El Libre, Mystery Politico may not appear on ballots

by David Ennis
Staff Writer

The petitions of two candidates for student body president have been ruled invalid, Rick Harwood, elections chairman-designate said Monday.

The pseudonyms Mystery Politico and El Libre will not appear on the Feb. 27 election ballots, he said.

Harwood said the decision was made in accordance with the section of campus elections laws which outline qualifications for holding office.

According to the law, a candidate must be a registered, fee-paying student of UNC "in good standing."

"To determine if he is qualified, we have to know who the person is," Harwood said. "Otherwise, anyone could walk in and say 'I'm El Libre,'" he said.

"If we were to say 'come in now and give us your name,' we would still have no proof," he added.

The nominating procedure for candidacy, as specified in the elections laws, also requires that a candidate must sign his own petition.

Geoff Hulse and David Bruton, who said they are campaign managers for Mystery Politico, told the DTH they have a legal document proving that "Mystery Politico" is the official nickname of a student who meets all the requirements for candidacy.

The document, which they said is signed by the student body secretary and legally notarized, contains the real name of the candidate and his student I.D. number, they said.

"I think the Elections Board is trying to edge us out," Hulse said. "We represent a serious and real threat to the other candidates," he said.

"If our candidate's real name were released, the candidate would be harassed," Bruton said.

A student who called himself El Libre reacted with outrage at the ruling.

"They (the Elections Board) are running dogs that hope to keep the voice of the people, El Libre, off the ballot and out of the election," he said.

Harwood said a final decision will be made on the matter by the Executive Committee of the Elections Board after it has been legally constituted by the Campus Governing Council tonight.

The decision could be appealed to the student Supreme Court, he said.

Harwood released the lists of candidates whose petitions have been validated.

Candidates for student body president are Lew Warren, Michael McIntyre, Tommy Daniels, Richard Wilmot-Smith, Marcus Williams, Gary Phillips, Murray Fogler, Lloyd Scher, and Robert Hackney.

SG gets 12-month budget

by Henry Farber
Staff Writer

The Campus Governing Council's power to appropriate student activities fees has been expanded to include the summer school budget, Student Body Treasurer Steve Jones said Monday.

The move makes the 1974-75 Student Government budget, which Jones said he plans to submit to the CGC before spring break, the first 12-month SG budget ever.

Jones also said the proposed budget for next year will make it easier for the CGC to appropriate more money to groups for special projects later in the school year.

The expanded budget, which will appropriate between $600,000 and $700,000, is the result of SG negotiations with administration officials last summer, Jones said.

The negotiations were carried out by Jones, Student Body President Ford Runge, and Dick Baker, last year's CGC Finance Committee chairman, with Vice Chancellor Claiborne Jones, and Deans Donald Boulton and James O. Cansler, Jones said.

In previous years, Jones said, summer activities funds were appropriated by the Summer Program Planning Council, consisting of four heads of administrative departments and two student representatives.

Jones said the 12-month budget will end complications some student organizations have experienced working out of two budgets.

A major change in the new budget is a revised contingency fund to allow easy appropriations for special projects, Jones said. The new fund will provide block grants for such projects as last week's Women's Festival, sponsored by the Association of Women Students, Jones said.

Jones said the contingency fund will also prevent the tying up of funds in programs that are only tentative when the SG budget is drawn up the year before the event. He said users of the fund must have specific requests outlined.

Jones said other major requests to be made in the budget include:

- At least $5,000 to further the Residence Unit Grant and Loan Fund.

- An appropriation for student-faculty mixers in summer school.

- $5,000 for a teacher-course evaluation, which is to be matched by $10,000 from anonymous sources.

Jones said he is encouraging groups that want student activities fund aid next year to contact him in Suite C of the Union.

Hearst arranges for food ransom

United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — Publisher Randolph A. Hearst said Monday arrangements have been made for distribution of $2 million worth of food for the poor and the needy in an effort to obtain freedom of his kidnaped daughter, Patricia.

Before a mass of TV cameras and reporters, Hearst said, almost too softly to be heard, $500,000 of the $2 million would come from his own personal funds. He said $1.5 million would come from the Hearst Foundation.

Hearst gave no details of the food program, and said they could be worked out by a charitable organization approved by the state attorney general. The money will be available Tuesday, Hearst said, but he added that it would take time to work out details of the giveaway plan.

"This is a gesture of good will," Hearst said. "It's an honest effort on my part. It's up to them (the SLA) to believe me and hopefully make a gesture of their own."

The Symbionese Liberation Army, which claims to hold the girl, had demanded that a massive food program, costing perhaps $400 million, begin no later than Tuesday as a "gesture of good faith" in negotiations for Patricia's liberty.

Hearst had responded that this demand was impossible to meet but that he would do the best he could.

