented daily, so come visiting often.

Gift books—showy art books and illustrated histories—handsome works for the collector, cook, sportsman & craftsman; fiction and meaty non-fiction at ½ price and less.

Thousands of shiny new copies of titles from seasons gone by, all at handsome reductions.

THE
INTIMATE BOOKSHOP

Chapel Hill
Open Evenings 'Till 10

AMBASSADOR CLUB ROOM

AT

RAMADA INN RESTAURANT

IS OPEN FOR

PARTIES AND BANQUETS

A FEW DATES ARE AVAILABLE
Anyone wishing to make reservations or already having tentative reservations contact Mr. DiFabo between 9 a.m. & 4 p.m. at 477-8632

RAFFLES WARE IS HERE!

FANTASTIC NEW DESIGNER COLLECTION FROM AMERICAN INNOVATOR LARRY CANE

SPORT SUITS WITH MATCHING CAPS, SHIRTS, BELTS

A MUST SEE AT

ALEXANDER'S AMBITION

135 E. Franklin Next to Troy's Stereo

FREE TAPE RECORDER CLINIC

TROY'S stereo center
DURHAM & CHAPEL HILL

FIND OUT IF YOUR RECORDER IS STILL PERFORMING PROPERLY

TAPE RECORDERS TESTED REGARDLESS OF BRAND AND PLACE OF PURCHASE.

Engineers from Tandberg will assist Troy's in testing your recorder. Your tape heads will be cleaned and demagnetized. Your recorder will be tested while you wait.

If you have a reel to reel (AC powered) recorder in good working order less than 6 years old we will test it. (Sorry, we cannot check cassette; 8-track, or battery operated recorders). Any European recorder must have American adaptors.

Chapel Hill OCT. 15
Thursday 12 Noon - 7 PM

Durham OCT. 16
Friday 12 Noon - 7 PM

A graph will be made of your tape recorder's performance. It will show the record-playback frequency response, measured harmonic distortion, the wow and flutter, speed accuracy and signal to noise ratio on each channel.

An engineer from Tandberg will test your tape recorder Thursday, Oct. 15 or Friday, Oct. 16.