

Elliott Warnock

More than just a 12 point win

CLEMSON, S.C.—A crowd insane with a desire to topple the nationally-ranked Tar Heels of North Carolina could not inspire their beloved Clemson Tigers enough to defeat the Carolina visitors as Clemson suffered its second straight Atlantic Coast Conference loss in two outings. The Tar Heels meanwhile apparently overcame an early-week bout with a virus to make their regular season ACC debut, walking off with a 102-90 victory.

Clemson could not even get the ball out of its own backcourt in the early moments of play as the shifting Carolina defense stifled any semblance of Tiger offense.

Clemson head coach Tate Locke called time out after just over three minutes of play when Carolina shot out to a 10-0 lead which sent the Clemson record crowd of 11,565 into hysterics.

"Dean Smith, sit down, you ain't nuttin' you damn fool."

Shouting and screaming did not prove too successful as the Tar Heels stretched their lead to 12-0 before Clemson could manage its first score; with 12:43 left to play in the first half the score was 16-0, in favor of Carolina and the paper cups and pieces of ice were beginning to hit the floor of Littlejohn Coliseum.

Wrestling here today

North Carolina's wrestling team opens its home season here this weekend with a pair of matches against Furman and Western Carolina.

The Tar Heels face the Paladins Friday and the Catamounts Saturday. Both matches are scheduled for 8 p.m. in Carmichael Auditorium.

Carolina toppled Campbell College 26-16 before the Christmas holidays in its only dual action of the season, despite three starters being sidelined with injuries. Brett Bynum suffered a broken nose. Mark Liddell had a severely sprained ankle which had to be put in a cast, and Bob Glasgow had a broken wrist. Freshman football quarterback Carl Hoffman, who had been impressive in the 177 weight, is out indefinitely with torn knee cartilage.

"We beat Furman last year," says Coach Bill Lam, "but they have a new coach from Appalachian State and are a greatly improved team over last year. Western Carolina beat us last year. I'm anxious to see how our young men can do against these more experienced teams."

Clemson offense began to pick up as the clock wound down to the ten-minute mark, the Tigers pulling within six points with 11:48 left to play in the half.

The crowd, pleased with the results of its cup-throwing display decided to make itself more notable, choosing individual players and spurring them on to greater deeds.

"Waddell, you're a black son-of-a-bitch, sittin' on a seat. Get your ass in there."

Waddell smiled.

The Clemson players sensed the increased crowd pressure and responded with a scoring burst that tied the game at 23-23 with 8:41 left in the half, but two minutes later the Heels had pulled back to a 29-23 lead, causing Locke to call another "time out dammit," as he stormed up to the scorer's table.

The Clemson alumni went berserk, stomping in the aisles, whistling, screaming, spitting, pointing accusing fingers at the referees, while the student section did its part.

"Walter Davis, you're a black sucker!"

"Sit down Smith, you white bastard!"

The time-out was useless; Carolina continued to stretch its advantage, pushing out to a 49-33 halftime lead.

The Tar Heels came out of the dressing room to face elbows and shoves as the game began to degenerate to a war.

The crowd became frustrated as its racial tactics wore thin and decided a switch to religion would be best.

"Hey Fogler, hey! Jew-boy!"

Properly inspired, the Tigers began a slow assault on the Carolina lead, chipping away at the point spread and the Tar Heel players.

Meanwhile, Carolina's big men began to suffer the consequences of the physical battle, fouling out in succession: Ed Stahl (7:07 left to play), Mitch Kupchak (6:35) and Bobby Jones (2:13).

Clemson pulled within nine and it was Smith's turn to call "time-out dammit!" as the "I-Pay-Twenty-A-Year" crowd spit and screamed some more.

The Tar Heels resorted to the four-corners delay and mercifully stayed under the 100-point mark until Waddell sank a free throw with ironic accuracy with 1:05 left to play in the game.

The crowd couldn't shout about Walter Davis' skill in handling the four corners, or his 11 of 11 accuracy from the line, or Waddell's accuracy, or Smith's coaching, or Carolina's 102-90 victory.

Women beat State

by Susan Shackelford
Sports Writer

UNC's female basketballers tamed a scrappy Wolfpack squad in a 59-46 opening win last Wednesday at North Carolina State.

Stifling State's outside shooting, Carolina took command early in the third quarter with strong defense and board play. The Heels held the Pack to a lone free throw for over five minutes and marched to a 19-point lead.

In the final stanza, NCSU hit three quick buckets, but could never compensate for its sluggish third quarter of five points.

Junior Marsha Mann dominated the Tar Heel attack, stripping the nets for 19 points and hauling in 22 rebounds. Mann, underneath the basket with follow-ups and 9 for 9 from the free throw line, was complemented by the deadly top-of-the-key swishes of freshman Dawn Allred, canning

18. B.J. Woodard added 11.

The Heels, who never trailed in the contest, rushed to an initial 7-0 lead. State battled back to tie the score at 7 and faced only a one-point deficit at the first quarter mark, 14-13.

In the second period UNC freely substituted and relied on a 2-1-2 zone to cut off the potent shooting of NCSU's Genie Jordan and Kathy Bounds. The Heels widened their margin to 32-23 before the half-time break.

Both teams began rather slowly after the half. For Carolina, Lucy Lowder picked up three quick fouls. However, with about four minutes remaining, Tar Heel Woodard hit for two on a fastbreak assist from fellow guard Allred.

The fastbreak ignited an eight-point Carolina push, and the Pack got their first bucket for the quarter with 40 seconds left in the period.

Track, swimming, fencing

The UNC indoor track team will run a practice meet against N.C. State this Saturday at 1 p.m. in the Tin Can. This is the first of two practice meets being held prior to the start of the regular indoor season Jan. 26. Next weekend the Tar Heels host South Carolina.

The UNC swim team returns to action Saturday in a 1 p.m. meet against ECU at Greenville. This will be the first meet for the Tar Heels since their 66-47 victory over Navy Dec. 5.

The Carolina fencing team was dealt a greasy shot by the fuel crisis as the University of Illinois cancelled their arranged duel meet with the Heels for tomorrow.

To accommodate the loss of the Illinois match, Miller arranged to reschedule a match against several Florida teams for this weekend.

FREE!

Your own Tar Heel Can Do button. Plus 200 free personalized checks. All you do is open your checking account at First-Citizens Bank. And your button and checks are free to you as a college student. This token of our appreciation introduces you to banking at First-Citizens, the bank you can start with and finish with. Service to college students is not lip service at First-Citizens. We are the bank to develop the first program to meet the real needs of real people graduating from college, graduate and professional school. It's $uper $tart to bridge the financial gap between college and career by providing the graduate with the wherewithal to get started. We are a billion dollar bank, big enough to meet all your needs today and tomorrow. And our size supports our Can Do philosophy which is — in short — put the customer first and help the person move ahead financially with the best banking programs, offered in a friendly and cooperative spirit. So we offer full service banking plus exclusive Can Do extras. Like famous PayAnyDay® simple interest loans. And highest allowable savings interest with lower initial deposit than most other financial institutions. And more. We serve almost 80 towns in North Carolina with almost 200 offices today. If you stay in this State, you can probably bank with us the rest of your financial life. So start out with the bank you can live with. The bank that has demonstrated its belief in college students. The bank where it's Can Do!

Open your account at First-Citizens. The Can Do Bank.™

MEMBER F.D.I.C. © 1974 FIRST-CITIZENS BANK & TRUST COMPANY

Three offices to serve you, conveniently located at 118 East Franklin Street next to the theater, in the University Mall, and our new Drive-In Office at Elliott Road and Franklin Street.