Hearst made his announcement after five hours of meetings in a downtown San Francisco hotel, mainly with leaders of the American Indian Movement, one of a dozen activist groups which the SLA had said should supervise a food giveaway program.

To further demonstrate good faith, the publisher named William K. Coblentz, a San Francisco lawyer, to act as the Hearst family's representative to assure that Joseph Remiro and Russell Little, two SLA members now in custody on murder charges, receive a fair trial.

Hearst said the American Indian Movement has been "very helpful" and that he found AIM leader Dennis Banks "an interesting man and a decent man."

Granville elections

Court okays run-off

by David Ennis
Staff Writer

The Student Supreme Court modified an injunction Monday to allow Granville Residence College to hold run-off elections for officers other than governor.

The court issued the original injunction barring all run-offs Feb. 11 after a complaint was filed alleging irregularities in the Feb. 5 dorm elections.

Alvia Gaskill, candidate for governor, filed the complaint.

Lindsay Wrenn, Granville Elections Board chairman, presented the motion in Supreme Court demanding the injunction be lifted.

The motion was made on the ground that the court did not have jurisdiction in the matter because campus elections laws do not supersede the rules set down by the Granville Elections Board.

In the event that the Court claimed jurisdiction, the motion was also made on the ground that Gaskill had failed to comply with the 96-hour deadline for filing complaints as specified in the Campus Elections Laws.

Wrenn's motion also claimed that the irregularities in the election had "no material effect on the outcome of the election" and that Gaskill's suit is a "spurious one" intended to hinder the Granville Elections Board.

Supreme Court Chief Justice David Crump said the court has jurisdiction in residence hall election cases, but said the tribunal of the Residence Hall Association (RHA) should rule on the merits of Gaskill's complaints.

"It is our opinion that he (Gaskill) is entitled to have the merits of his complaint considered," Crump said, "but it is not our office to consider the merits," he said.

The Governing Board of RHA was scheduled to meet Monday and appoint a tribunal to hear the case.

Crump said the Supreme Court could issue a writ of mandamus directing RHA Chairwoman Janet Stephens to appoint the tribunal if the board failed to do so at its meeting.

"I realize you've been laboring under an injunction for about a week," Crump told Wrenn. "I appreciate the dilemma you're in," he said.

Proposed bus fares raised to 25¢

by Janet Langston
Staff Writer

Sunday nights, increasing fares on the town routes and holding the number of operating buses at 17, that the town will not have such a high deficit.

He would like to use eight-and-one-half per cent of the property valuation tax, and leave the remaining one-and-one-half per cent as a cushion for any unforeseen conditions which may arise once the system is operating, Pappas said.

The town has backed off from the idea of immediately submitting a supplemental federal grant for capital construction in its mass transit system, Pappas said. He said

Chapel Hill prefers to see what Carrboro does concerning a November transportation referendum.

If Carrboro holds a referendum and decides to use Chapel Hill's service, Pappas said, the Town would have to consider Carrboro's additional needs and rearrange routes and bus schedules to expand the service area.

Pappas said that the Town should be moving forward with a supplemental grant application to the Urban Mass Transit Administration next fall, especially if Carrboro chooses to have a bus system.

Carrboro has twice rejected a transit system for the town, citing the tax increase as prohibitive. The first referendum was defeated by about a 2-1 margin in May 1971. The second was voted down by about 50 votes in May, 1973.

Negotiations with University officials are nearing a definite agreement, Pappas said.

Pappas said that although service would have to be cut back in some areas, the University service should continue as now, with nighttime campus service until 1:30 a.m.

Station anti-trust action dropped

by United Press International

RALEIGH—Attorney General Robert Morgan said Monday antitrust action started against five Chapel Hill service stations by his office is no longer necessary, and has been withdrawn.

Morgan had filed antitrust action alleging illegal tie-in arrangements in gasoline sales by some Chapel Hill stations.

He said the new federal civil penalty for such actions is $2,500 per violation and the criminal penalty for such actions is $5,000 for such violations.

Morgan said he has filed a notice in Orange County Superior Court of withdrawal of his motion.

However, Morgan said if the federal regulations were to be rescinded he would again consider filing injunctive relief.

The winner...again

San Diego—Tony Waldrop was probably the most surprised person when he broke the world indoor mile record Sunday night at the San Diego Indoor Games.

"I was tired from traveling and I didn't know if I could get the record," said Waldrop, a University of North Carolina athlete.

Waldrop, who had run five sub-four minute miles on the indoor circuit prior to his appearance here, blazed to a 3:55.0, breaking the old mark of 3:56.4, first set 10 years ago by Tom O'Hara of Chicago Loyola and equaled in 1971 by Jim Ryan.

Waldrop ran behind Greg Gibson's 59.4 pace in the first quarter, overtaking the field during the third quarter. He finished with a 56-flat final quarter. Wilson Waigwa of Kenya finished second at 3:57.2 and Gibson was third in 3:59.1.
