Keydets Lack Manpower

by Chris Cobbs
Sports Editor

About the only thing Virginia Military Institute doesn't lose when it plays football is its desire.

The keydets have won only two of their last 27 games and have dropped seven in succession this season, including a 55-21 embarrassment by Davidson last week.

They are annually hampered by a critical lack of depth that manifests itself as the season progresses. A couple of front line players typically get hurt early in the campaign and there simply isn't anyone to take their places.

Manpower differences aside, however, VMI never fails to hustle and keep up the battle although the game may be ridiculously out of reach.

The foregoing sentiments were put forward by Carolina Coach Bill Dooley

Tuesday. His Tar Heels seek win No. 6 here Saturday against VMI.

"They always keep after you, no matter what the score," said Dooley, whose team annihilated the Keydets 61-11 last year. "I think the fact they are a military school with a lot of discipline really helps keep up their fighting attitude."

VMI has been without its best defensive back and one of its best defensive linemen since the first of the season, Dooley said. "They have the finest field goal man in the country and throw the ball real well," however, he pointed out.

Dan Cupit, who kicks barefoot in a semi-soccer style, has booted 10 field goals this year to set the pace nationally. He is a 6-0, 167-pounder from Portsmouth, Va.

Quarterback Randy Kinsey, a sophomore who has replaced 1969 starter

Murphy Sprinkel, moved to the secondary, threw 45 passes last week. He completed 16 of 28 for 259 yards in the second half.

The keydets really don't have many other strong points, one would gather from listening to Dooley. Punter Jim Bailey gets exceptional height on his boots, which average 39 yards, and Dooley said few returns are made on his kicks.

Since beating Furman to open the season, VMI has lost to teams like Rice, West Virginia and Virginia as well as lesser lights such as the Citadel.

The Tar Heels, meanwhile, earned Dooley's commendation for their second half comeback against Virginia, whom they knocked off 30-15 last week. "We got a tremendous lift from the play of Bill Richardson and John Bunting," the coach said. The veteran linebackers led a defensive charge that shutout the Cavaliers in the second half.

Richardson was named Atlantic Coast Conference defensive lineman of the week for the second time this year for his efforts.

Halfback Lou Angelo also received kind words from Dooley for his one-handed interception that thwarted a Virginia scoring bid in the third period. Angelo now has four interceptions to lead the Tar Heels in that department.

Offensively, tailback Don McCauley once again drew raves as he rolled to 145 yards and a new school season rushing record of 1,130. He was accorded ACC back of the week honors for the third time this year.

Dooley said the offensive line did a standout job of adjusting to Virginia's multiple alignments, with tackle Paul Hoolahan, its most consistent member receiving special mention.

Guards Jim Hambacher and Ron Grzybowski were labeled the best pair in the league by Dooley following their showing last week.

Lotz Seeking Another Win

John Lotz will be shooting for his fifth straight coaching victory Saturday when Carolina stages its annual Blue-White basketball game in Carmichael Auditorium.

Lotz, who has won four straight games in the series, will coach the Blue squad while Bill Guthridge will direct the Whites in the contest which begins at 4:30.

Today is the last day students may pick up free tickets for the game, with the price rising to $1 the remainder of the week. General admission for the public is $2 while the price for staff members is $1.

McCauley Approaches ACC Record

Dynamic Don McCauley has a chance to become the top rusher in Atlantic Coast Conference history when Carolina faces Virginia Military Institute here Saturday.

The Tar Heel tailback from Garden City, N.Y. has a career total of 2,567 yards rushing and needs only 129 more to best the mark set by Virginia's Frank Quayle at 2,695.

McCauley appears a good bet to break Quayle's single season record this Saturday. Don has 1,130 yards this campaign and needs just 84 to break Quayle's record of 1,213 set in 1968.

The McCauley express rolled again last Saturday, delivering 145 yards in 33 carries as the Tar Heels came from behind to beat Virginia, 30-15. Don scored two touchdowns in that victory and brought his season's total to 11 for 66 points.

Saturday would be a fitting time for record-breaking in Kenan Stadium because it should be a festive occasion. It will be Band Day and Rams Club Day. Special recognition will be made to Rams Club members whose support provides scholarships for Tar Heels athletes.

The game will start at 1:30 p.m. and another big crowd is expected.

Most of the eyes as usual will be on McCauley, who is one of the great players ever to perform in this area. He has gained more than 100 yards rushing in seven of the Tar Heels' eight games. Only Vanderbilt held him below the 100-mark.

McCauley also has a dead-aim on plenty of Carolina school records. He already has topped his own single season rushing record with his 1,130 total. He gained 1,092 last season.

He is just 247 yards shy of the UNC career rushing record of 2,814 held by Charlie (Choo Choo) Justice. His 11 touchdowns leave him just one TD short of the Carolina school record held by Justice in 1946 and Jimmy Ward in 1929.

We want to talk to you about a career in law...
without law school.

When you become a Lawyer's Assistant, you'll be doing work traditionally done by lawyers — work we think you'll find challenging and responsible. And Lawyer's Assistants are now so critically needed that The Institute for Paralegal Training can offer you a position in the city of your choice and a higher salary than you'd expect as a recent college graduate. You'll work with lawyers on interesting legal problems — and the rewards will grow as you do.
