

Campus Calendar

Today's Activities

The Zoology Undergrad Student Association will meet at 8 p.m. in the Frank Porter Graham Lounge of the Union.

The Fred Harris for President Committee meets at 8 p.m. on the second floor of the Union. (Room number will be posted.) Interested persons are welcome. Literature for absentee voting drive will be available for distribution.

The UNC Crew Club will practice at University Lake. Women should meet at 3:45 p.m. at the Union, and men should meet there at 4:45 p.m.

Scottish dancing: there will be an important meeting for all dancers. In preparation for the performance next Saturday, at 8:30 p.m. at the PI Lamb 'n' Phi house.

Today is the last day to register to vote for the March 23rd Presidential primary. Register today 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Chapel Hill Municipal Building, N. Columbia St., Chapel Hill and Carrboro residents can register.

There will be an important meeting of the Yackety Yack office staff at 7 p.m. in the Yack office. Please attend.

Candidates for Daily Tar Heel editor will speak at 4 p.m. in 104 Howell Hall. A question and answer session will follow. Sponsored by The Journalist.

The first annual Symposium in Communication Science will be held today from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Tuesday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Union. This workshop, entitled "Communicating with Patients and Clients: An Interpersonal Approach," will be presented by Michael Burgoon, Ph.D., and Jude Burgoon, Ed.D. from the University of Florida Department of Speech. Registration is free for students, and $5.00 for anyone else. Sponsored by the Student Speech, Hearing and Language Association, and the faculty of Speech and Hearing Sciences. This symposium is open to the public.

The Carolina Forum presents "An Evening with Truman Capote" at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall.

IRSS Short Course, "Advanced APL Style and Techniques" (Session 1), 2 p.m. in 142 Spangler. A working knowledge of APL including primitive functions, system functions, system variables and function definition is assumed.

Dr. Thomas Paterson, author of Soviet-American Confrontation will give a public address on "J.F. Kennedy's Foreign Policy: A Reassessment" in Room 202 of the Union. Sponsored by the Curriculum to Peace, War and Defense.

There will be a meeting of the Order of the Owl at 8:30 p.m. in the Frank Porter Graham Lounge of the Union.

Upcoming Events

For a free hour of Leo Kottke music and a chance to win free tickets to his concert, listen to WCAR, 55.4M, from 10 p.m. on Tuesday.

The Veteran's Club will meet on Tuesday in Room 207 of the Union to finalize plans for the Spring Party.

The UNC Young Democrats Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday in Room 207 of the Union. All members who wish to attend the state YDC Convention should attend this meeting. Candidates for state YDC officers are scheduled to address the group.

It's not too late to learn the practical art of parliamentary procedure. This Symposium has been rescheduled for 4:30 p.m. on Tuesday afternoon, 300 How West (D-2) in the Cabarrus Student Center.

IRSS Short Course, "Introduction of Elementary 3900 Procedure (Session 1)," 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, 216 Murphree. Familiarity with SPSS is assumed.

"Career Opportunities to Scientific Careers" will be the topic of an informal career seminar sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Office at 3:30 p.m. on Tuesday in 216 Murphree Hall. Speakers include John Cropper, of the Environmental Protection Agency, Sally Quisenberry, of the Veterans Administration Hospital, and others.

"Career Opportunities Seminar" will be the topic of an informal career seminar sponsored by the Career Planning and Placement Office at 7 p.m. on Tuesday in 106 Murphree. Speakers include Jack Smith of Burlington Industries, and Kelly Bishop of North Carolina Memorial Hospital. All are welcome.

Next weekend is the last time that you can see the new $20 bill. For information call 853-4344 or come by the Federal Reserve Bank at 200 South Main Street, Room 202 of the Union.

IRSS Short Course, "Advanced APL Style and Techniques" (Session 2), 2 p.m. Wednesday, 142 Spangler. Familiarity with the material covered by Advanced APL Style and Techniques (Session 1) is assumed.

Persons interested in the film Concentration Camps are invited to attend a talk by Ursula Hagen at 7:30 p.m. in Room 202 of the Union. The film is titled Concentration Camps.

The Women's Economic Club will have its next meeting at 8 p.m. on Thursday at 10:00 p.m. in the Union. All women are invited to attend. Please attend.

Washington's eulogy reenacted

by Teddy Goldman
Staff Writer

With a stern face and sometimes somber, often raging voice, George Kennedy, Addison Professor of Classics, reenacted Sunday a eulogy for George Washington originally pronounced 176 years ago by the Rev. Joseph Caldwell.

