Henderson College volunteers for project

by David Eskridge
Staff Writer

The latest living-learning proposal that would combine residence and academic experiences under one living unit has been offered to the Boulton-Gaskin committee studying the concept by the Henderson Residence College.

A survey was circulated through Henderson residents last week in which it was found that more than 85 per cent of the residents favored the establishment of a living-learning experiment in their dorms.

A Henderson spokesman said that living-learning would offer "a unique opportunity for living on campus... a way to get away from the classroom idea of knowledge."

The Henderson plan also includes the following proposals:

- Anyone within the college who disagrees with the idea be given priority on rooms in any North Campus dorm after those dorm residents have chosen rooms.

- A night clerk be available to open up all three dorms after closing hours.

- Reduce freshman quota in all dorms in the college to 25 per cent. This will allow more people already on campus to move in.

- Make sure all freshman who apply to live in this area understand the living-learning concept.

- Make sure that present residents have priority on rooms regardless of whether the sign-up coincides with the deadline already established.

- R.A.'s should be interested in the program.

CGS asks repeal of pass-fail ruling

by Bob Ripley
Staff Writer

The Campus Governing Council (CGC) passed a resolution Tuesday night asking the Faculty Council to repeal the controversial ruling limiting the number of pass-fail courses a student can take to four hours per semester.

The new CGC budget was also discussed. Financial Committee Chairman Dick Baker explained that the budget could not be formally presented because several campus organizations have been late in filing their budget requests with Student Body Treasurer Wayne Thomas.

"We need to start asking some questions about the kind of organizations we want to fund," Councilman Bill Snodgrass said. "Priorities have to be set and followed."

Besides Henderson Residence College, Pi Lambda Phi fraternity and representatives from the Academic Residence Area (ARA) from the fourth floor of Morrison Dormitory have also submitted living-learning suggestions.

Donald Boulton, dean of Student Affairs, and Robert Kepner, director of Residence Life were supposed to meet with Henderson Residents Wednesday night to discuss the proposals further.

CGS asks repeal of pass-fail ruling

CGC member Ernie Patterson stated, "Those groups and clubs that will receive academic credit or who bring a great deal of recognition to the University should be supported by the University and not by student fees."

A tentative timetable was suggested for the budget preparation and hearings. As suggested, the budget would be presented April 17. Student Body President Ford Runge suggested more frequent meetings to speed up work on the budget.

"Students want action, they want to see results. This timetable may convince people that the CGC is no different than the SL," Runge said. "We need to move the budget through in record time and get on to other things. Once we lose the students' confidence, it will be rough to get it back."

Spring work-study job open

Part-time University jobs are still available for spring semester through the College Work-Study Program in the Student Aid Office.

Jobs are open to students who can show financial need. All positions pay $1.80 per hour. Positions open include library assistant in the Music Department, teacher in day care centers, mechanical assistant in the Geology Department, lab assistant in the School of Medicine, research assistants and others.

Any student who feels the need for financial aid and would like a part-time

University job should make an appointment with a counselor in 300 Vance Hall to determine eligibility. Call 933-8396 or come by Monday-Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Job recruiting

Interviews for the following organizations will be held the week of March 19-March 23 at the UNC Placement Service:

Monday, March 19: Burroughs

Wellcome Company; The Warner and Swasey Company; Barnett Banks of Florida.

Tuesday, March 20: Associates Financial Services Company, Inc.; Katherine Gibbs School; Rose's Stores, Inc.; Texas Instruments; Commerce Union Banks.

Wednesday, March 21: Texas Instruments; Commerce Union Bank; Metropolitan Life Insurance Company; Armstrong Cork Company; North Carolina Electric Corporation; Morgan Guarantee and Trust Company.

Thursday, March 22: Zapata Haynie Corporation; North Carolina National Bank (bachelor's degree candidates and MBA's); Northwestern Bank.

Friday, March 23: The Cato Corporation; F.W. Woolworth Company; Fidelity Union Life Insurance Company.

Schedules for these organizations will be available at the Placement Service desk through March 9.

Rules committee

The Rules Committee of the Campus Governing Council will meet today to determine if the student body president has a legal basis for voting in the Governing Council.

All interested students are asked to attend the meeting at 2:15 in the Frank Porter Graham Lounge of the Student Union.

Can you count?

If you have a thorough knowledge of arithmetic and a morally upright constitution, the position of student body treasurer may be for you. Interviews are being held today and Friday from 3:30 to 5 p.m. in Suite C of the Union.

No paved court

Contrary to popular belief, Physical Plant is not planning on paving the upper quad for a small parking lot or a large basketball court.

The activity going on there now is to install an underground sprinkler system. However, the very middle of the quad will be graveled and used for a recreation area.
