

News in brief

Board to debate leash law

A dog leash law for the downtown business district will be considered by the Chapel Hill Board of Aldermen at its meeting at 4 p.m. today in the Municipal Building.

The leash law was recommended by Dog Warden Gus Shoffner two weeks ago. The law would require all dogs in the business area to be on a leash. Any dog not on a leash would be subject to pickup and impoundment.

Shoffner also requested in his proposal that pound fees be doubled and the holding time for impounded dogs be decreased; that he be allowed to hold an annual rabies clinic at the pound; that dog tag costs be increased and a preferential fee be given spayed or neutered dogs; and that the number of dogs per household be limited.

Other items on the agenda include:
 • discussion on a proposed cable television ordinance;
 • consideration of amendments to the noise ordinance;
 • presentation by the town recreation department for a Halloween Street Fair Oct. 28 and 29.

Fraternity rush to begin tonight

Formal fall rush for fraternities will begin tonight with open houses in all fraternities.

The houses will be open tonight from 7 to 10 p.m.; Tuesday from 7 to 10 p.m.; and Wednesday, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Fall rush is open to all upperclassmen and freshmen who have spent more than a semester in residence at the University, excluding summer school. No grade point average is imposed by Interfraternity Council, but individual houses may have standards.

Informal rush has been going on since fall semester began. Some houses have already extended bids. Upperclassmen may accept a bid at any time during the year, but freshmen must wait until second semester.

Houses have already extended invitations to potential rushees, but rushees may visit any house they wish without an invitation.

Mitchener voted board chairman

The student Publications Board, in its first meeting of the year Friday, approved as its chairman senior Joe Mitchener, former editor of the Yackety Yack.

In addition, the board approved The Daily Tar Heel's requests to eliminate Saturday issues (except when home football games are scheduled) and to begin publication of a monthly magazine supplement. The proposed billing system of the DTH was also approved.

George Frye, current station manager of campus radio station WCAR, announced his resignation at the meeting. The board approved his request and will soon begin to find a student who will replace Frye at WCAR's head post.

In other business, the board discussed student contracts with the Yackety Yack.

Mitchiner announced that the next meeting of the Publications Board will be Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

Carolina DU's most outstanding

The UNC chapter of Delta Upsilon fraternity received the Sweepstakes Award as the most outstanding chapter in its international convention in Indianapolis this summer.

The campus DU received the award for its second consecutive year.

Judging for the award was based on excellence in membership, chapter relations, scholarship, finances and administration.

DU has also been recognized on campus by winning the R.B. House Award for the most outstanding fraternity on campus for the past two years.

Job interview schedules listed

Starting today and continuing through spring semester, the Daily Tar Heel will print a list of recruiters representing industry, government, colleges and universities and other organizations scheduled to hold job interviews on campus. The list will be provided by J.M. Galloway of the UNC Placement Service.

Students must be registered in order to participate in job interviews with employers recruiting at the Placement Service. Registration is not required for conferences with graduate school representatives. Students should visit the placement office, 211 Gardner Hall, for more information.

The following interviews are scheduled during Oct. 9-20: First National Bank of Miami; Amoco Production Company; Vanderbilt University School of Law; Coast Guard; The Upjohn Pharmaceutical Co.; Sears, Roebuck and Company;

Haskins & Sells; Burroughs Wellcome; Ernst & Ernst; J.C. Penney; Matthews & Hall, CPA's; Northwestern University Graduate School of Management; Wake Forest University Graduate School of Management; Washington University Graduate School of Business; Armstrong Cork Company; Celanese Corporation; Chesebrough-Pond's, Inc.; U.S. General Accounting Office; Indiana University School of Law.

SG panel slates interviews today

Interviews for the Internal Affairs staff of Student Government will be held today from 1 to 3 p.m. and Tuesday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Suite C of the Student Union.

Internal Affairs works as the coordinating office within Student Government as well as with special projects. Currently, the staff is working to bring various political candidates to UNC.

Wachovia asks Franklin office

Wachovia Bank and Trust has filed an application with the U.S. Comptroller of the Currency to establish a banking office in downtown Chapel Hill.

The announcement was made Friday by Charles H. Wartman, vice president and city executive of the bank's Chapel Hill offices.

The new office would be located at 165 E. Franklin St., in the space now occupied by Electric Construction Co.

Wartman said the bank plans a modern office building and large scale renovation of the area.

The new bank, if approved, would be Wachovia's second in Chapel Hill. The first office opened on Estes Drive, near the site of University Mall, in August, 1971.

Intimate to host Phillips Russell

Phillips Russell, author of "These Old Stone Walls," a history of the old days in Chapel Hill, will be at the Intimate Bookshop on Franklin Street at 3:30 p.m. today.

A professor emeritus at UNC, 88-year old Russell taught creative writing in the School of Journalism.

Counseling committee asks input

Students who have received any type of counseling or guidance from the University will have the chance to air their gripes or praise Tuesday afternoon.

The open forum begins at 3 p.m. in the Frank Porter Graham lounge of the Student Union.

It is sponsored by one of eleven University subcommittees which will participate in the self-study program required for reaccreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities.

According to Susan Zimmerman, student representative on the guidance and counseling subcommittee, "the purpose of the forum is to learn what the students' needs are."

The committee wants praise of the counseling services as well as complaints about it.

Representatives of the Human Sexuality program, Switchboard, Student Health Services, and the Residence counseling team will be present at Tuesday's meeting.

Students who wish to tell their experiences with University counseling, but are unable to attend the open forum, can write to either Eckerman, 122 Davie Hall, or Zimmermann, 804 Woodland Ave.

Paper offering reward

United Press International

RALEIGH — The News and Observer Publishing Company Sunday announced it was offering a $5,000 reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the killer or killers of a local newswoman and a real estate salesman.

The slayings of Tricia Grimes, 24, and Peter Williams Jr., 25, in a picnic area near the Neuse River east of here has left authorities lacking even a motive.

Frank Daniel Jr., president of the publishing company, made the reward offer in a letter to be delivered to the Wake County Sheriff's Department Monday.

When the bodies were found Saturday, Williams had $30 in his wallet, and both he and Miss Grimes were still wearing wristwatches, ruling out robbery in the killing, according to authorities.

Nor had Miss Grimes, women's editor of the Raleigh Times, been sexually attacked, said county coroner M.W. Bennett. Both bodies were fully clothed when discovered.

There was speculation, however, that Miss Grimes may have known the killer or killers. One of the four bullets that struck her left powder burns, indicating a shot fired at close range.

Williams was shot three times, making a total of seven shots. Since a .38 caliber pistol, the weapon believed used, carries only six bullets, the killer apparently either reloaded or used two revolvers.

Officers were trying to confirm a report that a car with a young man and a young woman in it was seen heading toward the area, known as "Raleigh Beach," and that the man was seen leaving the area alone and returning to it alone.

Miss Grimes, a Raleigh Times employee for about two years, had been named women's editor less than a year ago.

Friends said she and Williams, a former Navy lieutenant who worked for his father's real estate company, had been dating for some time.
