

Attempted O'Neal impeachment fails

CGC supports 'Summer Life'

A bill to prohibit expenditure of Student Government funds for certain kinds of publications was introduced and defeated at the Campus Governing Council meeting Tuesday.

The bill, introduced by Rep. John Sawyer, would disqualify publications from receiving CGC funds if they appear regularly in newspaper format, depend partially on advertising revenues and include editorial comment on any Student Government organization.

Sawyer said the bill was aimed primarily at the S G's new publication, Summer Life, which first appeared June 23.

The publication competes for advertising revenue with the Daily Tar Heel, which also receives Student Government funds, and presents the potential for biased presentation of the news, Sawyer said.

Other CGC members disagreed, saying Summer Life provides a valuable source of information. Rep. Dick Pope argued the competition for advertising revenues would not seriously injure the Daily Tar Heel.

This action was preceded by Campbell's introducing a resolution at a Media Board meeting earlier Tuesday to remove CGC Treasurer Mike O'Neal from the Summer Media Board chairpersonship.

O'Neal was elected chairperson by the Summer Media Board.

Campbell asserted O'Neal would not be objective as chairperson since he is connected with Summer Life, which is not represented on the Media Board and which competes with the Tar Heel for advertising.

"Suppose we (the Tar Heel) decided to get advertisers away from Summer Life by dropping rates," Campbell said. "That would have to be approved by this Board, two members of which are connected with Summer Life."

Aside from O'Neal, Zapp Jennings, CGC summer appointee, also sits on the Board. Although Campbell argued the responsibility of the Media Board is to protect the media it represents, O'Neal, backed by several Board members, said the Board's duty is to regulate the represented media, rather than to protect them.

O'Neal said he has told Student Body President Bill Bates he will no longer work for Summer Life but will devote his time to the treasury.

Several Board members questioned a Student Government publication's right to exist. "I think the primary issue is the existence of a Student Government newspaper," John Sawyer, CGC appointee, said. "A daily press or weekly press should be independent (of CGC)."

Campbell then withdrew his resolution for O'Neal's removal in order to have the resolution to prohibit expenditure of Student Government funds for Summer Life introduced to CGC.

In other action, CGC appointed Buddy Ray, chief assistant to Black Student Movement President Lester Diggs, chairperson of Minority and Community Affairs.

"The committee of minority affairs primarily will be an information center," Ray said Wednesday. "I found that at least the basic problem between minority and majority students is a lack of information."

Ray said he also plans to work with the various minority organizations to schedule speakers and cultural programs.

Rosemary St., at 10 p.m. tonight for a preliminary screening. The director, Christopher Casler, wants anyone between 17 and 25 years of age.

The Student Consumer Action Union (SCAU) needs volunteers willing to work as complaint investigators. Anyone interested should come by SCAU's office in Suite 8 of the Union any weekday between 4 and 5 p.m., or call 933-8313. No experience necessary.

Conducted by the Wilson Library stack and catalog systems? Come to the Wilson Library Tour tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. or any Wednesday at 3 p.m. Meet on the front steps of Wilson. All are welcome.

Chapel Hill-Carrboro Voter Registration will be held on Thursdays, 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Chapel Hill Municipal Building, N. Columbia St. Thirty days' residency is required for all voters.

Part I of a film produced by the American Personnel and Guidance Association on "Assertive Training Procedures for Women" will be shown Monday, July 7, from 12 noon to 2 p.m., and again from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., in the Presbyterian Student Center Lounge. Admission is $1. It is important to attend the full two hours for discussion.

A free showing of the films "Childbirth for the Joy of It" and "Nutrition in Pregnancy" will be held at 8 p.m., Monday, July 6, at the Agricultural Extension Service at the intersection of Court and King Streets in Hillsborough. For further information or inquiries into childbirth education classes, contact Bonnie Cavanaugh, 732-4481, or Ann Woodward, 929-4248.

Anyone interested in discussing the Student Health Service with Kalle Newcome Campbell, UNC's Student Health Advocate, should come to a Coffee Hour on Tuesday, July 8, between 2 and 3 p.m. in Suite C of the Carolina Union. If you can't come then, see Campbell during the SHA's regular office hours, 2-4 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Rigney appointed as N.C. State chancellor

Jackson A. Rigney, 62-year-old dean of International Programs at N.C. State University, was appointed acting chancellor of the school June 24 by UNC President William C. Friday, to take office July 1.

Rigney will serve as interim successor to retiring Chancellor John T. Caldwell, who had been chancellor of NCSU since 1960. He will remain in the post until a search committee of State's Board of Trustees finds a permanent successor.

Rigney said he will not be considered for the permanent post because of his age. "They're really not much interested in anyone beyond 55," he said.

Ten names remain on its list of prospective chancellors, which means Rigney will serve until sometime in the fall. Walter L. Smith, chairperson of the search committee, said.

Local celebrations for July 4th

Chapel Hill and Carrboro will kick off their Independence Day celebrations with a parade at 1 p.m. Friday. The parade will begin at the corner of N. Greensboro Street and proceed down Main Street and W. Franklin Street to University Square.

Both communities have games and contests scheduled and firetruck rides for children. Booths will be sponsored by local civic clubs.

The Chapel Hill Fourth of July celebration will be held at Kenan Stadium from 3-11 p.m. Friday. All proceeds from the activities go to support American Field Service International Scholarships.

Scheduled festivities include:

N.C. 54 to open... finally

N.C. Highway 54, famed in legend and bumper sticker and closed for the past three years, will be opened Aug. 1—just before final exams this semester.

Division 7 District Highway Engineer J.W. Watkins, who serves Orange, Alamance, Caswell, Guilford and Rockingham counties, said recently the first 12 miles (east from Graham) of the 18-mile Graham-to-Carrboro stretch are now open to local traffic, with construction continuing on the final six miles leading into Carrboro.

Watkins said the new road will be six feet wider than the old one—24 feet instead of 18 feet—and will include a 4-foot shoulder on each side. Moreover, the "roller coaster" effect caused by poor horizontal and vertical alignment will be substantially reduced.

The old route had long been so bumpy that N.C. residents put stickers on their cars saying, "I Drive Highway 54—Pray For Me." Speaking of the road, Watkins states (or understates): "It was very substandard when we think of modern highways."

But those who may have hoped the road might be widened east of Chapel Hill will be disappointed. District 5 Division Engineer Carl Painter said no plans are in the works for that.
