

Aldermen defer action

DU house uncertain

by Norman Black
Staff Writer

The Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen referred Monday a Delta Upsilon fraternity request for a special use permit to the town planning board and appearance commission.

The fraternity is seeking the permit to construct a new house on the site of its present quarters at the corner of Rosemary and Hillsborough Streets.

The action was taken during a public hearing held Monday night to consider three requests for special use permits.

The aldermen also referred to the planning board a request for a drive-in bank window on the first deck of the North Carolina National Bank three-story parking structure.

But the Aldermen unanimously rejected Humble Oil Company's request for a new service station on the south side of West Franklin Street between Graham Street and Merritt Mill Road.

The aldermen heard 11 people, most of whom were members of the Chapel Hill Historical Society, speak against the Delta Upsilon fraternity plan to replace four houses with one modern structure.

The opponents of the project were concerned because the fraternity had planned to raze the former home of W.M. Dey, who taught romance languages at UNC and lived there for 50 years.

The house is believed to have been built between 1870 and 1875.

The fraternity's architect, John Erwin Ramsey of Salisbury, said he would like to preserve the Dey house but was unable to do so because of town parking lot requirements.

The fraternity now operates under a parking requirement for 25 spaces but would have to maintain an additional 20 spaces if the proposed project was approved.

The aldermen referred the question to the planning board and community appearance commission with the understanding they will consider relaxing the parking requirements if the Dey house is preserved and incorporated in the new design.

The appearance commission had previously voted against the project, saying it was not in harmony with the character of the surrounding development.

The fraternity maintains they need more space, the four frame houses it now occupies are unsafe and difficult to maintain, and two other fraternities and five sororities are within 500 feet of their property.

A University official said there would be no possibility of relocating the fraternity on Finley Golf Course Road, as five other fraternities have done.

In rejecting Humble Oil Company's request for a permit, the aldermen claimed the traffic generated would "endanger public safety."

The project was turned down last spring by the Chapel Hill Board of Adjustments.

The aldermen noted there are already nine stations in the central business district and seven or eight in Carrboro. The town may adopt this fall a zoning proposal that would prohibit building any further service stations in the business district.

The request for a drive-in bank window by Sam Longiotti, president of branch buildings and developer of the NCNB plaza, was referred to the planning board in order to obtain their recommendations.

In other business, the aldermen also passed an ordinance that prohibits automobiles from stopping or standing on certain sections of North Columbia Street.

The ordinance, recommended by the Chapel Hill Street Committee, is expected to curb hitch-hiking in this area. Several accidents have occurred recently as a result of cars stopping to pick up hitch-hikers.

The aldermen also approved the acquisition of nine new automobiles to be used by the town police and fire departments. Ford Motor Company was the low bidder.

Postmaster convicted

A former Carrboro postmaster, charged with embezzling more than $44,000 in federal postal funds, pleaded guilty Monday in U.S. Middle District Court in Durham.

James Perry was suspended from his duties after being indicted on charges of embezzling $44,189.84 in post office funds between August 23, 1968 and June 15, 1971.

He was also charged with attempting to cover the alleged thefts by altering postal records.

Perry, 41, told Judge Eugene Gordon Monday he was "in fact guilty" of the charges and waived his right to trial by jury.

The court is expected to return a verdict later this week.

The court advised Perry he could be fined up to the amount taken and given 10 years in prison or both for embezzling the money.

He could be fined $10,000 and given five years in prison or both for attempting to cover the alleged thefts, the court said.

Group prepares sex counseling

by Pam Phillips
Staff Writer

UNC will have the first human sexuality counseling service on any U.S. college campus when the service goes into operation October 15, a student organizer said Tuesday.

Robert R. Wilson, chairman of the Human Sexuality Committee which will sponsor the service, said, "We hope the program will be a sort of listening ear for the students."

"It will be a place where they can call up and talk things out," he added.

Switchboard, a crisis call center, and the Student Health Service will train the 18 counselors who will work with the service.

They will operate the service out of Suite C of the Student Union from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m. five days a week.