A mathematics professor and later president of UNC, Caldwell delivered the half-hour eulogy on Washington in Person Hall Feb. 22, 1800 before an audience of over 30 students and professors. Washington had died one year earlier on Dec. 14, 1799.

February 22, Washington's birthday, was recently "appointed by the General Government to be celebrated throughout the United States in his memory."

The eulogy is based on the classical funeral oration as taught by the Greek rhetoricians. It is a fairly typical example (of this), Kennedy said. "It may be a somewhat staid, even a little bit of a rhetoric of the time was somewhat flamboyant anyway."

In the eulogy Washington is given sole credit for winning the Revolutionary War and saving the young republic. "It is to him that we owe the preservation of our national character," Caldwell wrote. "Let us weep my friends, for he is never to return."

Caldwell's tribute to Washington was well received, and Caldwell was asked by students to publish "a copy of the discourse."

Kennedy's re-enactment was preceded by a lecture by classical studies Prof. Meyer Reinhold, from the University of Missouri, Columbia. Reinhold spoke on The Use, Abuse and Disuse of Ancient History in 18th Century America.

Reinhold said that in 1795 "the study of ancient history was an integral part of the curriculum. No one questioned the value of a classical education.

"There were no formal courses in ancient history," Reinhold continued. "They (the students) got their history through direct reading of ancient historians."

He said, however, that the Constitutional Convention produced a great outpouring of classical analogies, many of which were false. Ideological factions used certain aspects of classical history to support their own contentions.

But Reinhold said that even though the "model of antiquity" had been replaced by the "model of antiquity," the need, during the revolutionary period, once the republic was established, to experience showed that classical ideals were not appropriate to the bustling dynamic world of the United States.

Brown: Campaign limits should go unchallenged

by Bob King
Staff Writer

Newly appointed Elections Board Chairman Craig Brown said Thursday that he does not expect any candidates to challenge the spending limits imposed on them by the elections laws.

Brown's comments came in the face of a U.S. Supreme Court decision earlier this month which declared provisions of a 1974 federal law forbidding candidates from spending more than $20 million in their presidential campaigns to be unconstitutional.

By a vote of 8-0, the justices said the spending limits constituted an unusual block to freedom of speech, guaranteed by the First Amendment.

At UNC, candidates for student body president and Daily Tar Heel editor can spend no more than $250; candidates for Carolina Athletic Association president and senior class officers, no more than $100; Campus Governing Council candidates, no more than $25. In the event of a runoff election, candidates can spend up to 50 percent above the original limits.

Student body presidential candidate David Williams dismissed as rumor reports that he would challenge the spending limits in Student Supreme Court. Williams said Sunday he would not challenge the rules, even if he failed to make the runoff election Wednesday.

Candidates who exceed the limits are fined half of the amount they go over. Thus, a candidate spent $100 more than allowed, he would pay a $50 fine. The penalty money would go into the Student Government General Fund.

Reinhold said that even though the "model of antiquity" had been replaced by the "model of antiquity," the need, during the revolutionary period, once the republic was established, to experience showed that classical ideals were not appropriate to the bustling dynamic world of the United States.

Reinhold said that in 1795 "the study of ancient history was an integral part of the curriculum. No one questioned the value of a classical education.

"There were no formal courses in ancient history," Reinhold continued. "They (the students) got their history through direct reading of ancient historians."

He said, however, that the Constitutional Convention produced a great outpouring of classical analogies, many of which were false. Ideological factions used certain aspects of classical history to support their own contentions.

But Reinhold said that even though the "model of antiquity" had been replaced by the "model of antiquity," the need, during the revolutionary period, once the republic was established, to experience showed that classical ideals were not appropriate to the bustling dynamic world of the United States.

Reinhold said that in 1795 "the study of ancient history was an integral part of the curriculum. No one questioned the value of a classical education.

"There were no formal courses in ancient history," Reinhold continued. "They (the students) got their history through direct reading of ancient historians."

He said, however, that the Constitutional Convention produced a great outpouring of classical analogies, many of which were false. Ideological factions used certain aspects of classical history to support their own contentions.

But Reinhold said that even though the "model of antiquity" had been replaced by the "model of antiquity," the need, during the revolutionary period, once the republic was established, to experience showed that classical ideals were not appropriate to the bustling dynamic world of the United States.

Reinhold said that in 1795 "the study of ancient history was an integral part of the curriculum. No one questioned the value of a classical education.

