LBJ lies in state at capitol

The body of Lyndon Baines Johnson was returned to Washington for the final time today, for a slow procession through the streets of the city he once dominated as the nation's 36th President.

President Nixon, Johnson's widow and family were leading the mourners, with a caisson drawn by six white horses—followed by a single, riderless horse.

The procession started from near the White House and drew his flag-draped coffin up Constitution Avenue to the cadence of muffled drums.

Fighting increases in Vietnam

Communist ground attacks increased in South Vietnam Wednesday despite announcement of a cease-fire agreement.

High-ranking U.S. military sources said Americans would continue war operations in support of the South Vietnamese right up to the cease-fire Sunday.

The South Vietnamese command said its troops also would continue to carry out operations.

South Vietnamese military sources said it was too early to say whether the 116 Communist attacks reported Wednesday was the beginning of the expected Communist offensive to gain ground just before the cease-fire.

Charlotte to celebrate peace

Charlotte city officials Wednesday announced plans for a Vietnam cease-fire celebration to be held on the steps of City Hall Sunday and expressed hopes that evangelist Billy Graham would attend.

"He has expressed interest," a spokesman in the city public relations office said, noting that Graham was expected to be in his native Charlotte anyway Sunday for dedication of a marker at the site of his childhood home.

$800,000 with the actual budget of $275,000 and with their average ideal budget of $704,000.

For example, the group expressed willingness to pay 5.1 per cent of their ideal budget, or $36,000, just for general administration of the SG executive branch.

They thought that, at present, 9.2 per cent of the budget is used for this. Since they also thought they paid an activities fee of $50, this means they felt that almost $80,000 went to support the general administration each year.

The actual figures are 3.1 per cent of the budget, or $8,379. The group thought it paid 10 times as much, and was willing to pay over four times this much.

The group was willing to pay $78,500 to the DTH. They thought that it got around $110,000, and the actual figure is $54,800.

They thought that the Union got only 16 per cent of the budget, and were willing to give it 20 per cent. The actual figure is 33 per cent.

They thought that the Graduate and Professional Student Federation got 2.3 per cent of the budget, and were willing to give it 1.9 per cent. The actual figure is 6.6 per cent.

The entire legislative branch of SG, consisting of Student Legislature and its subsidiaries, was willed 6.1 per cent of the ideal budget. They thought it got nine per cent and it actually gets 0.4 per cent.

For the Residence Unit Grant and Loan Fund, the group was willing to contribute $15,700 or 2.2 per cent of their ideal budget. They thought it got 1.8 per cent of their estimated budget, or $17,000. It gets 3.7 per cent of the actual budget, or $10,000.

They were willing to give the Elections Board eight times what it gets; they thought it got 15 times what it gets—$1,050. That 1.1 per cent in the desired budget, 1.9 per cent in the estimated budget and 0.4 per cent of the actual budget.

Are you confused? If so, you are apparently not different in that respect from most students.

Student body vice president Fred Davenport was one of the members of the class which answered the survey. His answers were better than most. "But," said Davenport, "there are a lot of politicians who are almost strangers to the financial processes of SG, and the students sometimes seem almost totally in the dark."

"When a spending bill comes before the Finance Committee," said student body treasurer Wayne Thomas, "two main considerations should influence their decision—precedent, and common sense."

"But sometimes there is no precedent and sometimes there is some special interest involved. This year, for example, SL decided to spend into its surplus. This brought on hordes of requests for money, and when you give one worthy cause surplus money, it's hard to turn down another one a week later."

SALT II talks slated

Jerome H. Kahan of the Brookings Institution will discuss "SALT I and Beyond: The Coming Issues of Arms Control" at 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 29 in 100 Hamilton Hall.

His talk is being sponsored by UNC's Curriculum in Peace, War and Defense.

Kahan joined the foreign policy studies staff at Brookings Institution in 1969. He is director of the Strategic Arms Policy Study Group, co-sponsored by the Brookings Institution and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and is writing a book on strategic forces and United States foreign policy.

His other activities include serving as a consultant on arms control matters to the RAND Corporation and lecturing in international relations at the Georgetown School of Foreign Service.

In 1968, Kahan was assigned to the Department of Defense, International Security Affairs, as a member of the policy planning and arms control staff under a one-year exchange program.

During that time, he was principle action officer for strategic policy problems, including the U.S. position on strategic arms limitations, national strategy objectives and major weapons systems decisions, and staff member on National Security Council Interagency Working Groups dealing with strategic issues.

The I don't remember reader.

Years of practice have made you the inefficient reader you are today!

Which one are you?

- The "skimmer"? Able to read tall books in a single night, while retaining little or nothing?
- The "lazy" reader? Rip Van Winkle with a book on his stomach... a page and a half, and you're out for the night.
- The "word-at-a-time" reader? Capable of reading a single article over a long weekend.
- The "I don't remember" reader? You've read 'em all, and remember nothing!

Face it... nobody's perfect. In fact, you've probably gone through life reading, without learning how.

There's a big difference between reading dynamically and just reading.

Most people read between 100 and 300 words a minute, while you are capable of reading and comprehending up to 2,000 or more.

Give us 2½ hours a week for 8 weeks and we'll guarantee to triple your reading efficiency, both speed and comprehension, or refund your tuition in full!

We've already taught over a half million people just like you to read dynamically. So, whether you've a great deal of reading to do or just want to get more enjoyment out of your reading, we can help you achieve your goal.

Attend a free mini-lesson, and see the difference between reading and reading dynamically.