Students will be able to call 933-5505 or come by the office where two counselors will always be on duty. At least one of the counselors will be female, and a room will be available for private conference.

Questions too technical for the service's files will be referred to Operation Switchboard or other reference sources, Wilson said.

The service is funded by Student Legislature which appropriated $220 last Thursday for the service's expenses which include $100 for a phone, $50 for counselor training and the remainder for materials, Wilson said.

Another role of the Human Sexuality Committee is the administration of Health Education 33, Topics in Human Sexuality. They will procure lecturers and solicit funding for the course.

Presently $995 has been collected for the course, including $250 from the School of Nursing, $250 from the Department of Health Education, $300 from the School of Public Health and $195 from the Student Health Service.

The committee also plans to bring guest speakers to the campus on sex-related topics.

The committee plans to lend visual aids such as films, slides and pamphlets to residence colleges and other residence units free of charge for health education programs.

Bill Griffin, a committee member, is working with the RTVMP department to produce a 30-minute film on the University Health Service and the sexual problems faced by UNC students.

Also the committee, working with ECOS, plans to distribute the booklet, "Elephants and Butterflies...and Contraceptives," in northeastern college campuses' bookstores.

"The basic motive of the committee is to promote human sexuality as the characteristic of every individual on the face of the earth," Wilson said.

Committee members include Griffin, Lana Starnes and Wilson, all undergraduates at the university.

Working with the committee is a board of directors composed of various health and social officials. Their purpose is to provide professional advice and counseling and critical evaluation of programs.

The board of directors will also work to establish permanence beyond the current committee's duration of undergraduates.

Appeal set of ruling on juries

by United Press International

WINSTON-SALEM, — Forsyth county solicitor Frank Yeager Tuesday said he would appeal to the state supreme court a criminal judge's ruling that the county's master jury list was unrepresentative of the population.

Judge James M. Long Monday threw out indictments against three black panther party members on grounds the list from which the jury was selected did not include a representative number of blacks of persons 18 to 21 years old.

Defense lawyers for the black panthers, who were charged in connection with the theft of a meat truck, produced figures to show less than 20 percent of the master jury list was nonwhite while the county had a 22.3 percent nonwhite population.

Campus activities calendar

There will be an organizational meeting of the Board of Academic Lieutenant Governors Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in room 215 of the Student Union. All academic lt. governors should attend.

JOBS ABROAD: Anyone interested in working abroad next summer is invited to come to the AIESEC meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Union. AIESEC is an international student-run job exchange program that offers members a chance to work and live in foreign countries. Anyone is eligible, especially those who have had at least one year of economics or business courses.

The steering committee of the Chapel Hill chapter, North Carolina Civil Liberties Union announces a general membership meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Community Church on Purefoy Road. All persons interested in joining the ACLU may either attend the meeting or write Chapel Hill Chapter, North Carolina Civil Liberties Union, P.O. Box 2327, Chapel Hill, N.C.

The SLDC will hold a meeting for all participants in the three weekend retreats in basic human understanding tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Union.

Intensive language courses will be offered by the International Student Center this fall. No minimal proficiency required for the weekly evening conversation sessions lasting an hour. Courses will be offered in French, Spanish, German, and Portuguese. If interested, please sign up in the program office of the ISC in Carr Dorm.

Campus Crusade for Christ will sponsor a "Love-In" at 9 p.m. Thursday in the Kenan Lounge.

The John L. Parker Society of International Law will sponsor a talk by Robert J. White, a vice-president of Wachovia Bank, on "An Overview of International Banking: Trade and Business Opportunities," Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Kenan court room of the law building. All who are interested may attend.

DRAFT COUNSELING: New temporary office hours are Wednesday, 3-5 p.m.; Monday and Thursday, 3-5 p.m. and 7-9 p.m.

See Lawrence Ferlinghetti meet Allen Ginsburg... in a film about both poets, "Dream of Wild Horses," be carried far, far away from the here and now. Both films will be shown at 9 and 10 p.m. tonight at the Wesley Foundation coffee shop.

STATE AFFAIRS COMMITTEE MEETING tonight at 9 o'clock in the Union.

