Watergate testimony ends

The prosecution and defense wound up their testimony in the Watergate trial Monday in Washington and the political espionage case against the two remaining defendants will go to the jury today.

Attorneys for James W. McCord Jr. and G. Gordon Liddy, both former members of President Nixon's re-election campaign staff, took just two hours to present their witnesses Monday morning.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, who earlier in the trial accepted guilty pleas by five others accused in the break-in at Democratic national headquarters here last June, said he would charge the jury of eight men and four women today.

Nixon's budget $268 billion

President Nixon Monday proposed a $268.7 billion budget and at least a two-year moratorium on tax increases.

He challenged Congress to stay within those limits or take full blame for inflation and higher taxation.

Nixon's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would slash the annual federal deficit by nearly half, to $12.7 billion—mostly by cutting back or abolishing much of a decade of Democratic social welfare programs declared to be costly failures.

'U.S. is adhering to treaty'

The White House said Monday the United States is strictly adhering to the Vietnam cease-fire and expects the same from the other signatories.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen at Key Biscayne that the administration is not surprised that fighting is still going on in Vietnam. "We are dealing with a number of units in a very large country that are in the process of standing down. We, of course, have stood down totally. We expect the agreement to be adhered to," Ziegler spoke at a news briefing as Nixon was winding up a long weekend in Florida and the Bahamas and preparing to return to Washington.

'Other war' rages in Laos

Despite the cease-fire in Vietnam, the "other" war—the one often called the "secret" war by observers—raged on Monday in Laos. And Americans continued to play a major part in it.

On Sunday, American war-planes flew 100 to 120 bombing missions in Laos after the cease-fire in Vietnam went into effect.

The Vietnam cease-fire agreement provides for a halt to foreign military activity in both Laos and Cambodia and a withdrawal of foreign troops. But it does not say when. Nor does it make a provision for a cease-fire.

Consequently, the war continues for two battalions of Thai soldiers, for CIA-sponsored irregular troops and Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas who fought Monday near an important road junction near Mounk Kassy.

Drafty dreams

Perhaps this fellow is dreaming about what the future will be like without having to worry about what he will have to do if he loses his 25, or if Uncle Sam draws his lottery number.

Government internships offered

Looking for an interesting and lucrative summer job?

Students can earn $100 weekly and three semester hours of college credit as well if they can secure one of the 25 State Government Internships.

Residents of North Carolina who are currently enrolled in a college or university who will have completed at least three years of college by June, 1973, are eligible for the program.

Student interns will work for 11 weeks with top agency personnel. The internship entails a 40-hour week and a concentrated seminar series.

Applications and supporting materials must be received by the Institute of Government at UNC in Chapel Hill by Feb. 1.

They may be secured from college placement offices, local offices of the Employment Security Commission, the N.C. State Personnel and the Institute of Government in Chapel Hill. Applicants will be notified of their acceptance or rejection by March.

Two more days

Today and tomorrow are the last days to list for personal property tax in Orange County without a 10 per cent penalty.

Persons may list personal property between 9 a.m. and 5 a.m. at the Carrboro Town Hall or during the same hours at the courthouse in Hillsborough.

State law requires counties to tax personal property (books, clothes, etc.) as well as property (houses and land).

All residents of the county are required to register.

Socialist speaker

Gerard Chaliand, socialist author and political analyst, will lecture on "The Significance of Amical Cabral and Guinea Bissau in the Struggle for African Liberation," at 3:30 p.m. today in 100 Hamilton Hall.

Amical Cabral was a prominent leader of the African nationalist movement in the non-liberated territories until his assassination on Jan. 20.

Cabral founded the African Independence Party of Guinea and the Cape Verde Islands (PAIGC) in the mid 1950's. Elections were held by PAIGC in the fall of 1972 and it was expected, until his death last week, that Cabral would seek international recognition for the provisional government of Guinea Bissau.

Gerard Chaliand has published numerous studies of liberation movements in Africa and Asia. He was editor-in-chief of the Revolution Africaine in 1963.

Local 'angels'

Is Chapel Hill really the southern part of heaven? If the presence of angels is any indication, it must be true.

Mrs. Ada Edwards, one of Chapel Hill's original "flower ladies," was burned out of her home two weeks ago.

Since that time, a drive sponsored by Chief Everette Lloyd of the Chapel Hill Fire Department and the Carrboro Red Cross has collected over $1,400 toward the purchase of a second-hand mobile

Black chaplain selected

Preston C. Jones, 31, from Raeford, N.C., was recently named UNC's interdenominational chaplain to black students by the Foundation for Black Campus Ministry, a local board which works to alleviate racial tension on campus.

The Rev. Jones sees his role to be both counselor and administrator.

"I hope to provide some kind of guidance for black students in regard to helping them to gain perspective out of their experiences and to realize the full potential of their worth," the Rev. Jones said.

His office is temporarily located in room 201 of the Y building. Office hours are from 9 to 5 Monday through Friday. The telephone number is 933-7535.

home for Mrs. Edwards.

Contributions can be taken to the Chapel Hill Fire Department or the Carrboro Red Cross at 211 W. Main St. in Carrboro. Checks should be made out to the Ada Edwards Fund.

Health careers

Mayor Howard Lee will speak on "Service and Satisfaction in Health Careers" at a Health Career Orientation Workshop for minority and disadvantaged students at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the Great Hall of the Student Union.

The workshop is sponsored by the UNC Health Careers Organization.

Students from UNC, North Carolina Central University, local high schools and other area colleges are invited to attend. Representatives from schools of medicine, pharmacy, dentistry, nursing, public health and allied health will be available for conferences.

DTH in error

The time for the Meet the Candidates session to be held Wednesday in Great Hall was printed incorrectly as 8 p.m. The correct time for the meeting, sponsored by the Freshman Council, is 4 p.m.

Guidance Center moving

Students seeking academic and career counseling will no longer be referred to 013 Peabody Hall. The Guidance and Testing Center is moving to Nash Hall on Pittsboro Street across from the Carolina Inn. Offices will be closed February 2-12 to facilitate the move.

June Allcott, librarian at the Educational Occupational Information Library, expressed concern that students are not aware of the services available at the center. She explained one important objective of the Guidance and Testing Center is to provide ideas to uncertain students trying to formulate plans for their educational or occupational future.

Students can find information suited for their specific needs in the numerous books, files and catalogues contained in the Guidance and Testing Center's library. Special vocational counselors are also available for the students' aid.

If after talking with the counselors, the student feels the need to compare himself with others, he may sign up for tests administered for that purpose.

The center has information regarding various educational programs and degrees as well as types of technical institutes and community colleges. Allcott emphasized that guidance focuses on the Chapel Hill area but if the campus doesn't have what a student needs, information on alternative choices is available.

The center is also responsible for distributing applications for such tests as the graduate records exams and medical school and law school admittance tests.

The purpose of the center is not to list possible job openings but rather to help the student organize his thinking. Students interested in jobs are referred to the Placement Service in 211 Gardner.

Office hours for the Guidance and Testing Center are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The number to call to set up an appointment with a counselor is 933-2175.