"There were no formal courses in ancient history," Reinhold continued. "They (the students) got their history through direct reading of ancient historians."

He said, however, that the Constitutional Convention produced a great outpouring of classical analogies, many of which were false. Ideological factions used certain aspects of classical history to support their own contentions.

But Reinhold said that even though the "model of antiquity" had been replaced by the "model of antiquity," the need, during the revolutionary period, once the republic was established, to experience showed that classical ideals were not appropriate to the bustling dynamic world of the United States.

Reinhold said that in 1795 "the study of ancient history was an integral part of the curriculum. No one questioned the value of a classical education.

"There were no formal courses in ancient history," Reinhold continued. "They (the students) got their history through direct reading of ancient historians."

He said, however, that the Constitutional Convention produced a great outpouring of classical analogies, many of which were false. Ideological factions used certain aspects of classical history to support their own contentions.

But Reinhold said that even though the "model of antiquity" had been replaced by the "model of antiquity," the need, during the revolutionary period, once the republic was established, to experience showed that classical ideals were not appropriate to the bustling dynamic world of the United States.

Reinhold said that in 1795 "the study of ancient history was an integral part of the curriculum. No one questioned the value of a classical education.

"There were no formal courses in ancient history," Reinhold continued. "They (the students) got their history through direct reading of ancient historians."

He said, however, that the Constitutional Convention produced a great outpouring of classical analogies, many of which were false. Ideological factions used certain aspects of classical history to support their own contentions.

But Reinhold said that even though the "model of antiquity" had been replaced by the "model of antiquity," the need, during the revolutionary period, once the republic was established, to experience showed that classical ideals were not appropriate to the bustling dynamic world of the United States.

Reinhold said that in 1795 "the study of ancient history was an integral part of the curriculum. No one questioned the value of a classical education.

"There were no formal courses in ancient history," Reinhold continued. "They (the students) got their history through direct reading of ancient historians."

"Oh, no. . ."

He did it.

Guess which wise guy printed all nine questions Chapel Hill's bike dealers hoped Chapel Hill's bike shoppers wouldn't ask in the Daily Tar Heel today.

You know most bike dealers tell you much the same things. How do you tell them apart? It isn't easy, unless you ask the right questions.

1. How much confidence have you in your bikes? How long have you been selling that brand, because if you change brands frequently, what was wrong with the one I might have bought before? (Avoid "Bike of the Month Club" dealers.)
2. Are you really into bikes, or could you just as easily run a McDonald's? (Bikes are our way of life. No other dealer has a running bike repair shop, and ours is free.)
3. How's your customer loyalty? Are most of your customers "one shot business," or do they keep coming back for checkups or repairs and what do they send their friends?
4. Have your customers ever sent you Christmas cards? (Our bikes are seriously.)
5. Do you fix bikes, or do you just replace parts. (We fix them.)
6. Is your repair room a house of mystery, or can I wander around back there to watch what you're doing? (Our repair room has big windows.)
7. Should I feel embarrassed if I want my inexpensive bike fixed?
8. Do you really care about what kind of bike you sell, or just how much? (We've turned down major brand bikes for ones we have confidence in.)
9. Are you heavy on flash? (We're pretty unslick ourselves. Ours is the bike business, not show business.)

TUMBLEWEED CYCLERY
WE'RE DIFFERENT IN A NUMBER OF IMPORTANT WAYS.

Bacso Elected Back Editor

George Bacso, a sophomore in the College of Arts and Sciences, has been elected editor of the Daily Tar Heel back editor. Bacso received eight votes out of the 12. Two other candidates were in the running.

Presently the features editor of the Daily Tar Heel, Bacso has also worked as assistant managing editor and as a news and features writer for the DTH.

He also assisted the editor of the 1975 Yack in the final photo selections and layout.

PAPERBACK BOOK SALE!

New batch, half-price. At both stores.

Intimate Bookshop

Downtown and University Mall

RESEARCH

Write or call for information. Research papers, theses, dissertations, and more. Call 853-4344.

Briefs

ASHLEFLE - An earthen dam perched on a steep hillside and set a wall of water behind it, the Newfound dam, 100 feet high, killed four people and injured many in their sleep early Sunday morning.

On Sunday morning, evacuated about 100 homes below the 75-foot dam and a 50-foot portion tipped away.

The area of the structure holding the water behind it might give way.

State officials said preliminary reports showed about 25 of the homes, mostly trailers, were damaged by water from the lake rolled over them without warning about 10:30 p.m.

