News in brief

APO to sponsor spring book co-op

Alpha Phi Omega (APO) service fraternity will again sponsor the annual book co-op during the beginning of the spring semester.

The purpose of the co-op sale is to allow students to sell their used textbooks at prices they designate, with 10 percent of the profits going to the APO scholarship program and Foreign Student Emergency Fund.

Beginning on December 14 and 15 and continuing from December 18 to 20, used textbooks will be taken up by APO fraternity members from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the South Lounge meeting room of the Student Union. At that time, students will be given a receipt for their books and a record of the prices that they set on the books.

Sale of the textbooks will take place in the Great Hall of the Student Union from January 9 to 15, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Late textbooks will also be accepted for sale on January 9 and 10.

Payment will begin on January 15, possibly being handled through the mail by check, according to fraternity member Tom Seitz. In the event some textbooks are not sold at the set prices, students may return to pick them up within 30 days of the sale at the APO office in the basement of Smith Hall.

In describing the annual program, Seitz stated, "We're not buying the books. They are on consignment only. Only 10 percent of the profits will go to the APO projects."

Seitz added that the textbook co-op is a national service project of the APO organization.

Tax time again

Students who consider Chapel Hill their permanent home should list their property for city and county taxes at the Carrboro Town Hall between January 2 and January 30. Persons who are already on the tax books will receive forms and may list their taxes by mail for the first time this year.

The tax books will probably be open from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8:30 a.m. until noon on Saturday, according to Sam Gattis, Orange County tax collector.

If taxes are not listed by the January 30 deadline, a late fee of 10 percent of the total listing will be charged, Dave Roberts, Chapel Hill tax collector, said.

If a student is registered to vote in Orange County and if he considers it his home, he should be compelled to list taxes here, Roberts said. However, if a student is registered to vote in another town and if his parents list his personal property with their own taxes, he is not under obligation to list taxes in Chapel Hill, the official explained.

Persons who listed taxes in Orange County last year must pay their tax bills before January 1, to avoid a penalty. Anyone who listed taxes in Orange County last year and who has not received a bill for his taxes should contact the tax collector's office.

Library hours

The following is the Christmas holiday schedule for the Wilson Library and the Undergraduate Library, effective Thursday, December 21 through Wednesday, January 10:

The libraries will be closed from Saturday, December 23 to Tuesday, December 26; Sunday, December 31; Monday, January 1; and Sunday, January 7.

All weekdays the libraries are open, their hours will be from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

On the Saturdays the libraries are open, their hours will be 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. The libraries will be closed all Sundays during the holiday.

Officials rebuked

Dean of Student Affairs Donald Boulton, Physical Plant and the Campus Police Department all came under fire Tuesday night at the meeting of James Residence College Senate.

Legislation was passed asking Dean Boulton to approve a paint policy before the end of the semester. The legislation charged that "a policy allowing the students to paint their rooms appears to have no drawbacks that have not been hurdled and the delay has apparently been unwarranted."

A second bill reprimanded Physical Plant for their failure to keep the parking space lines painted and the police, for not giving tickets and towing cars.

A third bill allocated $50 from the academic budget to the Junior Service League for their Christmas programs for the underprivileged.

Freshman killed

Wade Archibald Taylor III of 1518 Granville West died in a two car accident Friday enroute to his home in Elizabethtown, N.C. Taylor was a freshman at UNC.

Survivors are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wade A. Taylor, Jr., of Elizabethtown.
