

The Pointer Sisters

Union spring schedule

Sha Na Na returns to UNC

by Barbara Holtzman
Feature Writer

Pull out the hair grease and roll up the cigarette packs for the Sha Na Na concert on Thursday, April 25 in Carmichael Auditorium. The 10-member group recreates the Fifties in song and style with their slicked-back hair, leather jackets and cigarettes rolled up in t-shirt sleeves.

Sha Na Na achieved international prominence after their Woodstock concert and American and European tours. The group is what one critic called, "a splash-splash celebration of rock and roll."

The Pointer Sisters

Anita, Bonnie, Ruth and June, better known as the Pointer Sisters, bring their campy clothes and unique singing style to Carmichael Wednesday, March 27.

The sisters began singing together in the West Oakland, Calif., Church of God. Gospel hymns as well as the blues of B.B. King and Bessie Smith influenced them. Their songs range from hard driving soul to cool bebop and scat. They've sung with Taj Mahal and Dave Mason and have appeared on the Tonight and Flip Wilson shows.

The Mac Frampton Triumvirate

The Mac Frampton Triumvirate performs Sunday, Jan. 20 in Memorial Hall. Frampton, a Chester, S.C., native, received the Bronze medal in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition in 1969, but his music includes jazz, pop and ragtime as well as classical and semi-classical music. Tickets for the performance are now on sale at the Union desk for $2.

Marcel Marceau

His body has been compared to a finely tuned instrument—he's been called the best mime artist in the world.

On Monday, March 4, the French performer Marcel Marceau will appear in Memorial Hall. He is best known for his lonely clown figure with the white face who captures the essence of man with physical and facial expression.

As Walter Kerr says, "To ask for such perfection would be presumptuous. You can only stare at it, believe it and be thankful."

Russ Kirkpatrick

"He can charm an audience silly just by being his old magnetic self." This critic's statement sums up the opinion of those who have seen versatile Russ Kirkpatrick perform. His voice ranges three and one half octaves, but besides singing, he writes and acts. Kirkpatrick played Jesus in Jesus Christ Superstar and has performed with the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, Badfinger, the New York Rock ensemble and Bread. Kirkpatrick will perform in Memorial Hall Thursday, Jan. 31.

The Howard Roberts Chorale

The Howard Roberts Chorale brings its dynamic talents to Memorial Hall Tuesday, Feb. 5. The program traces black music from the gospels of the slaves to the chants of the Zulus to calypso sounds. The Chorale features Ell Mitchell, described as a regal woman "who just about explodes with energy as she belts out the musical spirit of Black America."

Mission Mountain Wood Band

For some fine foot-stompin' music, the Mission Mountain Wood Band comes to Memorial Hall Thursday, April 18. The five-man group from Montana mixes traditional bluegrass fare with other musical elements. Songs range from Old MacDonald Had a Farm to Act Naturally. They have appeared in numerous clubs and have been on the CBS special Country Comes to New York.

Hanneford Circus

Returning to Carmichael is the delightful Hanneford Circus with a brand new show drawn from circus acts from all over the world.

The three-ring extravaganza will feature aerialists, jugglers, wild animal acts, clowns and the famous Hanneford riding act.

"There will always be a circus," the Hannefords vow, "as long as children keep coming along and grown folks retain fond memories of their childhood."

The circus will appear Friday, March 22.

Super Sunday

Sunder leads off the Super Sunday series on Jan. 27 with Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds, Cries and Whispers, Cabaret, The Go-Between and Sleuth to follow. Tickets are by subscription only and are available at the Union desk for $3 through Jan. 27.

Gary Graffman

Pianist Gary Graffman and cellist Leonard Rose appear together on Sunday, Feb. 3 in Memorial Hall for a program of sonatas. Graffman is recognized as a "master of romanticism from Beethoven to Rachmaninoff" and "the top American pianist in his age group."

Leonard Rose played 120 concerts in the 1970-71 season alone and has appeared as guest artist with major orchestras in the United States, Israel, Europe and Japan.

Edward Vilella Dance Company

The Edward Vilella Dance Company comes to Memorial Hall on Sunday, March 3. Vilella, described as one of the finest dancers in the world, leads the 12-member company. Tickets for each concert series program are $2.

Operatic Quartet

An operatic quartet of some of the finest singers in the world appears at 8 p.m., Friday, Feb. 8 and Saturday, Feb. 9 at Reynolds Coliseum, N.C. State campus, in Raleigh. Anna Moffo, soprano, Beverly Wolff, mezzo soprano, Jose Carreras, tenor and Robert Merrill, baritone will sing a program of operatic duos, trios and quartets.

The National Ballet

The famed National Ballet of Washington, D.C. performs March 29 through March 30 at 8 p.m. in Reynolds Coliseum. The company has been described as America's Classical Ballet.

Student tickets for both Friends of the College programs are $1.50 and go on sale Jan. 21 for the quarter and March 4 for the ballet. Tickets are available at the Carolina Union desk.

Gloria Steinem

After a successful fall program, the Carolina Forum, chaired by Betty George, has scheduled two well-known speakers for the spring term.

Journalist-feminist Gloria Steinem opens this year's Forum on Thursday, Feb. 7. A graduate cum laud from Smith College, Steinem did post-graduate work in India as a Chester Bowles Asian Fellow. Since 1958 she has worked as a freelance journalist, writing for New York, Esquire, Harpers and the New York Times.

A leader in the women's liberation movement since 1968, Steinem is one of the primary leaders of the National Women's Political Caucus and founder of MS., a magazine devoted to feminist culture and issues.

Ronald V. Dellums

Champion of the oppressed and most cogent voice of the Congressional Black Caucus, U.S. Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., will speak Wednesday, April 10.

He is a member of the District of Columbia and Foreign Affairs Committees of the House and has sponsored more than 140 bills related to U.S. war and war crimes, military racism, domestic problems of health and child care, prison reform and American interests in South America.

Dellums has consistently proved himself as a man not afraid to stand up for issues which are usually shied away from by the majority of this Congressional colleagues.

He is a man of the "new politics," that is, the politics of the people. Dellums, for example, was sent to Congress by a coalition of blacks, students, women and other racial minorities and ethnic groups.

Expousing "coalition politics," he suggests that each group, moved by their own self-interests, can develop a perception and strategy for dealing with basic human problems which can be more effectively tackled by group action.
