Four season matches remain

Netters meet Gamecocks today

by Susan Shackelford
Asst. Sports Editor

Carolina netters are only four matches away from the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament as they take on South Carolina today in Columbia.

Seniors Richard McKee, Richard Hardaway and Bill Correll are making the last road journey of their four-season careers at UNC.

All-America McKee needs only one more singles victory to tie the all-time record set by All-American Freddy McNair, who finished last year at Carolina. McKee has tallied 84 of the needed 85.

Capturing a win today, McKee could surge ahead Saturday when the Tar Heels visit Presbyterian in Clinton, S.C. The team, now 16-3, will return to Chapel Hill after Monday encounter with Tennessee.

A look at the history book shows the past success of UNC clubs, against the trio of southern opponents.

The Heels maintain a command over the other Carolina, 20-2-1, and have dominated Presbyterian 19-1. The edge over Tennessee is 6-0.

A final home match is scheduled next Wednesday with Johnson C. Smith, but may be cancelled because of Carolina's need to leave for the ACC tourney, hosted by Clemson.

When Wake Forest (and the rain) came to Chapel Hill last Wednesday, Deacon Coach Jim Leighton dubbed UNC the best team in the league.

"They just have better players," the white-haired Leighton said, shaking his head, as he predicted a repeat UNC championship at the tournament.

The Wake battle, which was finished inside at the Grand Slam courts, reflected a more confident brand of tennis.

Earlier in the week, Virginia created more friction than anticipated by the Heels, with McKee dropping his second straight ACC contest, against Cavalier Jim Ratliff. McKee lost last week to Mark Meyers of Duke, who will be the tourney's no. 1 seed after recently beating Maryland's John Lucas.

McKee went three sets against Meyers and had the Duke ace at match point in the third set tiebreaker. Meyers called McKee for a double hit on McKee's match point and came back for the win.

Dejected after the close loss, McKee only recently commented on the controversial call.

"I gave him the match," he said quite recovered from the psychological impact of that first ACC loss. "I wasn't sure about the call."

He smiled. "I guess I'm just too nice of a guy sometimes. I've got to get rid of that."

Runners in tri-meet

Tony Waldrop continues to be bothered by an ear infection and will not run in the Kansas Relays this weekend.

"The infection is gone but there is still a lot of fluid," said UNC Coach Joe Hilton. Hopefully Waldrop will be able to run in an open mile at the Penn Relays April 26-27 in Philadelphia.

Carolina will compete in the Big Three meet with Duke and N.C. State at Raleigh Saturday night.

"The meet should provide close competition," said Hilton. "There will be a swapping off of strengths. Duke is strong in the distances, State is strong in some of the weights, particularly the shot put and we should do well in the weights and jumps."

Sam Beasley broke the school record of the long jump last weekend with a leap of 25' at the Carolina Relays.

Danny Deacon cleared 15' to win the pole vault. Gil Vance won the discus with a mark of 154-11. Terry Taylor was third with 147-3 1/2 and Lee Stoffel and Lee McLaughlin finished fourth and fifth respectively.

Peter LaRoche was second in the javelin with a heave of 196-7 1/2. Charles Boursac was third and Jeff Gorski was fourth.

Mike Voight finished second in the 120 high hurdles with a time of 15.0. Bob Brown finished third in the 440 intermediate high hurdles.

Stickmen drop yet another one, 18-8

by Sherman Golden
Sports Writer

The Carolina lacrosse team suffered a disheartening 18-8 defeat at the hands of a talented and well-coached Washington and Lee team in Lexington on Wednesday. The game, marred by penalties and flares of temper, was a much tougher battle than the score might indicate.

The first quarter was undoubtedly Carolina's best. Senior Bob Malm continued to dominate the face-offs and goalie Chuck Weinstein made several fine saves. W&L scored the first two goals, but attackman Bert Fett, continuing his exceptional play, answered with two unassisted goals coming on rolls from behind the net. W&L's attackmen, who totaled 12 goals on the day, sent their team to a 4-2 lead. The first period scoring ended when attackman Rob Hollis, on a smooth assist from midfielder Rob Cox, put one past the goalie for Carolina's third score.

Albeit the pace of the second quarter was slower, Carolina's stickmen continued to hold their own. W&L scored three goals in this period, one when Carolina was forced to play a man short due to a rule infraction. Both Carolina goals came from the surge of sophomore Tom Cox, who replaced Hollis midway through the quarter. His first goal came on an assist by Miller; his second, tying the score at 5-5, came when Bert Fett sped him cutting backside and hit him with the assisting pass.

John Donato opened the third period scoring with a goal for Carolina in a man-up situation. Hampered by penalties and an inability to clear the ball, the stickmen lapsed and made many mistakes. W&L, demonstrating last year's fourth place national ranking, exploded to an overwhelming 13-7 lead, sparked by the play of their All-American midfielders Lou Lichfuss and Dan Casney. W&L added five more goals in the fourth quarter while Doug Arnold scored Carolina's final goal on an unassisted shot from the midfield. Carolina's record now stands at 3-5, and the Tar Heels take on William and Mary this Saturday.

Golfers compete in tournament

The UNC Women's Golf Team sends its three top players to compete in the UNC-G Tournament at Greensboro on Friday and Saturday.

The women's squad, in its first year of intercollegiate competition, finishes its season with this event.

Representing UNC in the two-day shootout in Greensboro are No. 1 player Sally Austin, Jean Newton and Mindy Moore.

These three UNC women linksters will be trying to put on a respectable showing and perhaps take home an individual crown since, according to Coach Jeanne Eller, the tournament is "primarily an individual event where the girls will wear the colors of Carolina but team honors will be secondary."

Austin has played tournament golf for several years.

She was runner-up in the Carolina Junior Golf Tournament and tied for second in the North Carolina High School Tournament.

UNC will be well represented as all three golfers are capable of shooting in the 70's.
