

The Daily Tar Heel

Opinions of The Daily Tar Heel are expressed on its editorial page. All unsigned editorials are the opinions of the editor and the staff. Letters and columns represent only the opinions of the individual contributors.

Tom Gooding, Editor

Awards Of The Week

Poor Scheduling Award-To the Carolina Theatre and the Carolina Union for both playing Goodbye Columbus yesterday.

ASPCA Award to the girl who gave her German Shepherd dog a drink out of the first floor water fountain in the library

The It's All Pink On the Inside Award-To The Daily Sketch of London that picked black actress Diana Ross as the second sexiest woman in the world.

Brave New World Award-To the shopping store in Milan, Italy that is replacing Santa Claus with a computer to offer shopping advice to parents who don't know what to get for their children for Christmas.

Political Hack Award-To Student Legislator Alan Nagle, who spotted the editorial staff of the DTH leaving the TV room at TEP after watching election returns and asked, "You mean to tell me that all you cats came over here to interview me?"

If You Can't Stand The Heat Award-To the people petitioning for better treatment for U.S. pilots who napalmed Vietnamese civilians.

Nen-Partisan Award-To the freshmen who have filed two complete slates of independent candidates for class elections. Now, students can vote a straight ticket for the independent party of their choice.

Good Idea Award-To the UNC Campus ministers who are

The Daily Tar Heel

78 Years of Editorial Freedom

Tom Gooding, Editor

Rod Waldorf Managing Ed.

Mike Parnell News Editor

Rick Gray Associate Ed.

Harry Bryan Associate Ed.

Chris Cobbs Sports Editor

Frank Parrish Feature Editor

Ken Ripley National News Ed.

Terry Cheek Night Editor

Doug Jewell Business Mgr.

Frank Stewart Adv. Mgr.

Howie Carr

A Survey Of Students Attitudes

Rocco Mudd, chairman of Students for an Apathetic Society, today released the results of a wide-ranging poll on the attitudes of UNC students.

Mudd, who has a long history as a political activist, was formerly a member of such now-defunct organizations as Concerned Citizens Committee to Draft David Eisenhower, and the Concerned Citizens Committee to Free Mickey Mouse.

"We got the idea for this project from H. L. Mencken, who once said, 'Nobody every went broke underestimating the intelligence of the American public,'" explained Mudd, "and from the Firesign Theatre, which once said, 'Give them a fight, and they'll follow it anywhere.'"

"After mingling with the local primates for the last two weeks," continued Mudd, "we are more convinced than ever. I predict an overwhelming triumph next spring for Los Iacundos."

Entitled the Mudd Report, the poll started out with a series of questions designed to test the student's knowledge of the campus. The questions and answers were as follows:

1. Who is Tom Bello?
a) Cambodian foreign exchange student-47%
b) Los Bello's father-21%
c) Mafia hit man-15%
d) Minnie Mouse's co-star in "Goofy Meets the Gay Liberation Front"-17%

2. What is the Honor Code?

a) The code which entrusts students with enough responsibility for the Student Stores to install hidden cameras-33%
b) The code which entrusts students with enough responsibility to have bookcheckers at every door in the library-33%

c) The code which enables professors to take coffee breaks during exams-34%

3. What happens when you break the Honor Code?

a) Get kicked out of school-9%
b) Get higher grades-81%
c) Get lower phone bills-10%

4. What is the function of student government?

a) To give the University something to brag about in its admissions books-23%
b) To get a bunch of fools into graduate school-31%

c) To give the Tar Heel something to fill up its front page with-28%

d) To channel off excess energy that might be going to something worthwhile-18%
5. What is your main complaint about Student Stores?

a) High prices-31%
b) How come I don't get one of their scholarships-69%

6. What do Morehead Scholars mean to UNC?

a) More heads-13%
b) More Chi Psi-26%

c) Harder work, and more of it-61%

7. What does the UNC football team do?

a) Plays 'em one at a time-27%
b) Tires to stop the big play-32%

c) Beats any given in the ACC on any given day, and vice versa-41%

The next series of questions concerned current events:

1. When will we leave Vietnam?

a) When the moon is in the seventh sign, and Jupiter aligns with Mars-55%

b) When the chickens come home to roost-21%

The last series of questions dealt with morality. The questions were posed as hypothetical situations:

1. Suppose you woke up one morning after a wild party, and (God forbid) realized that you had smoked a "reefer" the night before. What would you do?

a) Check for needle marks on my arm-7%

b) Write to Dear Abby to find out if I were hooked-10%

c) Find the no-good hippie who burned me with the oregano-83%

2. Suppose you're out on a date. What do you want to do?

a) Get a little nooky on the side-46%

b) Develop a platonic relationship-2%

c) Never go any (a), don't know what (b) means-52%

3. Suppose you woke up one morning after a wild party, and you get a call from a sorority girl who tells you that you put your tongue all the way in her mouth the previous night. She now fears that she is pregnant. What do you do?

a) Wash her mouth out with ammonia and pray-57%

b) Marry her-1%

c) Become hysterical with laughter-42%

The next series of questions concerned current events:

1. When will we leave Vietnam?

a) When the moon is in the seventh sign, and Jupiter aligns with Mars-55%

b) When the chickens come home to roost-21%

The last series of questions dealt with morality. The questions were posed as hypothetical situations:

1. Suppose you woke up one morning

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe, and find themselves living in a life style quite removed from that of home, faith often just seems to seem away.

And the results are often just as messy as a broken egg. Loss of faith can lead to disillusionment and cynicism, confusion, and-in those moments we think about it-despair.

A lot of people blame this loss of faith among students on the college environment, and one of their solutions is to retreat to the cloistered confines of a "Christian" college.

But I can't go along with that. To me,

belief that can't face honest scrutiny, collapses under hard questions, and is

afraid of challenges if belief that is sometimes like trying to keep an egg in a shell.

As Christians face a bewildering array of new facts, encounter open and often caustic challenges to the things they believe