Boston strike shuts schools

BOSTON—The nation's oldest school system was paralyzed Monday by a teachers strike that union leaders said was 90 percent effective. The leaders, who ignored a court order against the strike, were ordered to face possible contempt charges.

The strike shut down most schools, accomplishing in one morning what antibusing forces had failed to do in two weeks of sporadic demonstrations against court-ordered desegregation.

Suffolk Superior Court Judge Samuel Adams, who issued an injunction Friday against the strike, scheduled a 10 a.m. hearing today for the officers and executive committee members of the Boston Teachers Union.

Most of Boston's 84,000 students stayed home. The city's 167 school buildings, though officially open, were nearly empty as many of the 4,900 members of the union marched on picket lines when the school bell rang.

Official figures showed 4,617 teachers did not show up for work at the start of the third week of the fall term. Boston is in its second year of court-ordered busing to integrate public schools.

State law prohibits strikes by teachers and other public employees, with punishment listed as jail terms for the strikers and fines for the union. Boston's last teacher strike was in 1970 and lasted 13 days. When it ended, the union president was jailed for 30 days and the union was fined $13,000.

Senate committee probes Anderson plot

WASHINGTON—The Senate intelligence committee turned its attention Monday to a report that a senior official in the Nixon White House ordered the assassination of columnist Jack Anderson in late 1971 or early 1972.

A committee spokesman said the report, published Sunday by the Washington Post, is "something we can't avoid taking note of."

The Post quoted reliable sources as saying E. Howard Hunt, the former CIA agent who helped engineer the Ellsberg and Watergate burglaries, told associates he was ordered to kill Anderson with an untraceable poison obtained from a former CIA doctor—but that the scheme was dropped at the last minute.

The spokesman said the panel was looking into the report of the plot against Anderson, who at the time was writing columns based on top secret documents coming into his possession.

But the spokesman said there was some question about the committee's jurisdiction in this matter, since no intelligence agency was involved.

Patty Hearst and parents testify today

SAN FRANCISCO—Both Patty Hearst and her parents are expected to testify before a federal judge today, seeking her release on bail with promises she will not try to flee from criminal prosecution, it was disclosed Monday.

Attorney James Martin McInnis said after a defense strategy session that Randolph and Catherine Hearst, as well as the 21-year-old heiress, would take the stand in the courtroom of U.S. District Judge Oliver Carter.

Carter refused to release Patty on even $1 million bail last Friday, until he was convinced that she was not a "flight risk."

"Patty will say that she has no intention of leaving or attempting flight and that she will obey any conditions which the court imposes," McInnis said.

The lawyer said that Patty agreed to give such assurances in a meeting with her mother and father Sunday at the San Mateo County Jail in Redwood City.

It was not known what ground rules would prevail at today's hearing, but if Miss Hearst takes the stand it might open the way to cross-examination by U.S. Attorney James L. Browning, who is seeking to bar her release.

State closer to new chancellor

Dr. Joab Langston Thomas, 42, vice-president for student affairs at the University of Alabama has been nominated as one of two candidates to be North Carolina State University's next chancellor, the Raleigh News and Observer reported Sunday.

The News and Observer said an unidentified informed source reported Saturday that Thomas had been chosen as "top contender because of who he is and where he's from."

Thomas said yesterday that the News and Observer knew more than he did concerning his nomination. "That's interesting," he said. "At least they said that who I am is more important than where I am from."

Thomas confirmed that he has been seeking the position at NCSU since last March.

Thomas, a member of the staff of the University of Alabama since 1961, received his B.A. in 1955, M.A. in 1957 and Ph.D. in 1959, all at Harvard University. He was named outstanding professor at Alabama in 1964-65.

University of North Carolina President William C. Friday said Monday the Search Committee made its decision known to the trustees of NCSU Saturday in a closed meeting. The trustees recommended three people to Friday, who selected one to present to the UNC Board of Governors, he said.

The Board of Governors are scheduled to meet at 2 p.m. Friday at NCSU for Friday to announce his choice.
