Tar Babies race to 95-74 win

by David Zucchino
Sports Writer

The Carolina freshmen used John O'Donnell's sensational exhibition of marksmanship and the powerful rebounding of Bobby Jones to race to an easy 95-74 blitzing of William & Mary Tuesday night.

The Tar Babies displayed remarkable teamwork and precision in posting their opening game triumph as they ran over and through William and Mary's man-to-man defense with smoothness and efficiency.

O'Donnell, a 6-6 forward from New York City, finished the night with 32 big points and seemed to connect every time he shot, while Jones, a smooth 6-9 center from Charlotte, handily out-rebounded William and Mary's 6-8 Barry Blackwell with a game-high 20 rebounds.

The Tar Babies jumped to a quick 3-2 lead behind two free throws by Jones and never relinquished it, although William and Mary managed to catch Carolina at 12-all with 13:10 remaining in the first half as forward Mike Bonnelly dropped in an uncontested layup.

It was the last time they got that close. O'Donnell, who poured in a whopping 22 first half points, pulled the Tar Babies ahead for good with a 10-foot jumper, making the score 14-12.

The Tar Babies reached their widest first half margin with 9:58 left to go in the period as Jones threw in a layup to make the scoreboard read 23-14.

The freshmen maintained their nine point spread at the end of the half as O'Donnell took a pass from Jones and glided in for a layup with 37 seconds left in the half, leaving a 43-34 half-time score.

The Tar Babies turned the contest into a laugher early in the second half as O'Donnell continued his charmed shooting, putting Carolina ahead by 20 at 67-47 with 12:15 left in the game.

A Jones layup with 9:45 to go stretched the lead to ridiculous proportions, driving the score up to 75-50.

Coach Bill Guthridge sent in his reserves minutes later, and they enjoyed themselves, although the final margin of victory dropped slightly to 21 points at 95-74.

The Tar Babies shot a fine 55 per cent from the field as O'Donnell canned 15 of his 20 shots. Jones made 10 of 18 tries, while Bill Crouch had a perfect four for four night.

Eleven Tar Babies got into the scoring column.

Mike Bonnelly led William and Mary with 24 points and Dick Stark had 18. They were the only visitors to make double figures. William and Mary shot a dismal 35.7 from the floor and the presence of Jones left them sorely out-rebounded at 49-25.

Sanders, gymnasts are confident

by Howie Carr
Sports Writer

With his team bolstered by nine outstanding freshmen, varsity gymnastics coach Fred Sanders exudes confidence about his squad's outlook for the 1970-71 season.

In addition to nine freshmen, who Sanders says will comprise about "three-fourths of the team," all but two lettermen return from last year's 7-3 squad.

Sophomore letterman Robert Jacobson returns as a top performer in the floor exercises, while other standouts should be freshmen Richard Fox and David Lorentzson.

The side horse, which was the team's weakest event last year, has been strengthened by three freshmen who will team with an improved Dave Lunsford. The frosh are Murry Kravitz, the state champion of New Jersey last year, Paul Wheelock, a regional champion in New York State, and Ben Edkins.

Captain John Hesser and junior John Brantley are joined by freshmen Robert Dykes and Fox in the still rings. Several returning lettermen, including Hesser and David Brantley anchor the long horse vault, while newcomers Fox and Kravitz also figure in Sanders' plans.

The parallel bars corps, probably the Tar Heels' strongest contingent, is headed by Hesser and Steve Alexander. Once again, freshmen will play an important role, with Fox and Bill O'Brien as the most promising.

Frank Jeffreys, Skip Lantz, Hesser, Fox, and O'Brien should give Carolina excellent performances on the horizontal bars, while O'Brien and Lorentzson join junior Hammond Snyder to give UNC a strong trampoline team.

The Tar Heels open their season December 12 when they host Virginia and William & Mary in Carmichael Auditorium at 7:30 p.m. The gymnasts have had no problem defeating either team in previous years.

The gymnasts face a much stiffer challenge two days later when they entertain the University of Illinois-Chicago Circle at 8:00 p.m. UICC is perennially among the nations top ten teams.

During the Christmas break, the whole team will travel to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, where it will take part in the Eastern Gymnastics clinic.

The Tar Heels' toughest meet of the year is slated for January 8 at home against Southern Illinois. The Salukis finished fourth in the NCAA's last season, and they won the tournament in 1966.

Immediately preceding the start of exams, Sanders' charges will take on Western Carolina and Virginia Tech in Carmichael at 2:00 p.m.

The team has four meets scheduled for February.

On March 4, 5, and 6 the Tar Heels will play host to the NCAA Southern Regionals. Sanders believes his team has a good chance to finish among the top three, along with LSU and Memphis State.

McCauley makes 2 All-American teams

by Mark Whicker
Sports Writer

The nation's football coaches and sportswriters agree with UNC Coach Bill Dooley: Don McCauley is one of the two best college running backs in the land.

The Kodak All-American team, picked by the coaches, and the Look Magazine team, selected by the Football Writers Association of America, both set McCauley alongside Texas' Steve Worster and Stanford's Jim Plunkett in the NCAA dream backfield.

Even the All-ACC team, which begrudged many deserving Tar Heels the honor, couldn't overlook McCauley, as he was selected unanimously.

Dooley said after UNC's 59-34 rout of Duke that McCauley deserved the Heisman Trophy. He finished ninth in the balloting.

In this week's issue of Look the praise for Don continues.

"In Tarheel country, where they keep track of such things, it has been noted that Don McCauley has become the top rusher in ACC history," says Look.

"He has taken over from Virginia's Frank Quayle, who was stopped at a mere 2,695 yards." The issue was printed too early to include McCauley's 279-yard performance against Duke and his establishment of a new NCAA single-season rushing record (1,720 yards).

Dooley was quoted in Look as saying that Don was "a classic runner. He catches passes well. He can block—even pass."

The coach, who doesn't part with words of praise easily, said that McCauley was the best running back in the country. "That includes the Worsters and the Brockingtons," Dooley declared.

However, the UPI All-America team came out Tuesday and relegated McCauley to second-team status, along with running backs Joe Moore of Missouri and Mike Adame of Northwestern.

Ed Marinaro of Cornell was the first Ivy Leaguer in 19 years to be named All-American by UPI. Marinaro led the country with an average of 153 yards per game. Other first-team runners were Worster and Ohio State's John Brockington.

"Lunch. Ecchh."

That was yesterday. But today—oh today! —there's an end to that noontime dilemma of where to eat your cheeseburger.

RJ's of Chapel Hill is a little more than cheeseburgers. RJ's is a fresh Mayport Salad. Sauerbraten. Chunk African Lobster. An open face hot roast beef sandwich. A lavish smorgasbord. Free floating Nogushi lamps. An imported brew. The Volkskeller's menu.

RJ's is a beautifully different place to eat.
