Fencers victorious in three tries

by Elliott Warnock
Sports Writer

In a span of less than 24 hours, the North Carolina fencing team added three victories to their record to up it to ten wins and two losses.

The Tar Heels' only defeats came at the hands of national powers Illinois and the Naval Academy.

Friday night, the Heels hosted tough ACC foe Maryland, then Saturday morning traveled to Boone to fence the Catamounts of Appalachian State and the Tennessee Volunteers.

The Terrapins of Maryland proved to be more tenacious than expected as Carolina edged past, 15-12.

In the first round, the Tar Heels appeared to be pulling far away as they took a 7-2 lead, then head coach Ron Miller began to substitute freely into the lineup allowing the Terps to pull as close as 13-10 by the third period.

Carolina won only three of the nine individual bouts in the last round but it proved to be enough as the Heels clinched the meet in the 24th bout.

Seven of the duels went to 5-4 decision, the Heels winning only two.

In total team scoring for sabre, foil and epee, Carolina won all three, 5-4.

Maryland head coach John Cox spent much of the evening walking up and down the floor disputing various rules and calls by the officials.

After the meet, when asked what his views of the match were he said they were "nothing printable."

He continued, "I honestly think we should have won two or three more bouts in the first round. I'll just have to say there was some bad directing."

Miller noted that the Carolina substitutions were the primary reasons for the closeness of the match.

"I think that our fencing in the first round was up to our best potential of the year," commented Miller. "But I was disappointed with the overall meet. We were overconfident and then let down."

The Tar Heels proved to be in total control of their confidence Saturday morning as they trounced Appalachian 20-7, then went on to beat the Volunteers 19-8.

To prove it, Miller used two starting epee men Bob Peterson and Bill Shipman in foil while switching foilsmen Walter Futch and Jim Scott to epee. He also used epee man Dave Lynn in sabre.

"Jim Krause and Lynn had really good weekends overall," said Miller, "both were undefeated. It was also nice to see Bill Shipman back in good form with his three wins over Maryland. I was especially pleased with Rob Rivers and his two victories over Carter, Maryland's number one fencer."

The Tar Heels will have to fence as well if not better to beat the ever-improving Blue Devils of Duke when the two teams face off Tuesday in Carmichael Auditorium. Duke defeated both Appalachian and Tennessee on last Friday and Saturday. The 22-5 win over ASU and the 23-4 victory against the Volunteers upped the Dukes' record to 12 wins and only one loss.

The match is the season finale for both the Tar Heels and the Blue Devils whose 7-4 overall and 3-2 conference record were good enough to earn them a third place finish in the ACC.

"Duke is really going to be tough," stated Miller. "This is the only match with which I will say I am conservatively optimistic. They have better depth than us in two weapons but I think the experience of our fencers will begin to show and take its toll."

Miller made note of the importance of the crowd size and reaction during fencing meets. "The crowd at the Maryland meet was great; they really helped a lot. It was five times as big as the crowd in College Park last year. That really surprised the Maryland fencers."

Led by all-ACC fencer Ed Pettis the Blue Devils should prove to be a formidable opponent, one for which Miller says he "should have no trouble getting the fencers up because there is so much pride at stake."

Terps squeeze by Tigers

COLLEGE PARK, Md (UPI)—Maryland let an 11-point lead slip away to Clemson Saturday but Terp forward Tom McMillen made a clutch defensive play and scored an easy basket in the final moments to preserve a 69-66 victory for the seventh-ranked Terrapins.

McMillen, who led all scorers with 24 points, made a shot by Clemson's Terrell Suit after the Tigers came to within three points with less than a minute remaining. McMillen took the ball away from Suit and seconds later took a pass alone under the basket and made it 69-64 with six seconds left.

Clemson steadily chipped away at Maryland's lead in the final 10 minutes as coach Tates Locke rotated four players at a time after running out of timeouts.

Maryland's Len Elmore and Clemson's Rick Hunt were ejected for fighting at the opening of the second half. Neither had scored a point.

Clemson coach Tates Locke denied after the game that the fight had been started deliberately. Hunt had been in the game only 23 seconds when the swinging started.

Gregg was Clemson's high scorer with 21 points. Maryland is now 17-4 while Clemson is 10-12.

THE SCANDAL OF SECRECY

John W. Gardner, Chairman
Common Cause
Former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare

One of the weird and nonsensical facts about our government — at all levels — is that much of the public's business is done in the deepest, darkest secrecy. Citizens assume that only questions of national security and some aspects of criminal justice are dealt with in secret. Little do they know! Most of the time our public officials act as though the way they conduct our business is none of our business.

In 1972 roughly one-third of the Senate Public Works Committee meetings were held in secret. The figure for the Senate Agriculture Committee was 59 percent, for the House Appropriations Committee over 90 percent. The House Ways and Means Committee, which drafts the laws governing every federal tax dollar you and I pay, is notoriously secretive. Security is so tight that even the staff assistant of a Congressman who is on the Committee can't attend the closed meetings. What are they hiding?

All sessions of congressional committees — and records of all votes taken at such sessions — should normally be open to the public. Committees should be allowed to close a meeting only for considerations of national security or invasion of personal privacy, and the procedure for closing it should be carefully protected against abuse.

In the Executive Branch, virtually everyone associated with national security acknowledges that the system of classifying documents to preserve secrecy has been badly abused — all too often for the purpose of concealing bureaucratic error. And the zeal for secrecy extends to every government agency under the control of the Executive Branch. Regulatory agencies often meet behind closed doors, omit public hearings, and suppress reports the public should see.

Of course, the secrecy involved is only secret-from-the-public. The special interest lobbyists know very well what goes on in those hush-hush meetings. Quite often they're right in there with the decision makers. The only one who has splinters in his nose from bumping against closed doors is John Q. Public.

Now there is a resolution before the Senate — sponsored by Senators Humphrey (D., Minn.) and Roth (R., Del.) (plus 11 other sponsors) which would open all Senate committee meetings. A bill (S 260) recently introduced in the Senate by Lawton Chiles of Florida and in the House (HR 4) by Dante Fascell, also of Florida, would open all Legislative and Executive Branch meetings except those dealing with national security or involving personal privacy.

Information is power, and secrecy is the most convenient means of keeping that power out of the hands of the people. What the people don't know, they can't object to.

It's time to change all that. And you can help. Write your two Senators and your Congressman. Tell them you want them to open up the system. Or join Common Cause (2100 M Street NW, Washington, D.C. 20037) and ally yourself with 200,000 other members in getting these changes made. We're going to give this nation back to its citizens. The student membership rate is $7.00. Don't just stand there!

If somebody gave a free live rock concert, you probably couldn't get in. But WQDR-FM brings your favorite artists to you. We play more of their songs than you'd ever hear at a concert. Original album cuts, too. We don't take many breaks. (There are fewer commercials on WQDR than on other stations around.) After every break, we come back. We're on 24 hours a day. Every day. And we broadcast in Quad whenever material is available. Quad recreates all the echoes, reverberations and "ambient" atmosphere of the concert hall when played on a four channel system. If you have a two channel system, we're great in stereo, too. Stay home at our rock concert. No traffic jams. No lines. No pushing. No shoving. And no charge.
