Dooley criticizes ACC officials; hopes Heels can bounce back

by Jim Thomas Assistant Sports Editor

The officiating in the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC) this year leaves a lot to be desired, North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley said at his weekly press conference Tuesday.

"I'm disappointed in the officiating in the ACC this year," said Dooley, referring specifically to the controversial two-point play against N.C. State Saturday in which fullback Brian Smith was allegedly held in the end zone. "It was defensive holding in anybody's book but it won't change the outcome. It's still 21-20."

The loss to the Wolfpack was the second straight heartbreaker for the Tar Heels. Two weeks ago Carolina led then-15th ranked Notre Dame 14-0 before the Irish scored three touchdowns in the last 11 minutes to pull out a 21-14 win.

"We've had two disappointing losses back to back," Dooley said. "Everyone's down but I hope they're intelligent enough to realize they've got to fight that much harder to get back on the winning track."

The Tar Heels attempt to break their two-game losing streak against East Carolina Saturday on Band Day in Kenan Stadium.

"It will be a real test of character to see if we can bounce back from adversity against a team which is going to be skyhigh for us," Dooley said.

Two years ago the Tar Heels edged the Pirates 28-27 in Kenan Stadium after a controversial fourth down interference call late in the game enabled UNC to score the winning touchdown. Carolina did not schedule ECU last year but several players who were freshmen and sophomores two years ago, who remember that game, will be on the field Saturday, making the contest an emotional one.

East Carolina comes into the game with a 4-3 record while the Tar Heels are 2-4 overall. The Pirates were routed in their first two games of the season by availability for Saturday will be made N.C. State 26-3 and Appalachian State 41-25 but they have won four of their last five, including a 42-14 shellacking of Western Carolina last week.

Dooley said East Carolina has improved a lot since the first of the season and that the Tar Heels will have to be ready to play Saturday.

"Their offense looked really good against Western Carolina," Dooley said. "Their two backs, Strayhorn, (Ken) and Hawkins (Willie) are as fine Pan Am 1st as we have faced all year." Strayhorn, whose brother Les plays for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, has rushed for a 5.9 average while Hawkins has a 5.7 mark.

Terry Gallaher has exceptional hands at split end." Gallaher has caught 11 passes for 405 yards (36.8 average) and seven touchdowns.

East Carolina is averaging 325 yards in total offense, 114 in the air and 211 on the ground. The Pirates operate a wishbone offense which Georgia Tech used against the Tar Heels last year. . .

"They hammer away at you with the wishbone and try to lull the defense to sleep then suddenly they throw the ball deep on you," said Dooley. "We're going to have to be alert on defense and stay on our toes."

On defense, Dooley said the Pirates "make things happen. They have made 16 interceptions so far this year and blocked a punt against Western Carolina. They play the ball real well and provide good run support. Their defensive secondary is one of the finest we'll face all year."

Turning to injuries, Dooley said the status of tailback James Betterson and defensive backs Ronny Johnson and John Daw is still 'questionable.' All three players missed the game against N.C. State. A decision on their later in the week.
