Chou En-lai, 78, dies of cancer Thursday

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese Premier Chou En-lai died Thursday at the age of 78, the official New China News Agency reported from Peking.

Chou, who had served as premier since formation of the Peoples Republic of China, died of cancer, the agency said. He had suffered from a series of heart attacks in recent years and had turned over most of his duties to Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

It was Teng who carried out the recent inconclusive Peking talks with President Ford.

Chou was one of the founders of the Chinese Communist party in the early days of the revolution that overthrew the Manchu Dynasty.

Although known as a handsome and suave diplomat, he also was a member of the assassination squads that fought to the death with members of the late Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek's Kuomintang in the streets of Shanghai in the 1920s.

Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung conceived the major policy lines for what he called the "New China," but he relied on Chou to carry them out.

Few men of modern times weathered as many political storms and earned as much respect from friend and foe alike as Chou.

He probably had as much exposure to foreigners as all other top Chinese leaders combined. And he was as adept at dealing with foreigners as he was in manipulating factions at home.

Reagan campaigns in eastern N.C.

WILMINGTON, N.C. (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, hoping to beat President Ford in North Carolina's March 23 presidential primary, sought support in eastern North Carolina Thursday after spending the morning looking for votes in the Piedmont.

Reagan was greeted on his arrival at Wilmington's airport by a crowd of about 70 persons, three quarters of them security personnel, then headed for a motel to rest before a scheduled 6 p.m. meeting with his local campaign committee, a 7 p.m. chamber of commerce reception and a speech to a chamber dinner group.

The former California Governor spent the morning campaigning in High Point in the state's populous Piedmont, and there defended his call for a reduction in the size, power and services of the federal government.

Reagan told a High Point press conference his proposals to trim the power of the federal government would cut the overall tax burden of the American people.
