

YDC hears Kirby rap Fountain

by Dwight Ferguson
Staff Writer

State Sen. J. Russell Kirby, D-Wilson, criticized U.S. Rep. L.H. Fountain and Gov. James Holshouser after discussing his plans to run against Fountain in the next congressional election.

Speaking before the UNC Young Democrats Club, Kirby said he will not formally announce his candidacy until 1976. "The decision is made, but no one will know about it for some time."

But he said, "I've sounded out a number of people in the 2nd District, and I like what I hear. There is no unified voice in the district, and no lines outside my door asking that I run, but I have been encouraged."

Kirby, a state senator for 10 years, has already announced he will not serve in the General Assembly again.

In response to questions, Kirby said he thinks current 2nd District congressman Fountain has been obstructing Democratic aims over the last six months and has sided with President Ford on too many issues. "If I agree with the man, I would not be running,"

he said. "I have disagreed with him in almost every instance."

Kirby also said Gov. Holshouser's administration "has had about the same impact on the state as the Eisenhower administration had on the country," noting that Holshouser's is a "do-nothing" administration.

One reason Kirby gave for his possibly entering the congressional race is that "Washington is where the action is." The congressional seat "is an important office and deserves the best district can provide," he said. "It needs a man who can do more than write articles for newspapers, send out letters, congratulate every graduate of kindergarten and attend weddings."

Citing the issues he will stress when his campaign formally gets underway, Kirby said welfare reform is a major concern of his constituents.

The present welfare system is demeaning to the recipient and difficult for the government to administer, he said. People receiving welfare should work for it in some way, he said. "Consumption without production is one way straight to tragedy."

If he runs, Kirby also said he plans to stress energy problems in his campaign. He advocated the development of new energy sources and criticized President Ford's energy independence project as "possibly costing more than it's worth."

Education without government interference and insuring farmers' incomes were other issues Kirby said he would stress in campaigning.

While not actually endorsing a negative income tax, Kirby said it is a possibility to be studied.

Kirby received both his undergraduate and law degrees from UNC. He twice served as chairperson of the Senate Higher Education Committee and was chairperson of the state tax study commission last year.

Non-credit interest courses offered

Beginning next week, the Special Projects Committee of the Union will open its "Carolyceum" program, a series of 11 special interest courses.

The courses are not offered for credit, but are "more of an enrichment type of thing," she said.

Fonda stressed that the series is not a money making venture. "Anyone is welcome to participate, but students will receive priority," Fonda said.

Most classes will be taught at night, and a varying fee will be charged for each class. All classes (except ballroom dancing) will last five weeks.

Anyone wishing to register for a course may sign up at the Union information desk. Class fees must be paid when registering.

Fonda said any individual or organization wishing to sponsor or teach a course not being offered should contact her in Suite A of the Union.

JFK presentation to come Tuesday

A lecture, film and slides on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy will be presented at 8 p.m. Oct. 21 in Memorial Hall. Sponsored by the Carolina Forum, the presentation will include hundreds of slides and the film by Arthur Zapruder.

A representative of the Assassination Information Bureau of Cambridge, Mass., Bob Katz, will review the developments of 12 years of investigation into the assassination. Katz will also answer questions.

The organization's literature states, "John Kennedy was killed by a conspiracy, and he was killed for a reason," and "we have uncovered some strange links between figures involved in the assassination and the men arrested for the Watergate break-in." Admission is free.
