

Mankiewicz on impeachment

Nixon blasted by author

by Seth Efron
Associate Editor

Frank Mankiewicz, author of Perfectly Clear: Nixon from Whittier to Watergate, and James Reston, who worked with Mankiewicz on the book, explained at the Wesley Foundation Tuesday why they think that Nixon must be impeached.

Mankiewicz, national political director for the McGovern campaign in 1972, said those who claim the impeachment of President Nixon would be too great a trauma for the country to stand are mistaken. "The nine months since McCord's letter were the real trauma," he said.

Mankiewicz and Reston went on to say, in response to audience questions, that the impeachment of Nixon is necessary if politics in the United States is to remain open and fair. Mankiewicz charged that Nixon sat in the White House while Kleindienst and Mitchell "denied talking with ITT while he (Nixon) knew differently as White House 'White Paper' on the ITT case has shown." Nixon permitted, if not encouraged, them to commit perjury in front of the Senate Watergate Committee," Mankiewicz charged.

Both Mankiewicz and Reston blasted Nixon for trying to create a political mentality in the United States such as that existing in "banana republics." "People in banana republics have come to expect corruption and lying from their governments. Further, the politicians and people have settled for this," he said. Mankiewicz and Reston said the American people are not ready to settle for such corruption in their government.

"The consequences of doing nothing (not impeaching Nixon) will result in a dramatic loss of confidence in our national governmental institutions," Mankiewicz said.

Mankiewicz said: "If we say this fella (Nixon) can get away with it because it is too difficult (to go through impeachment) then we will have pulled the dirtiest trick of all. Mankiewicz urged all Americans to take some action in prodding legislators to take action on impeachment. "This is the time when people in Congress are most sensitive to what the people want. The first duty is to let your Congressman know how you feel, loudly, clearly and often. Rodino (chairman of the House Judiciary Committee drawing up the list of charges for impeachment to present to the House of Representatives) should also know what people feel."

"People have reached a consensus about Watergate. They don't want to hear anymore about Watergate because they've made up their minds," he said. Speaking of the chance of Nixon being impeached by the House of Representatives, Mankiewicz said: "No one in Congress who for impeachment is now against it."

Tests, counseling available at Nash

Sophomores who are trying to decide a major should make use of the counselors and information at the Guidance and Testing Center at Nash Hall, Counselor June Allcott says.

She called Nash Hall a shopping center where students can investigate practically every field of study and work. There are seven counselors, including four graduate students, available for individual counseling. Tests to help students in academic planning are also available.

Allcott said she invites students to shop around the center's library which contains information on numerous fields of interest including subjects not taught at UNC. She said the counselors at Nash Hall are not trying to replace the college advisers, but serve as a neutral body with information on the various departments at UNC as well as on what other schools have to offer.

The library contains books, brochures, and catalogs from all state colleges, technical schools and community colleges. There are also catalogs from graduate and professional schools throughout the nation and abroad.

On file is information on specific aspects of education and vocation including schools and employers seeking black students.

Allcott said the counselors can help students decide and carry out an educational plan, such as transferring to another school to study engineering or architecture. She encouraged students to make appointments with a counselor by calling 933-2175, or to come by Nash Hall, located across from the Carolina Inn parking lot, next door to the Newman Center.

The Guidance and Testing Center is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Monday nights, 7 to 10 p.m.

No epidemic of flu predicted for N.C.

Despite published reports of a new strain of Hong Kong flu appearing in North Carolina, infirmiry doctors say there is no indication of a new flu epidemic this winter.

Chapel Hill and the surrounding area have had no reported cases of the new flu, Dr. James Taylor, director of Student Services said.

Taylor said that there has been an unusually low number of flu cases so far this year, but added, "even the greatest experts can't tell when an epidemic may break out."

Taylor explained that the new flu is a mutant strain of the so-called Hong Kong flu. As it was first discovered in Asia last year and has never hit this country before, most people have no immunity to it.

"It's impossible to try to immunize the entire student body against influenza," the director said, "and influenza is not a serious disease among the young and healthy."

Dr. Donald E. Harris, health educator at the student infirmiry, said Monday that he has "a fairly significant supply" of Hong Kong and other types of flu vaccine left, and urged students to come by the infirmiry for immunization.

"Any student with chronic disease that would make flu more serious for them should be vaccinated," Harris said. He recommended that students with asthma, diabetes or heart or lung conditions get the shots.

The vaccinations are free of charge.

DTH in error

The story on pass-fail in Tuesday's DTH contained several errors.

First, Jan. 25 is the deadline for declaring pass-fail only in the General College and the College of Arts and Sciences. Each school sets its own deadline and students may find out their deadline by calling the dean of their school. Secondly, required physical education may be taken pass-fail.

Also, if a major is switched, only one pass-fail course in the new major taken before the change was made will count toward fulfilling the requirements for that major.

The DTH regrets the error.

Shuttle service starts

Usually students who want to get out of Chapel Hill either have to own a car, find a ride or, as a last resort, catch a bus. Now you have to go to Durham for the last resort.

A Carolina Trailways bus strike has closed the Chapel Hill Bus Terminal except for one local bus which is shuttling passengers to the Greyhound bus station in Durham.

The bus will run from Monday through Friday and will leave Chapel Hill on the following schedule: 7:30 a.m., 9:45 a.m., 12:25 p.m., 1:45 p.m., 4:15 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

The strike which went into effect Dec. 10, 1973, took 350 drivers out of work and parlay Carolina Trailways bus operations in North Carolina, Virginia and portions of three other states.

Lester Creech, Carolina Coach Co. president, is now in the process of negotiating with union officials. He could not be reached for comment on the situation.