Other reports of injuries, including one to a National Guard helicopter were being received as search for other possible victims.

There were reports officials said, that campers may have been hit the area 15 miles west of Asheville near the Booneville-Haywood County line.

Crews worked to master the slide and to open a drain valve in the lake in an attempt to take pressure off the 50-foot tall structure that lost about 15 feet of its upper level.

Primary called secondary

WASHINGTON - Primary elections usually were a primary election, a choice of Presidential candidates, but in the last 40 years, according to a study by the Brookings Institution, they have become a secondary election.

Political scientists William R. Kenzler and Donald R. Matthews said the trend began before state primaries began to get underway in 1960.

Asheville dam ruptures; wall of water kills four

Budget

Continued from page 1

Now has a "good faith offer" from the House to cooperate on budget cuts that can be made by the executive and legislative branches.

State Budget Director Ken Howard said Monday that he has a "good faith offer" from the House to cooperate on budget cuts that can be made by the executive and legislative branches.

Howard said the House has offered to cut $100 million from the state budget over the next three years. The House also has offered to cut $100 million from the state budget over the next three years.

Howard said the House has offered to cut $100 million from the state budget over the next three years. The House also has offered to cut $100 million from the state budget over the next three years.

WEIL LECTURE 1976

Eugene D. Genovese

Noted Liberal Historian

Author of The Political Economy of Slavery and Roll, Jordan, Roll

Topic: "Slavery in Modern World Politics"

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 26

8:00 p.m.

Memorial Hall

Zoom Zoom SPECIALS

LUNCHEON SPECIALS
11:45-2:30 Mon.-Fri., $1.37 plate $1.70 w. soup & salad

MONDAY: ROAST BEEF
2 vegetables, delicious homemade soup, fresh salad, French bread.

TUESDAY: BAKED CHICKEN
2 vegetables, delicious homemade soup, fresh salad, French bread.

WEDNESDAY: CHEESE BURGER STEAK
2 vegetables, delicious homemade soup, fresh salad, French bread.

THURSDAY: COUNTRY STYLE STEAK
2 vegetables, delicious homemade soup, fresh salad, French bread.

FRIDAY: ROAST BEEF ON BUN
2 vegetables, delicious homemade soup, fresh salad, French bread.

EARLY BIRD SPECIALS
4:45-7:00 p.m.

MONDAY: FRIED CHICKEN
tossed salad, bread - $1.65

TUESDAY: SPAGHETTI (meat)
salad, bread - $1.70

WEDNESDAY: BARBECUE CHICKEN
salad, bread - $1.80

THURSDAY: 1/4 POUND HAMBURGER STEAK
BAKED POTATO & SALAD - $2.15

CLASSIFIEDS

LaCoste

Quality clothing, shoes, accessories. Men's, women's, and children's. Call 853-4344.

FOR SALE

1968 Buick Grand Sport, red with black vinyl top. 100,000 miles, $600. Call 857-5367 after 4 p.m. All day 853-4344.

FOR RENT

FOR MARIED STUDENTS - Odum Village Apartments available for immediate occupancy. Convenient and inexpensive. Call or call the Married Student Housing Office, 993-1101.

HELP WANTED

Part-time position available immediately for female student at The Red McCoy in South Square Mall. Must be able to work through summer. Apply between 10-4.

MISCELLANEOUS

Student wanted for general house and yard work. $2.50 in Write-402 Morgan Creek Road, Chapel Hill.

Volunteers wanted for psychology experiment involving treatment for men who feel uncomfortable in social situations with women. Call Psychology Department, 933-6593.

PART-TIME AND SUMMER JOB OPPORTUNITIES IN SALES - College students training program starts soon. Income potential of $400 to $1500 per month. Opening in Chapel Hill and Durham. Apply Suite 601 NML West, 143 W. Franklin Street, between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Married couples with no children. Interested working with young people? We are presently interviewing for live-in house parents at our residential campus. Good salary, on and off-duty housing provided, medical insurance and 3 weeks paid vacation. One spouse can hold another job or attend school. Call Raleigh, 832-2835.

STEREO REPAIRS - Fast, professional, and guaranteed service on all stereo components. John Florence, 10-6 Monday-Friday, 16-2 Saturday, 823-2841.

MISCELLANEOUS

LOST - Gold chain with seven pearls. Great condition. If found, please call 853-3543. Reward offered.

LOST - Yellow and black necktie. Found in the vicinity of the Union. Franklin or Cameron Streets along Columbia. Reward offered.