Nixon asks USSR help in ending Mideast war

WASHINGTON-President Nixon has personally contacted Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev in hopes of enlisting Brezhnev's support in ending the Arab-Israeli war, the White House said Monday.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger also has conferred with Ambassador Huong Chen, head of the Chinese liaison office in Washington, in an effort to mobilize broadest support for ending the Zielger said that Nixon exchanged diplomatic messages with Brezhnev after the President returned to the White House Sunday night from Key Biscayne, Fla., where his long weekend was interrupted by developments in the Middle East.

Kissinger has also been in touch with both the Egyptians and the Israelis, as well as discussing the U.S. position with the permanent members of the U.N. Security Council.

Ziegler said that Nixon did not use the U.S.-Soviet "hot line" to talk with Jordan could enter war against Israel

BEIRUT-King Hussein of Jordan, who had his fingers badly burned by intervening in the six day war against Israel in June. 1967, is playing it cool and cautiously this

But there are indications he may be considering entering the battle.

In 1967, Hussein's long-range guns shelled Israeli Jerusalem and Tel Aviv from the start of the fighting.

Hussein ordered this action, he disclosed afterwards, on the strength of pledges by the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt that the Arabs were winning.

The late Levi Eshkol, Israeli prime minister at the time, twice appealed to Hussein to stay out of the fighting. He promised Israel would not attack if he did.

Hussein ignored the pleas. Only on the third day of war did Israel launch an all-out attack against Jordan. It resulted in humiliating defeat for Hussein and the loss for Jordan of Jerusalem and the entire West Bank.

Committee to hear 'spies'

WASHINGTON-The Senate Watergate committee, preparing for a two-week recess, resumes public hearings Tuesday by summoning two alleged spies for President Nixon's campaign organization known as

"Fat Jack" and "Sedan Chair II." The committee planned to hold hearings through Thursday and then recess for two weeks along with the Senate. A spokesman said the members hoped soon to conclude their inquiry into 1972 campaign "dirty tricks" and quickly turn their attention to campaign financing.

Sam Dash, the committee's chief counsel. said the first two witnesses to be called this week would be John "Fat Jack" Buckley and Michael W. McMinoway, code-named "Sedan Chair II."

The committee counsel also refused to comment on reports that the panel had subpoenaed records of four hotels in Key Biscayne, Fla., as part of an investigation into an alleged $100,000 donation to the Nixon campaign by billionaire recluse Howard Hughes.

Former Hughes aide Robert Maheu testified in a deposition in federal court in Los Angeles that his billionaire boss arranged to give $100,000 to the Nixon campaign in 1969 and 1970 through Nixon's friend C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, the newspapers deputy foreign minister, said latest information from Damascus was that Israel had launched an attack from the sea and was being engaged by Syrian naval vessels. He charged Israel with "cowardly aggression" which started at 2 p.m. Saturday with land and air forces. "The attack was massive and of such proportions that there is no doubt that it was part of a premeditated plan," the Syrian said. He cited an attempt by Israeli planes to penetrate deep into Syria last month as