All persons interested in working for the publicity committee of the Carolina Symposium are invited to attend a meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. in Suite A of the Union.

Those interested in doing volunteer work at the Community School for People Under Six please sign up at the AWS office in Suite C.

The Sierra Club will hold an organizational meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at Dreyfus Hall, Research Triangle Institute, to plan local outings, and to discuss conservation problems. All interested people are welcome. For more information call Ron Chandross, 967-1758, or Jerome Kohl, 833-2972.

North Carolina Veterans for Peace will hold an organizational and planning meeting in the Union Thursday at 2 p.m. All ex-servicemen are asked to attend. Office hours in Suite C, room 251 of the Union are 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

All graduate student departmental budgets submitted on or before Sept. 16, have been released for distribution. Treasurers of these departments should come by 254C, Carolina Union, if there are expenditures to be made.

All freshmen interested in joining the Freshman Council should write to: Freshman Council, c/o Joe Stallings, Box 47, Carolina Union, Chapel Hill.

Wake County Schools of Raleigh have scheduled interviews for Oct. 7, from 1:30 to 5 p.m. If you wish to take advantage of this opportunity, sign up for an interview time in Room 103, Teacher Placement Bureau, Peabody Hall.

Computation Center short course will be held today at 3 p.m. in Room 228, Phillips Hall. The topic is "Introductory Fortran."

YOU SHOULD BE GRATEFUL TO BE ALIVE

because today's the day you can hear —

The New Grateful GRATEFUL DEAD

AT THE HAPPY TO-HAVE-IT FIRST

456 WEST FRANKLIN

THEIR BRAND NEW LIVE 2 lp SET

10.00 list

NOW ONLY

6⁷³

or $.10 cheaper than any price Ralph advertises.

Taken from their Historic Manhattan Center Dance Marathons, Winterland Shows, and Fillmore East Concerts — Like Bill Graham says: "The Grateful Dead is an environment"

On Warner Records

and at Record & Tape Center

WOULD YOU BELIEVE A DAILY DOUBLE?

Well Folks — It's One of Those Days

Those Good People at

Finally Released It and the Delirious

CAT STEVENS Teaser and the Firecat

(Who Else?) has it for Your PERUSAL and PLEASURE and for the Mere Sum of only 5.98 list

3⁹⁹ (A Pittance Actually)

456 West Franklin

"The Store that Always Cheapens Itself on Ralph's Sales"

You May Hold It More Permanently

The Chapel Hill Library will sponsor a tea today at 4 p.m. in the Library.

FOUND: One wallet, Virginia driver's license to Lawrence Dickenson and other personal cards. Call 933-1605 to claim it.

FOUND: Spalding tennis racket, in street below chase. Call 933-8181 to identify and claim.

LOST: Pair of horn-rimmed glasses in leather case. Contact Henry Farber, 311 Lewis, 933-1566.

LOST: Beagle puppy, male, 3 months old. Answers to "Hancha." If found, call 967-2398. Reward.

LOST: Full grown brown and white collie, male, with markings like Lassie. Has owner's name and number on collar. If found, please call 967-6368, Dr. C.P. Vincent.

LOST: Small female Irish Setter, nine months old, with white star on chest. Answers to "Heather." Call 967-4955. $10 reward.

LOST: Brown wallet. Need ID's. Call Betty Laurent, 942-4944. Reward.

LOST: Raleigh "Carlton" bicycle taken from Morrison bike rack during weekend. Orange with short chrome fenders, Hurlet derailleurs. Call 933-4282. Reward $50, no questions asked.

LOST: Wallet at the game, containing important ID's. Call Ron Hankins, 933-3861.

Will the girl who "accidentally" appropriated Jamie Sims' books, watch and notes please return same.

Notice to wallet thief: A couple has approached me and identified the wallet snatcher who financially crippled me late Saturday night in Hectors. The three of us have decided to give you until 5 p.m. Thursday to return the wallet and its contents to me. If you fail to act, charges will be pressed. Terry Bynum, Route 3, Box 666, Chapel Hill, 968-5398.